Piano for Truman

Nixon Heals a Wound

WASHINGTON (AP) — A grand piano has turned out to be the unlikely peace symbol that has ended one of the nation's nastiest political feuds—the split between President Nixon and Harry S. Truman.

Over the years, charges of treason, cronyism and political ineptness by Nixon and threats of physical reprisals by Truman have marked relations between the two—with playing the piano the only apparent common point of interest.

Nixon moved to heal the breach when he scheduled a stop today on his trip to California for a visit at the 84-year-old former president's Independence, Mo., home. The chief executive took along the White House piano often used by Truman as a gift.

As a coming Republican congressman in the years after World War II who built a political name as a Red hunter, Nixon was never close to the Democratic president.

Any ties between the two came to an end in 1952 when Nixon, running as the GOP vice presidential candidate, charged the retiring president with coddling Communists in the government.

Truman and other Democratic leaders were "traitors to the high principles in which many of the nation's Democrats believe," Nixon charged.

"Awfullest Thing"

Truman reacted angrily to what he considered an attack on his patriotism. He was quoted as calling Nixon an SOB and once said he never wanted to see Nixon because "it would just start a fight. That's the awfullest thing a man can be called—a traitor. When I get started on that, I don't want to swear, I want to punch someone."

Their paths have seldom crossed since. They last met at a Washington dinner in 1964.

The rest of Nixon's time after arriving in California late today included a helicopter tour of the Santa Barbara beaches despoiled by an oil slick from a runaway offshore well.

Saturday Nixon and his wife Pat will go to the San Juan Capistrano Mission famed for its annual springtime visitation by swallows.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler left open the possibility Nixon might do some house hunting while on the West Coast.

"The President is looking for a home in this general area of California," Ziegler said. The President wants to establish a summer White House in the vicinity of San Clemente, where he will spend the weekend.

NASA Chief Tells Plans For Future

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — If the first manned lunar landing comes off as planned in July, a space official says, it will be followed up by a series of others for "a sum total of 10 voyages to the surface of the moon."

Dr. Thomas O. Paine, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, told the Air Force Association convention Thursday:

"If we do make the first touchdown this summer, we'll follow that with three similar voyages, each time increasing the scientific equipment."

Each of the first four moon landings, he said, would leave equipment to measure lunar surface disturbances and to reflect laser beams back to Earth.

The six later landings, he said, could be set up in areas of the most significant interest and could include overland exploration.

"We're talking here really about man's conquest of the seventh continent," he said, noting that the moon has about the area of North and South America.

Paine said the second decade of space exploration which began this year would include a number of probes of Earth's sister planets.

Two probes, one launched last month and the other due to leave next week, will orbit Mars and send back to Earth television pictures of that planet. They also will transmit temperatures, examine the Martian atmospheres and measure light radiation.

"We hope to get a fairly definitive idea as to whether or not conditions on Mars are such that life might exist," Paine said.

Mars orbiters also will be launched in 1971 and two unmanned landings will be attempted in 1973.

During the 1977 to 1979 period, Paine said, it will be possible to launch an unmanned probe which will make "a grand tour" of four planets, using the gravitational pull of each to speed toward the next.

The planets then will be in a lineup that will not occur again in 170 years.

The lineup, said Paine, "will allow us first to go past the gravity field of Jupiter, then swing out past Saturn, then to Uranus and to Neptune."

The voyage would take nine years, he said, and would have to be nuclear powered "to complete the journey and send back the information."

Enemy Pushes Offensive

U.S. Bases Hit Heavily

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese smashed at American bases with renewed fury today, hitting them with rockets, mortars and infantry assaults that caused serious casualties and losses of aircraft, vehicles and fuel.

In one of the heaviest series of blows since the opening of the spring offensive 27 nights ago, enemy rockets and mortars hit 65 allied bases and towns, and infantry assaults ripped into three of the bases.

It was the largest number of attacks since last Friday, when 70 bases and towns were hit.

All of the enemy infantry attacks were on American bases along the northwest approaches to Saigon, between 31 and 51 miles from the capital. Twelve Americans were killed and 47 wounded, while known enemy losses were 38 dead, U.S. spokesmen said.

Ten of the Americans were killed and 28 were wounded in one attack on an artillery base.

Spokesmen said only five enemy bodies were found after an estimated 400 North Vietnamese attacked the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division's Fire Support Base White behind a 150-round mortar barrage. However, the Americans said many blood trails and drag marks were found, indicating the enemy took a number of wounded and dead with them when they pulled back toward the Cambodian border at daybreak.

The attack began shortly before 3 a.m. when mortars, bazooka-type rockets and small arms hit the American camp 50 miles northwest of Saigon.

250 American troops called for help, hurriedly donned their gas masks as the North Vietnamese fired tear gas grenades, and turned the base's eight 105mm and 155mm guns on the enemy positions.

Helicopter gunships fired rockets as one of the camp's guns illuminated the enemy batteries with flares.

All the Americans killed were victims of the bombardment. Six were members of a mortar platoon trying to hit the enemy mortars. The other four were riflemen in a bunker that took a direct hit.

Two infantry assaults were made on the south and east sides of the base within 90 minutes, but they were small, officers said. Thirty enemy troops were repulsed in the first thrust, while 15 to 20 North Vietnamese failed to find an opening in the second assault.

Only 12 of the 28 Americans wounded had to be evacuated. The rest were treated and returned to duty.

The base is one of four artillery and patrol camps along the southern edge of the Viet Cong's war zone which impeded the enemy approach to Saigon from the northwest.

White Base is just north of the Michelin rubber plantation where more than 10,000 American troops and scores of tanks are trying to root out an estimated 7,500 North Vietnamese threatening Saigon. U.S. intelligence officers said the purpose of the attack on the base apparently was to tie down the artillery batteries while North Vietnamese troops tried to maneuver away from American ground forces closing on them.

Majority Escape

AP photographer Horst Faas reported from the area that the bulk of the North Vietnamese believed to have been in the Michelin plantation area apparently had escaped to the north and east.

Only one major contact was reported today in the big U.S. counteroffensive, known as Operation Atlas Wedge. Troops of Col. George S. Patton's 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment and men of the 1st Air Cavalry Division fought a day-long battle 45 miles northwest of Saigon Thursday, and killed at least 72 North Vietnamese, U.S. headquarters said.

Killed in Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Wisconsin servicemen were listed by the Defense Department Thursday as having been killed in Vietnam.

They were:

Army Spec. 4 Lyle C. Hansbrough, son of Helen E. Hansbrough of Madison; Army Spec. 4 John L. Rueth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Rueth of rural Loyal; Marine Pfc. Verdon D. Jacobs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd D. Jacobs, rural Galesville.

California Meetings

President, Bunker to Confer On U.S. Troop Withdrawals

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is expected to seek from Ellsworth Bunker in consultations starting this weekend the ambassador's views on how soon South Vietnam may be politically and militarily strong enough to permit the withdrawal of some U.S. troops.

The question is one of several major issues believed certain to come up after Nixon and his chief foreign policy advisers meet Bunker and Gen. Andrew J. Goodpastor at San Clemente, Calif., Sunday morning.

Goodpastor, the No. 2 U.S. military man in South Vietnam, is on his way to take over as NATO commander in Europe.

Nixon's advisers in the talks that will continue on the flight back to Washington Sunday afternoon and into next week will be Secretary of State William P.

Rogers and presidential assistant Henry A. Kissinger.

Nixon already has the views on U.S. troop reduction of his secretary of defense, Melvin R. Laird, who made a war-zone inspection last week. Laird said publicly that he saw no prospect for early withdrawals.

The consultations will give

U. S. Has 'An Alternative'

Laird Hints at War Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird pledged today that if the Paris peace talks fail to end the conflict in Vietnam, "We will have an alternative as far as the war is concerned other than the present conduct."

He did not say what that alternative would be.

Laird made that statement after Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., shifted the course of a Senate hearing away from the hotly contested antiballistic missile (ABM) system with a critique of Nixon administration handling of the Vietnam war.

Fulbright said the question of armaments and their control is linked with that of the Southeast Asian conflict.

"Isn't it possible, Mr. Secretary, to realize that we are not now and never have been winning this war?" he asked Laird.

"If this administration continues and escalates this war in Vietnam, it will soon be Mr Nixon's war," the senator said. "I would just like to say that this administration is committed to end the war in Vietnam."

Laird said, "We are presently engaged in very important peace talks in Paris."

Then he declared:

"I want you to know that we are hopeful that we will be successful in the talks . . . but if we are not successful, and we pray for success, I can assure you that we will have an alternative as far as the war is concerned other than the present conduct of that war."

Laird denied that the administration dropped the old Sentinel missile defense project because of public protests, insisting that the change came "because we have a better system."

Laird said discussion of a shift from city defenses to the Safeguard system, President Nixon's plan to defend U.S. offensive nuclear bases with antiballistic missiles (ABMs), was under way even before the public protests against deployment near Boston, Chicago and Seattle.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., told Laird it appeared to him the protests had led to re-examination of the missile defense program and the shift to "a completely different mission."

Only Coincidental

But Laird, defending the administration plan before members of a critical Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee, said the public protests were only coincidental.

"Is it or isn't it true that just six weeks ago the government was proceeding to install the old Sentinel system?" Fulbright asked.

"That is true," Laird said. "I would like to say they were stopped because we have a better system."

Furthermore, Laird said, the Sentinel deployment, launched by former President Lyndon B. Johnson "was potentially provocative" because it was designed to protect cities.

"As such it appeared to us to be a step toward, rather than away from, an escalation of the arms race," he said.

Another critic of the new ABM system, Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., told Laird his system was "a defense in search of a mission." And he said the mission had not been discovered.

Gore said: "It is my serious conviction that the program which you recommend would further endanger our security. It would make an armament limitation agreement more difficult, if not impossible to obtain, and thus ultimately could degrade our deterrent."

Laird, fresh from two days of testimony in favor of the Safeguard ABM system in the friendly confines of the Senate Armed Services Committee, thus encountered immediate resistance in the Foreign Relations subcommittee dominated by AMB opponents

In fact, as the subcommittee hearing opened, the only senators present were Gore, J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., Frank Church, D-Idaho and Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., all ABM opponents.

Gore issued a lengthy critique of Laird's testimony Thursday and said "it has been well said that this ABM system is a defense in search of a mission. We have heard every possible kind of argument for it and many of these are contradictory."

"Our real security rests in stopping the nuclear armament race, and not in promoting it," the Tennessee Democrat added, saying the subcommittee is interested in knowing why a promised disarmament talk with the Soviets has not yet started.

One of the few rough spots Laird had before the Armed

Senate to Rule on 'Ham What Am'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Cook, a Baker and a Byrd are on the outs about hams, and they're asking the Senate to settle the dispute.

These aren't the political kind of hams, however—they're cured country hams from Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia.

The squabble started when Sen. Marlow W. Cook, R-Ky., wrote to Sens. Howard Baker Jr., R-Tenn., and Harry Byrd, D-Va., claiming that Kentucky country hams are better than their Tennessee and Virginia competitors.

Cook, predicting "the winner must assuredly be Kentucky country ham," suggested that each senator take some of his state's best hams to the Senate chef—along with personal cooking hints—to be served to the entire Senate as a team of judges.

Baker said he hated to "reveal the inadequacy of the Kentucky and Virginia hams," but accepted the challenge.

"Everyone knows," he added, "that the rich, red Tennessee ham is the best in the country and that red-eye gravy originated in Tennessee when connoisseurs tired of the dull, brown broth produced by Virginia and Kentucky ham."

Byrd was equal to the challenge, too.

"I have thrown down my gauntlet," he said in a letter to Cook. "You will find it in the Senate chef's kitchen. I will shortly replace the glove with a Virginia ham—the best what am"

Baker had referred to the stately competition as ham fry, to which Cook retorted: "Whoever said this is going to be a ham fry? Is frying a Tennessee ham the only way you can get rid of its onus? This is ham bake, Baker."

There was no word as to when the Senate was going to settle the issue, but a ham dinner may be in the offing soon.

'Too Many' Soviets Still Go to Church

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Communists were told today that too many people—including some card-carrying party members—are still going to church.

"Every Communist is a fighting atheist," or at least he should be, the party Central Committee newspaper Sovietskaya Rossiya declared in a front-page editorial.

The newspaper criticized party officials who have ignored the fact that many party members are also having their children baptized.

"All this is going on despite the fact that K. Marx says religion is the opiate of the people, a reactionary force and holds back the development of society," the editorial said.

Communists were advised to try to substitute modern new civil rituals for the old religious rites that accompany baptism, marriage and birthdays.

"There are many cases where Soviet holidays and ceremonies are monotonous, boring and old-fashioned," the editorial said.

Home-Buying Costs Go Up, Up and Away

NEW YORK (AP) — If you plan to buy a house this spring, forget about last year's prices and don't laugh when the salesman tells you "this place is a steal at $40,000."

Higher interest charges on mortgages, higher taxes and insurance and rising costs of lumber and other materials have sent house prices skyrocketing. More increases are in prospect.

"Costs have gone up 10 per cent in the last year," said Milton Brock of M.J. Brock & Sons, Los Angeles builder.

Bernard Janis, president of Janis Corp., of Miami, Fla., estimated the cost of a $30,000 home has risen 20 per cent in the past year and will rise 10 per cent more to about $39,500 in the next six months.

"The cost of lumber rose 50 per cent in the past six months," he said. "Why? Who's the one pushing it up? Most of our lumber comes from the big Douglas fir mills on the West Coast, and they're selling to the government and Japan at inflated prices. We've got to pay their prices to get the materials we need."

Advance Mortgage Corp. of Detroit said in its semiannual survey that today's house buyer will pay, compared with a year ago, an average 10 per cent price increase, a 1½ per cent rise in interest rate and 5 per cent increase in taxes and insurance.

"And," the company said, "he'll have a hard time finding the same house. Builders keep

Spring! What a wonderful ring there is to that word. Neither blowing snow nor gray skies can stop the sun from shining in our minds these first days of spring. Somehow, it signals pictures of green grass, budding trees, lighter weight clothing and warmer weather. Thoughts turn, too, to the first tulip and the first crocus pushing its way through the soft soil.

John Lennon Marries Japanese Mistress

LONDON (AP) — Beatle John Lennon married his Japanese mistress, Yoko Ono, in a civil ceremony Thursday in Gibraltar, the Beatles' office announced. It was the second marriage for both and the second for the Beatles in eight days. Paul McCartney married an American divorcee, Linda Eastman, in London March 12.

Lennon and Yoko Ono went to Paris Monday and flew to Gibraltar Wednesday night. A representative of Apple, the Beatles' company, said she believed the only two witnesses at the wedding were Peter Brown, personal assistant to the Beatles, and Thomas Nutter, a Savile Row tailor.

To Return to Paris She said she believed Lennon and his bride would return to Paris and stay there for awhile. Lennon, 28, and Miss Ono, a 34-year-old sculptress, have been living together for months. He said some time ago they would marry as soon as they were free to do so.

She was still the wife of American film maker Tony Cox when she was named as co-respondent in a divorce action by Lennon's British wife, Cynthia, last year.

Lennon and Miss Ono announced last October that they were expecting a child in February. It was a difficult pregnancy and she entered a London hospital on Nov. 4. Four days later Lennon's wife was granted a divorce, and on Nov. 21 Miss Ono lost the baby.

Put Seasonings In Cheesecloth Bag

In making a meat stew, you may want to put the seasonings in a small cheesecloth bag for easy removal. Such seasonings might consist of a leafy celery top, parsley sprigs, thyme sprigs, peppercorns, a halved clove of garlic and a few whole cloves and allspice berries.

Your Problems

Mom Stops Nagging; Girl Loses Weight

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I sounded like a broken phonograph record and I hated it. I read your answer to "Stymied Mother." You told her to get off Isabelle's back and I hope she listens.

I used to be a fat and unhappy 16-year-old and my mother nagged me just the way Stymied Mother is nagging Isabelle. The more my mother harped the more I ate. She used to sneak food into my room to spite her.

One day my mother went to school at the request of the guidance counselor. I don't know what they talked about but from that day on my mother never mentioned my weight.

Within six months I lost 35 pounds. I not only look like a different person but I feel like a different person.

One day my mother went to school at the request of the guidance counselor. I don't know what they talked about but from that day on my mother never mentioned my weight.

Tickets may be purchased at the door or from members.

Junior Woman's Rummage Sale To be April 10-11

"Electronic Cooking — Minutes, Not Hours" was the subject of a talk given by Miss Mary Beth Kuester to members of the Appleton Junior Woman's Club at their annual potluck supper Tuesday evening at the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. Chairmen was Mrs. Jack Close, assisted by Mrs. Douglas Foth, Mrs. Angus McIntyre, Mrs. Glenn Miller and Mrs. James Parker.

Home Life chairman, Mrs. Wayne Steinberg, announced that the National Foundation booklet on birth defects for Operation Healthy Baby had been distributed to the Medical Arts Clinic and Doctors Park. She also announced the teen-age panel discussion to be given by the Family Life Division will be April 9 at the home of Mrs. David Weiland. Subject matter will include allowances, drinking, dating, morals and the generation gap.

Mrs. Andrew Foate and Mrs. Ronald Steindorf, co-chairmen, announced final plans for the rummage sale to be April 10 and 11 at All Saints Episcopal Church.

Thoroughly Cooked Poultry Can be Pink

The color of cooked meat and poultry isn't always a sign of doneness, reports Miss Jean Gusti, home economics agent, Calumet County, Turkey, fresh pork or veal will occasionally remain pink when thoroughly cooked. There may be a pink colored rim extending about a half inch into the cooked meat. The meat of young poultry and birds shows the most pink color, because it lacks the shield of a fat covering that prevents a chemical reaction.

Scientists say that the pink color is caused by the same reason that a red color develops during cooking of cured ham or corned beef. Pinkness occurs when meat or poultry is exposed to certain gaseous substances, such as carbon monoxide and nitric oxide, which are formed in either a gas or electric oven. These gases combine with the hemoglobin in the meat tissues to form a heat-stable pink color.

If whatever tests you use for doneness indicate the meat is cooked, and yet the meat is pink, you may assume that chemical changes have taken place. Stop cooking and enjoy the meat.

NEW WAY TO BE SUDDENLY SLIM FOR EASTER

Los Angeles:—Are you a woman whose figure is on the good side but might look perfect? You'll be thrilled by the new easy way science has discovered for you to become Suddenly Slim and yet completely comfortable. If you're more than 15 pounds overweight or your waistline is larger than 32 inches, then this idea is not for you. If your weight problem falls within this range, then you can realize a new, smoother figure today, without diet or exercise.

Suddenly Slim is an all-new kind of 4-oz. girdle constructed of science fibers. One startling innovation is the sheer nylon front panel. This is permanently stiffened by a science process and cannot give or sag. It's surrounded by a slimming action border. A featherstitched panel down each side of this girdle will contour your hips if they are a problem.

The girdle itself is of a "wonder" Lycra spandex blend. It's a new power net consisting of nylon, acetate and spandex. It is so comfortable, but has such slimming strength, it gives your figure everything that's possible with a foundation.

"Suddenly Slim," in both girdle and panty versions, is the peak achievement of the California designer-genius, Olga. They are available at H. C. Prange Company and other stores with fashion spirit.

Fashion Leads Way Toward Fragrance

After a decade in which clothes became costumes, and wore their wearers, fashion has righted itself again. Spring clothes are meltingly soft, relaxed and casual. Since those have always been the words to describe the American woman at her very best, Spring '69 figures to be one of the happiest, prettiest seasons in years.

Within the framework of all his new freedom, there's plenty of room for a girl in the Fox Valley to find her special look, come Easter Sunday and all the warm, wonderful days thereafter.

Perhaps the most important beauty and fashion aids for a glorious spring will be the accessories chosen for a special look. Long floaty scarves, inks of chains, body jewelry, and bright-tinted shoes all can give very different looks to the same classic white shirt-vest dress. And, of course, the clearest way to make her own special beauty and fashion point is the one that girls have always used — that of a special fragrance. Here, then, are several succinct suggestions for underscoring your fashion image for Spring '69, from a perfume manufacturer.

The blazer is alive and well and topping all the most sportive fashions — the knife-pleated skirts, the creamy silk shirts, the straight-line trousers. The long silk muffler you bought to accent it might be tied around the neck. The fragrance you buy to wear with it should have woody notes.

Your vested interest in fashion this spring may range from a little short-stop sleeveless jacket all the way down to sleeveless coat length. That's how wide-ranging vests have become. A vest can snap up a shirtdress, slip over a related skirt and sweater so that all three suddenly become something sensational, or stretch into a cardigan coat over shirt and pants. All the vest-dressed girls will want to try a snappy, bright fragrance with a golden-amber-v note that's light as a sunbeam.

Prints Hug Body

Soft, silky prints of spring hug the body gracefully, are often accented with a chiffon scarf tied round the neck in an unexpectedly contrasting color. If ever there were a girl who personified the phrase, "fashion is meant to delight, not to inform," it's the whimsical creature who puts herself together in this way. She underscores her effect with a subtle, flowers-and-woods scent with a secret message as winning as her own.

The shirtwaist is not one dress — it's a way of life. Its open-necked collar, free-form sleeves tightly clasped at the wrist, softly tied waistline appear in the most beautifully cut evening clothes, the most classic crepe pyjamas, the most ubiquitous shirtwaist dress. A legend that is happily resurrected so that every generation can select its flattery for its own purposes deserves an underscoring perfume as classic as itself. In this case a bright modern blend with a casual air.

Soft stuff might be the way to describe another look for Spring '69. The crepes, voiles, jerseys in confection colors of lilac, apricot, mauve, jonquil, white worn, always, by the girls who knew they're girls and never let anyone forget it. Their hair is the longest, softest; their figures are there; and they've remembered how to flirt. Their fragrance? Rich, warm, lightly spicy

Heeding Better Than Speeding for Label Reading

Have you joined America's popular new educational trend... speed reading?

Whether or not you decide to increase your ability to read fast, keep in mind there are times when reading accurately is more important than reading speedily.

One such time is when you read the label on a medicine container, says the Council on Family Health. Taking or giving medicine is so important to the health and safety of you and your family that you should understand the directions you are reading, and then double check yourself.

If you want to measure how well you understand what you read, test yourself by reading a medicine label in your home, says the Council, a non-profit organization sponsored as a public service by leading members of the drug industry.

Did you note the amount of medicine to be taken? Does the dosage vary for adults and children? How often should the medicine be taken?

If a liquid, should you shake the container well before pouring? Is it for external or internal use?

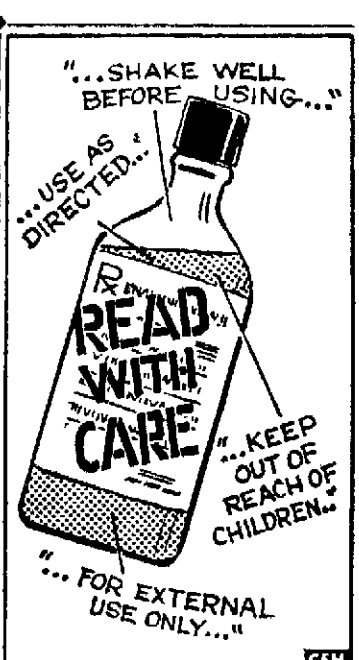

Does the label state the purpose of the medicine?

Are there instructions for proper storage... such as "Keep in a cool place." Should you take the medicine before or after eating?

Are there cautions as to certain activities that should be curtailed or discontinued while using the medicine?

Not all medicine labels contain all of the information listed above, but all information on each label is important.

Heeding rather than speeding is the watchword when reading directions for the use of medicine, says the Council on Family Health.

Variety of Accessories Available for Easter Garb

What does the phrase, "In your Easter Bonnet," bring to mind? The Easter parade and its breezes, of course, when it unites hop along the promenade and the thoughts of most kids turn to smart new wardrobes and accessories.

For those contemplating shopping sprees it's good to remember that the most carefully selected garment could prove a faster if no thought is given to accessories.

"Jewelry, gloves, scarves, is as well as shoes, handbags and hats create the all-around picture, and it must be harmonious," says Violet Hackim, a national variety store chain coordinator.

Fashionful costume jewelry can be the tone of any outfit. It is acceptable today and need not be expensive if it is well selected, "cavalcade of color," being offered, she added.

Fashionable for spring are necklaces, novelty watchropes, enameled pins and angle bracelets, as well as beaded and pierced-look earrings. The beaded necklaces, for instance, come in spring colors. They make attractive, informal, yet jewelry that can be worn with great variety, "mixing or matching." Wearing several novelty or costume rings at one time is quite the "in" thing, too.

A new collection of sheer tights is now available. "They're really being uptight about legs," said Miss Hackim. A seamless mesh demi-toe hosiery comes in suntime, etone, cinnamon, taupe, white and navy.

Fashion dictates coordination of hosiery to either blend or contrast with your outfit. With a black or beige dress, for example, you may choose either a neutral or gray stocking — a contrasting color is fine, too. However, be certain shoes match dress or accessories.

Colorful twill print scarves and veil hats will "go to your head" when you see them. The selection is wide. Scarves can also be used to highlight a neckline, encircle a waist, or brighten a handbag. They come in geometric paisley or polka prints. A wide selection of scarf holders and pins also are available. The veil hats are wispy and intriguing. Chenille dots, velvet appliques or bows decorate the veils. The little princess in your domain hasn't been forgotten. For little girls and teens clip bandeaus of nylon ruching with floral wreath and cluster trims on plastic clips also are available.

Rich-grained, soft vinyl handbags in spring colors come in a variety of styles: shoulder bags, luggage-look casuals and formal.

The well-shot look can be yours. Among the shoes available is the "Wishbone" pump so popular this season. This mini-heeled beauty can bring a fashionable Easter look.

The all-important gloves complete the Easter picture. Shorty, medium and long length gloves come in a variety of fashion colors.

Fashion is dictating the out front red, white and blue "Americana look" that leads the parade this year in all accessories and wearing apparel.

"The prices for the accessories belie their appearance," points out Miss Hackim, "but the we cost will not keep you from being one of the best-attired ladies in the Easter parade with a little thoughtful consideration when shopping."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 20-year-old gal who is flustered easily. When I'm ill at ease (which is often) my hands get ice cold and clammy as the dickens. This usually happens when I meet new people I try to avoid shaking hands, which gives the impression I'm unfriendly. Help me, please — Drippy Mitts

Dear Drippy: Have you tried an anti-perspirant? This is not the same as a deodorant. If the anti-perspirant doesn't work, wear white silk or nylon wrist-length gloves. Gloves will give you confidence, reduce your anxiety and diminish the clamminess.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Thanks for advising that woman who signed herself "Stuck at Home" to learn how to drive. I'm sorry you didn't add, "But, this. Care should be taken to dispose of old leftover prescriptions that tend to accumulate during the year, as well as any bottles or tubes on which the label can no longer be clearly read. Put medicinals and other potentially dangerous items on high shelves, out of the reach of children."

To properly treat most minor injuries incurred in the home, first aid authorities say our medicine chest should include these basic items: gauze bandages, non-stick pads and adhesive tape to dress abrasions and burns; a good antiseptic first aid cream; sterile absorbent cotton; a supply of adhesive bandages for small nicks and cuts; spirits of ammonia ampules; and a universal antidote for poisoning emergencies.

An ample supply of these basics — enough to protect the average family for a full year — should cost about $4, certainly a modest sum to invest in your family's well-being.

Happy spring cleaning — and don't forget the medicine chest!

I realized this was crazy, so I forced myself to enroll in a drivers' school. My brothers were furious. "Why spend money on school?" they screamed, when they could see me in a car with friends and look a bus or walked everywhere. I was scared out of my wits by the traffic, refused to ride in a car with friends and took a bus or walked everywhere.

Cultivate Simplicity At Bridge

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

"Some performers admire technique for its own sake," an eminent violinist remarked recently. "They execute brilliant tricks where the music calls for absolute simplicity, and they expect a pat on the back when what they really deserve is a kick somewhat lower down." I hated to admit that the same ailment afflicts some of our best bridge players.

When today's hand was played in a recent tournament, East took the ace of diamonds and returned the nine of diamonds. South, a rather flamboyant young man, took a finesse with the jack of diamonds.

South didn't really expect the finesse to win, but he thought that West might foolishly lead the suit back, and this would give him a free finesse with the K-8 of diamonds. South kept a straight face, but he could hardly keep from chuckling with admiration of his own cleverness.

West knew all about South's cleverness and managed to resist the temptation to lead another diamond. Instead, West shifted to the queen of spades.

This was the killing defense. South had to lose the heart finesse, and then the opponents would defeat the contract with a total of two spade tricks, two diamonds and one heart. South had given the opponents time to beat him.

The winning line of play was simplicity itself. South should take the king of diamonds at the second trick and should lead hearts at once. Even though the finesse loses, South is sure of four hearts, one spade, one diamond and three clubs.

If East can lead another diamond when he is in with the king of hearts, the defenders can get a total of three diamond tricks, but they need four diamonds to defeat the contract.

Electric Jack Makes Tire Changing Easier

A flat tire on the family car while rushing to complete a busy schedule of errands can be a frustrating experience for today's homemaker.

Modern technology has come to the rescue — at least to the extent of taking much of the manual labor out of changing a tire.

A new electrically-driven auto bumper jack, designed for easy operation by the "family chauffeur," features a finger-tip, push button control and raises a car in one-and-a-half minutes.

The unit can be plugged into a car's cigarette lighter and uses less power than a car's horn.

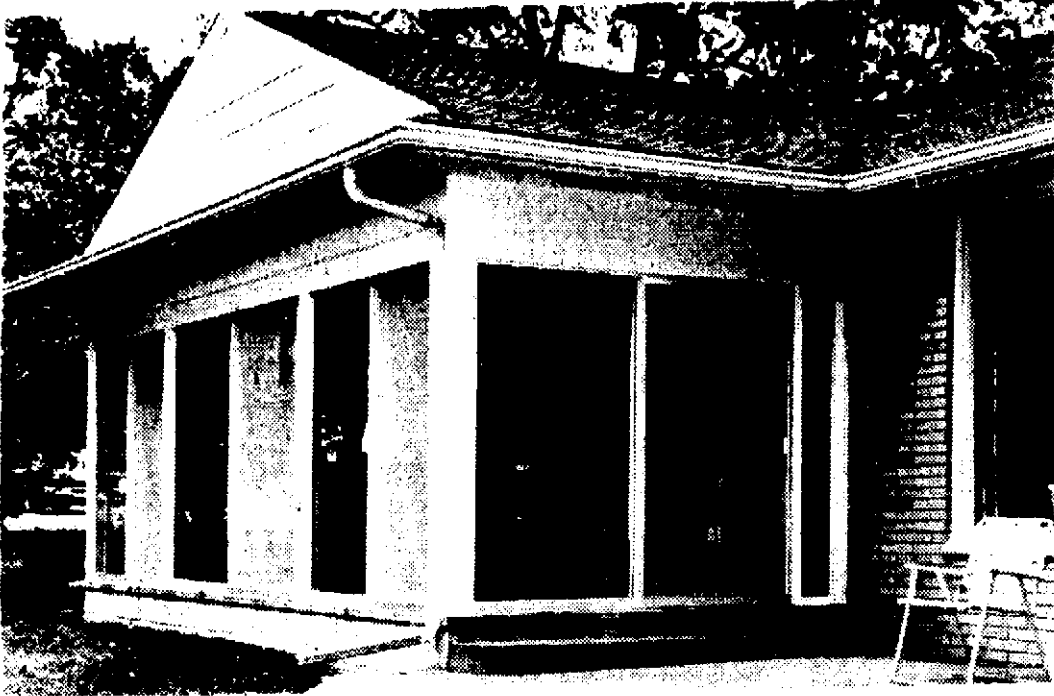

When the car is raised and power is turned off, the jack holds firm until a switch is pressed for reverse action.

The unit is easy to set up and doesn't weigh much more than the standard manual bumper jack.

Select Heavy Traffic Flooring With Care

How to select floors for heavy traffic areas of the home that will look good and still be functional is a common decorating problem. One must evaluate the almost infinite number of types, surfaces, colors, textures and designs of floor coverings now available and the often confusing claims made for them. It is not always easy, especially for the non-professional.

Preconceived ideas on decor that do not include adequate practical considerations are the biggest stumbling block, according to the Better Floors Council. For example, a homemaker may see a magazine article showing an attractive floor covering in a front hall or foyer. Immediately she decides, "that's for me!" forgetting that the flooring must be functional as well as beautiful. In other words, the covering she has small engine equipment suited for spring and summer use. Cyril Van Zeeland, owner, and two aides are always on hand with expert advice and professional service. (Adv.)

Service a Profession at Little Chute Engine Firm

Seven years ago, a young man from Little Chute had a dream. He had developed an interest in engines and machines and had learned what made them "tick". His dream was to develop a complete business around his interest.

Cyril "Cease" Van Zeeland started his quest in 1962 initiating a one-man operated radiator repair service. A year later he expanded this service work to small engines.

In the fall of 1964, with the help of a newly added assistant, Van Zeeland ventured into the retail sales market when he handled snowblowers and related equipment. The radiator repair service had showed continued growth as well.

A year later, with his feet grounded in sales, Van Zeeland took a giant stride toward fulfilling his dream. He expanded his sales end of the business measurably taking on riding tractor equipment and lawnmower dealerships. Because he realized that an important element with any machine is the service it periodically requires, Van Zeeland in 1965 also added a third man to their staff.

The last three winters in Wisconsin have produced a fanatical rise in sales of snowmobiles and equipment. In order to expand his interests and meet public needs, Van Zeeland moved strong into sales and service of this sport's machines.

Today, Cease's Small Engine Sales and Service is the end product of this man's determination. Reflecting a complete and solid approach in this field is his current inventory of dealerships and lines: Lawn Boy lawnmowers, John Deere riding tractors and equipment, Ariens riding lawnmowers and snowblowers, Toro lawnmowers, Ski-Doo snowmobiles, McCulloch chain saws, Ardis ice drills and diggers and many types of well-known small engines. Add to this the complete service work Cease's performs and you have a dream fulfilled. (Adv.)

Johnny Can Read Better Now

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Johnny can read better, thanks to a group of mothers who care enough to work without pay.

A bucket of paint, a basement storeroom and $88 also went into the "skill enrichment program" at Dundee School, one of eight schools in the Omaha School District where volunteer mothers are hoping to provide programs that the schools cannot afford.

"Things have happened that never would have happened without this program," said Dundee Principal Margaret Corcoran. "I've never seen anything more encouraging." The bucket of paint dressed up the converted basement classroom. The mothers trained for 10 months before their work began.

And the $88, primarily from the Dundee Parent-Teachers Association, provided children's paperback books and poster materials.

Help Children
In five months, eight mothers have helped 38 children overcome reading problems.

Most pupils have gained a year in reading since October, said Lorie Conrey, a second-grade teacher who helped set up and direct the program.

Some second graders who once had trouble reading have jumped a book ahead because of the mothers' help, she said.

Every school in the district plans to develop a volunteer program eventually. The district has developed a special training program for volunteers based largely on the experience of the Dundee group.

And the district is seeking $300,000 in federal funds over a three-year period to train volunteers to teach in public and nonpublic schools.

Limit Groups
Officials limit each class to four children, saying they learn best when taught in small groups. Parents must give their permission before volunteers may work with their child.

Volunteers and children know each other only by first names "so the children will regard us as teachers' helpers rather than teachers," said Mrs. Jack Barnhart, at whose home volunteer mothers attended classes.

The school district classifies the volunteers as teachers' helpers hoping to avoid problems that could arise over the use of noncertified instructors officials said.

The whole program probably falls into a legal "gray area," Mrs. Barnhart said. But, she added, "It works."

School Price Dispute May be Settled Soon

City, VTE-12 Iron Out Difficulties on Vocational Building

The dispute over the sale price of the Appleton vocational school building and equipment to the Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12 (VTE-12) board appeared headed for settlement Thursday afternoon.

The original appraisal and sales agreement between the city and board called for a $204,000 payment for building and equipment.

However, because of an apparent misunderstanding between two employees of the city and the vocational school, some equipment was moved out of the building and stored at the municipal service building.

As a result, the board said it would pay only $199,000 — $5,000 below the price agreed upon several months ago by both parties.

Mayor George Buckley and Finance Director David Champion held firm to the $204,000 price Thursday during talks with William Sirek and attorney Russell Williams, representing the VTE-12 board.

Letters were produced that indicated Milton Ness of the vocational school had inquired if the city was interested in some of the equipment. Subsequently one of the superintendents in the department of public works had the equipment hauled to the municipal service building, but it has not been used.

Officials agreed during their latest talks that there had been no official authorization on the part of the city or VTE-12 board to make any equipment transfers.

Williams and Sirek told Buckley and Champion they had not been aware of the letter Ness sent the city, and felt this might have a bearing on the thinking of the board when it takes up the school purchase matter again.

Labor Temple Planning New Building

Headquarters to be On 10-Acre Site at Northland, Ballard

Plans are being mapped by the Appleton Labor Temple Association for a new headquarters building on a 10-acre site at the northeast corner of Northland Avenue and Ballard Road. Its estimated the new facility, which will include a convention meeting room for about 2,000, will cost between $350,000 and $450,000.

The labor group recently purchased the property from the city and has hopes of starting construction later in the year.

In the meantime, the more than 3,000 members of the association have pledged to contribute $1 per month for a 10-year period to underwrite the cost of the project.

Lease Out Space
The association, comprised of several unions, plans to lease office space to other labor groups in the Appleton area, according to Richard Bork, association vice president.

The building, in addition to offices, will have the convention hall with kitchen facilities, bar and cocktail lounge.

A membership drive is being planned by the association before building plans are made final.

"We want to find out the total membership the new facility will have to serve, and the space requirements some will want," Bork said.

Edward Taggart was chosen president; Bork, vice president; Norman M C H u g h, treasurer, and Roger Kahn, secretary-treasurer.

How to Pass on the Faith

Catholic Day School Is Still the Answer, Priest, CEF Leader Say

The church's job is to teach religion and pass on the faith, but the best way to do this has come under heavy discussion, as witnessed once more Thursday at a discussion at the Council 607, Knights of Columbus meeting.

Speaking on the financial dilemma faced by the Catholic schools and offering partial solutions to the question were Ralph DeDecker, who heads the Citizens for Educational Freedom (CEF) movement in this area, and the Rev. Orville Janssen, pastor, St. Bernard Church.

DeDecker, in his presentation, told the audience that though there are many changes and innovations going on in Catholic

Housing Project Delays

HUD Under Attack

The regional office of the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) came under attack Thursday afternoon from a member of the Appleton Housing Authority.

"It's ridiculous that HUD should be thinking in terms of only 100 units for Appleton when Kaukauna was allocated 74 units and has the building completed," declared Norman DeBroux.

DeBroux indicated his patience, and that of the low income elderly in the community, is running out.

At one point DeBroux mentioned the possibility of the local housing authority contacting HUD and informing federal officials the city would accept nothing less than 150 units.

300 Units

Originally, a HUD representative told the housing authority it should qualify for at least 300 units. This was last fall after

Tips Offered For Safety in Flying Kites

With spring here, many youngsters and adults are beginning to fly kites. E. R. Koerschner, electric division manager of Wisconsin Michigan Power Company, suggests following some simple rules to keep kite-flying fun and safe too:

—Always fly your kite far from electric power lines and TV antennas —Always use wood, paper and string in your kite — never wire or metal.

—Always fly your kite on sunny days — never in the rain.

—Always avoid busy streets and highways while flying your kite.

—Always call the power company if your kite gets snagged in a power line. Do not pull the string or climb power poles.

"Kite-flying can be fun," Koerschner said, "if you do it safely and follow these few rules."

the application for a project and funding had been submitted to the agency.

Just recently, atty. Leon Jensen, authority chairman, received word HUD had tentatively recommended a 100-unit project for Appleton.

Children's Welfare Program Opposed

Medical Payments for Low-Income Young, Aged Retained by Senate

MADISON — The State Senate Thursday voted to kill state welfare payments to children of unemployed fathers (AFDC-U).

But the Senate moved to salvage medical payments to 65,000 low-income children and elderly persons who cannot afford medical care.

The state Assembly earlier killed both programs in an attempt to finance a projected $20.2 million state school aid deficit.

The two programs are part of an Assembly-approved bill eliminating a number of state programs in order to make up for the deficit.

Unsuccessful Amendment

Sen. James Devitt, R-Greenfield, introduced an amendment to the bill replacing both the AFDC-U and medical aid programs to the budget, but the amendment was not successful.

Sen. Ernest Keppler, R-Sheboygan, the majority leader, then introduced an amendment restoring the medical payments but eliminating AFDC-U. His amendment passed by a slim 16-14 majority.

Cost of the medical payments, made under Group II of the medicaid program, is estimated at $750,000 in the next biennium. Cost of the AFDC-U program is tabbed at $300,000.

Gov. Warren P. Knowles could restore the AFDC-U program by a partial veto. The returned to the Assembly for a new vote to see if the Assembly will now concur in its restoration.

The AFDC-U program, which represents about 5 per cent of total aid to families with dependent children, was called a "travesty on the people" by Sen. Walter Hollander, R-Rosendale.

Sen. Nile Soik, R-Whitish Bay, who voted to restore the program, told Hollander that abuses of the program should not be cause to throw the entire program out. He urged that able-bodied, unemployed fathers get a chance to be rehabilitated.

Hollander said the program provided more of an incentive to get on the welfare rolls than to get off.

Numerous amendments to the controversial school deficit funding bill are expected. Democrats are prepared to offer at least 20 and Republicans already have offered nine.

"As a Catholic, I believe in the Catholic schools; as a citizen, I believe I have a right to a choice of the type of school I want to send my child to; and as a taxpayer, I think some of the money I pay should be used for educating my child," he said.

"I'm not asking for money for religion, but for education," he added.

Solution to Urban Woes

United Fox Cities Suggested by Tarr

BY DON CASTONIA Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA — Consolidation of the Fox Cities into one community was seen Thursday night as a possible solution to future urban problems facing the area.

Dr. Curtis Tarr, outgoing president of Lawrence University and chairman of the state task force on local government which bears his name, told a joint meeting of Outagamie and Winnebago County Democrats, "This area needs fewer, not more, incorporated units."

He also suggested that metropolitan planning units such as the Council of Governments, should play a greater role in coordinating the problem solving effort. But, he added, state planning statutes are way out of date, the last revision having taken place in 1919.

Far in Future
Tarr also admitted any possible consolidation of communities was "way in the future."

His comments on consolidation came in response to a question from Town of Menasha Chairman Roland Kampe who asked whether Tarr thought it right that one man now can rule on whether a town can incorporate or, as under a task force proposal, that only three men would have complete authority on incorporation.

Tarr said he did not think the town should be able to incorporate. "We need fewer, not more incorporated units," he responded.

Kampe's reference to three men controlling incorporations was to a task force proposal that a three-man boundary review board be created to rule on annexations. Under the present system, Tarr said, "City boundaries are extended haphazardly for political expediency and the people on both sides suffer."

He also urged support for the constitutional amendment referendum, which will be on the ballot April 1, to enact the uniformity clause for county government. If the referendum passes, counties could adopt either an elective or an appointive county executive if they so desire.

"Counties now lack the executive leadership that other units of government have," Tarr said. "The county is a kind of parliament without a prime minister."

The Air Force deputy secretary-designate said an executive budget for the county could go a long way toward coordinating the various county offices.

Tarr touched briefly on what he termed the six major recommendations in the task force report, saying the remaining 36 recommendations all revolved around the first six.

The six were property tax revisions, education aids, highway aids, shared taxes, urban growth and county government.

The highway aid formula, Tarr said, "grew like Topsy." He added the present formula tends to favor small towns and villages and penalize the larger cities. The task force recommendation is to freeze highway aids at the 1968 level and then distribute new funds on a need basis until a new aid formula can be developed.

Shared taxes also were termed inequitable under the present system where there are nine different shared taxes with no relationship between the formulas. "This system has made possible the 'tax islands,'" Tarr said.

Particular criticism was leveled at the utility tax formula. He noted that under the present utility tax sharing formula, the Town of Two Creeks in Manitowish County, where the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. nuclear plant is being built, the utility tax will amount to 30 times the town's annual budget.

Governmental Cost Picture Called Faulty

Education Cheaper Than It Appears, Tarr Tells Democrats

MENASHA — Education does not cost local governments as much as the people think it does and, by the same token, other governmental services cost more than people believe.

Thus, Dr. Curtis Tarr, Lawrence University president, said, is the result of an outmoded tax sharing system in Wisconsin.

Addressing a joint meeting of the Outagamie and Winnebago county Democratic parties Thursday night, Tarr said Wisconsin is below the national average in aid to elementary and secondary education and the aid system makes it appear "we are less interested in education than in other things in this state."

Tarr indirectly criticized town governments in particular for projecting this cost philosophy.

He said almost all of the shared taxes go into the local government's general fund to be applied against general government cost and none is applied against school costs. As a result, he said, the town can claim its local operations don't cost the taxpayers anything while education costs are high.

Education aids are currently based on the property value per pupil in a school district.

Coed in Hospital For Pill Overdose

A 21-year-old Lawrence University coed was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital about 10:45 p.m. Thursday after she took between 10 and 15 prescription tranquilizer pills two hours earlier.

Appleton police are investigating circumstances surrounding the incident. She was taken from the University's Union Hall.

Dr. Curtis Tarr, right, discusses aspects of the Tarr Task Force report with James Dana, left, Appleton, Outagamie County Democratic chairman, and John Allen, Allenville, Winnebago County Democratic chairman, at a joint meeting of the parties Thursday at Sabre Lanes, Town of Menasha.

"Their lives have been filled, with a long string of broken promises," Roland Hershman, superintendent of the school for boys at Wales, told the Highland School PTA at a meeting Thursday night.

"We find that a lot of our kids have a make-believe dream of their families," Hershman said explaining reality was too dreadful for them to bear.

Hershman told of the counseling program at Wales and said about 87 per cent of the boys who have been there grow up and do not become entangled with the law.

Vandals Damage Equipment Kept At County Airport

Vandals caused $500 to $600 damage within the past two months to heavy-duty grading equipment parked at the Outagamie County Airport.

The equipment is owned by the John F. Bloomer Co., Inc., Appleton, which turned in the report Thursday to the Outagamie County Sheriff's Department.

Authorities said it is believed several youths living in the airport area, who last month admitted involvement in a number of airport burglaries, caused the equipment damage.

The Appleton firm was asked to submit a written estimate of the equipment damage.

Church-State Separation

Bill to Aid Parochial Schools Would Apply To Secular Programs

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON, Wis. — The latest in a series of legislative bills to use state funds for the aid of parochial and other non-public school pupils seeks to avoid the "separation of church and state" issue by specifying that such aids would be used only for the secular educational activities in the non-public educational programs.

The plan was introduced by as-assemblyman Donald K. Helgeson, R-Mantolow, who said that aid payments to the private schools would be restricted to the actual cost of teachers' salaries, textbooks and instructional materials directly related to the teaching of courses in mathematics, modern foreign languages, physical science and physical education.

He described his bill as one to authorize "purchasing the services of teaching secular courses to students attending private schools."

Wants Safeguards

Pointing to other proposals for direct state tuition grants to the parents of such pupils, Helgeson said, "it is imperative that any program of this kind include adequate public safeguards."

He said his bill incorporates control factors to assure the public that it is getting the full measure of what it is paying for, to assure the public that the state is not supporting religion under the guise of supporting secular education, and fiscal control to make certain that all the money made available is spent for the purposes specified.

Battery Costs Man $100 Fine

Clifford Fraley, 20, 235 Kamps Ave., Combined Locks, was fined $100 and costs or 25 days in jail Wednesday after he changed his plea to guilty of battery.

Outagamie County sheriff's investigators said Fraley went to the home of a young Combined Locks woman Nov. 23 and, during a disturbance, choked and scratched her. Fraley had pleaded innocent and trial was to have been Wednesday in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

The name of Arnold R. Schuhroute 1, Kaukauna, was inadvertently omitted from the February and March Outagamie County induction list published in The Post-Crescent this week.

300 Students Will Participate in Music Festival at AHS-E

About 300 pupils in their last year of elementary school are expected to participate in the second annual Elementary Music Festival at 3 p.m. Saturday at Appleton High School-East.

Performing choruses include Badger-Twin Willows-Woodlawn, directed by Mrs. Winnifred Neal; Jefferson-Richmond, directed by Miss Elizabeth Toepel; Edison-Franklin-Johnston, by Miss Lorraine Augustyn; Highlands, by Mrs. Esther Meily; Huntley, by Miss Deanna Oilschlager; Columbus-Jackson-Lincoln, by Mrs. Bonnie Busch, and Foster-McKinley, by Mrs. Helen Meinecke.

Also on the program will be the elementary honors band, under the baton of David Robinson and the all-city elementary string orchestra, directed by Ewald Tilly.

Student involvement is on a volunteer basis and is not a required activity of the music curriculum, according to Robert Penn, department director.

The hour-long program is free and open to the public.

Construction Delays Also Expensive

Two High Schools More Costly Than One

BY DOUG KOPLIEN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEENAH — Operating two high schools with equal educational opportunities costs more than a one-school operation.

Few would argue the point. Two schools are more expensive because of increased staff and duplication of facilities.

When the Appleton school district opened its second high school, they experienced a 23 per cent increase in the cost per student.

Appleton, however, had been operating on a three-shift basis in the existing high school, and the students were admittedly being deprived of the educational opportunities they should have had.

William Spears, superintendent, said they had packed 2,400 students into physical facilities intended for 1,600. "At any one time there were 800 students and nearly 40 staff members without a place to go," he said.

School officials admit if Neenah opened a second high school, it would cost more because of the debt service and maintenance on the new building and the expanded staff.

On the other hand, a delay in construction of facilities that sooner or later will be

Advisory Referendum Vocational Unit Urges Rejection of State Plan

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Voters are being urged by the Board of Vocational Technical and Adult Education to vote against suggestions that the state assume full authority over the new system of technical schools.

The schools, set up throughout the state, are primarily controlled and financed at the local level. Voters are being asked in an April 1 advisory referendum whether they think the state should assume jurisdiction.

The vocational-technical board voted Thursday to oppose the idea, and to recommend to voters that they too reject the proposition the board is a state group.

The legislature, which placed the referendum question on the April ballot, has not given local school authorities sufficient time to show they can handle the system, a board member, Philip Lerman, said.

"The board should say to the legislature and the people that you have not given us a chance to complete our job. Until we have finished our job, I would oppose any legislation of this type," Lerman said.

State Assistance

Joseph H. Noll, board president, advised against giving the legislature the impression the board wouldn't appreciate more state assistance.

Noll said local schools probably will have to ask legislators by 1971 to authorize more state aid, or lift the two-mill tax ceiling on local property taxes.

The vocational-technical school system was created under 1965 legislation. All school districts in the state are required to join the system by July 1, 1970.

The board has divided the system into 18 vocational-education districts.

Members of the board complained about the actual wording of the referendum petition, saying it tends to give voters a false impression that state control would mean a reduction of local taxes.

Noll said that "in all probability, the tax burden would be more—certainly not less. The difference is in the sales and income tax rather than the property tax."

The board has estimated it would cost the state at least $85 million to take over the system's facilities.

Some observers estimate construction costs in 1969 are rising at an unprecedented 1 per cent per month. Others say the increase is not as rapid, around 7-10 per cent per year on a state-wide scale.

A person must decide which is going to cost more: building and staffing a new facility that offers the same educational program as the existing high school right now or delaying the construction six months to a year.

Mrs. Shipman Dies Thursday

Granddaughter of F. J. Sensenbrenner, Founder of K-C

NEENAH — Mrs. James Shipman, the former Jane Sensenbrenner, 52, 630 Wheeler St., Neenah, died unexpectedly Thursday morning at Theda Clark Hospital.

She was the wife of James Shipman, vice president of corporate development at Kimberly Clark Corporation, and the granddaughter of the late F. J. Sensenbrenner, one of the founders of the corporation.

Mrs. Shipman was born on Oct. 18, 1916, in Kimberly and was a Neenah resident most of her life. She was a trustee of the J.F.K. Prep School in St. Nazianz and a member of St. Margaret-Mary Church.

She is survived by her husband, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Leslie Sensenbrenner of Neenah, two daughters, Leslie and Jaine Elizabeth; one son, James Jr., and one brother, F. Joseph Sensenbrenner of Neenah.

Funeral services will be held with a celebrated mass at 10 a.m. on Saturday at St. Margaret Mary Church. The Rev. Leo Ott, Rev. Justin Werner and Rev. Charles Shebuski will officiate. Burial will be in St. Margaret Mary Cemetery.

There will be no visitation. Westgor Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

With a second high school, districts are faced with a degree of staff duplication in the administrative, library, industrial arts, guidance, music, and physical education areas.

In Appleton, the duplicated staff according to Spears, allowed the district to offer students the type of curriculum they were entitled to.

"We had to restrict each student to only four subjects," he said. "When we opened the second high school we started doing what we should have been doing all along."

Neenah Municipal Employees Pick Teamsters as Union

NEENAH — Teamsters Local 563 was overwhelming chosen as the bargaining agent by two city departments Thursday when employees voted in a Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission (WERC) election.

Street-sanitation workers voted 21-9 in favor of the General Drivers and Dairy Employees Union and park-recreation employees voted unanimously for the union.

In another election, both departments decided they wanted to be represented as separate units in negotiations with the city.

Howard S. Beliman, a WERC staffman, conducted the election and this morning verified the choice of the two departments.

A total of 30 votes were cast in the street sanitation election out of 32 who were eligible. All seven park-recreation employees voted in the election.

Negotiations between the city and Local 563 will be set up sometime after March 28 to allow time for either the union or city to oppose the election results.

Mayor Donald Hassler said this morning the city has no plans to oppose the results. "All we wanted is to make sure the employees had a chance to choose their own bargaining agent," he said.

"Now we will be able to proceed with negotiations," he said.

Talks had been held off pending the outcome of Local 563's claim to be the selected agent.

Bargaining is scheduled to start with water department employees on Monday. They had been included in the union's original claim but withdrew their membership application.

Firemen Called For Small Blaze

Appleton fire fighters were summoned to the Dan Riehle home, 1721 S. Carpenter St., about 8:45 p.m. Thursday on what was believed to be a garage fire.

However, it was found that smoke was coming from a small blaze in a garbage can, apparently started from a discarded cigarette.

At 1:10 p.m. Thursday, five fire department units were dispatched to Appleton Wire Works on what turned out to be a false alarm caused by an overhead heater that activated the firm's heat detector.

Non-Denominational Scholarship Fund Begun by 'Register'

GREEN BAY — A scholarship fund for high school students of all faiths in the 16-county area of the Green Bay Diocese has been established by the Green Bay Register, the Catholic diocesan newspaper.

According to the Rev. William J. Stengel, editor, at least one major promotion each will be conducted to support the scholarship fund for qualified high school seniors or college freshmen interested in the field of journalism.

The first annual promotion, will be at 8 p.m. April 12 in the WBAY auditorium when The Register will sponsor "The Big Band Sounds Out of the Past," featuring the orchestra of the Tebala Shrine, Rockford, Ill.

For the under 30 age group, there will be "The Sole Singers," a folk song and dance troupe of teens from the Combined Locks area.

Coffee House Break-in Reported at Kimberly

KIMBERLY — A portable television set and an undetermined amount of cash were stolen in a break-in at the Firelight Coffee House, 210 N. Main St., sometime Sunday or Monday night. The break-in was discovered by a cleaning crew Tuesday afternoon.

The cash was taken by opening two pinball machines and a record player. Entry into the building was gained by forcing a rear door.

Informational Forum Sunday In Kaukauna

Backers, Opponents Of Proposed School To Voice Opinions

KAUKAUNA — A public information forum on the proposed northside elementary school will be held at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the Civic Auditorium. People both for and against the school will have an opportunity to voice opinions.

Victor Haen, board of education president; Leo Driessen, board member, and Supt. of Schools, Julian Bichler will answer questions and explain their views on the school while Ald. Russel Dix, (4th), will voice his objections to the proposed building.

An effort was made to have other school opponents sit on a panel, but none was willing to accept. Fiscal control board members who oppose the building also were invited, but they also declined to appear as panelists. Serving as moderator will be Irving Curry, an attorney.

Union Request

A Sunday afternoon meeting was scheduled at the request of local labor unions who indicated this would be the best time to insure representation from their ranks since members work during normal week night meetings.

A referendum vote on a $1.5 million school bond issue was held Jan. 28, but the election was declared invalid after the wrong question appeared on seven of 10 Kaukauna voting machines. A second referendum on the question is scheduled in conjunction with the April 1 election.

Actual construction cost of the school is $1,125,938, with the balance of the money needed to cover architect fees, special assessments for extension of streets, sewers and water equipping and site development.

until they had time to review the latest survey information.

John Oliver, an authority member representing the local chapter of the National Association of Retired Persons, asked what the housing authority should do if approval comes for only 100 units.

"I'm afraid once the project announcement is made by the federal officials any protest on our part might delay things just that much longer," Oliver said. "Well, I definitely feel we should not accept anything less than 150 units and I think the project should be 200 units," DeBroux remarked.

Considerable Planning

He said the housing authority had put in considerable time and effort on the preliminary planning for the project during the long period of time it has taken federal officials to act on Appleton's application.

Jensen said authorization of only 100 units would not preclude the city from filing an application later on for a second project.

After conducting its regular business, the housing authority met with representatives of a Milwaukee-based development firm which has expressed interest in getting the contract for the project once approval comes from HUD.

It was indicated the developers, along with others, are interested in the Morgan School property as the site for a high-rise housing for the elderly apartment building.

The school building is now occupied in part by administrative offices of the Appleton Public School District.

2 Men Injured in Appleton Crash

Two men suffered minor injuries in a two-car accident about 8 a.m. today on S. Oneida Street, at the south city limits of Appleton.

Appleton police said Robert G. Willes, 29, route 2, Menasha, was northbound and stopped for traffic when his car was struck from behind by an auto driven by James Schuh, 25, 1693 Brighton Beach Road, Menasha.

Willis suffered a shoulder injury, and his passenger, George Guderski, 55, 1660 Plank Road, Menasha, complained of a sore neck and a sore back.

Frøehlich Labels Judicial Attack 'Secret Resentment'

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A judicial attack last week on Assembly Speaker Harold V. Frøehlich, R-Appleton, was only a reflection of the secret resentment of the "judicial establishment" for public participation in the selection of judges, Frøehlich as replied.

When Dane County Circuit Judge Norris Maloney accused Frøehlich of carrying on a "vendetta" against defeated Wisconsin Supreme Court Chief Justice George Currie, Maloney was not only wrong, but voicing a "wild theory" about "an imaginary feud he has conjured up," said Frøehlich in a recent newsletter.

Frøehlich's comments came in a weekly "capsule report" of the Speaker's office, entitled "Baloney, Maloney!"

It dealt with the accusation by Maloney at a State Senate committee meeting last week that a bill Frøehlich has authored was a "personal law of animosity" because it would affect only Currie.

Frøehlich's bill would prevent judges defeated by voters from subsequently serving as "reserve judges" and receiving pay for such temporary work.

Maloney claimed that the only judge affected by such a bill would be Currie, and said that Frøehlich's opposition to Currie was based on Currie's liberal judicial beliefs and decisions.

Currie lost an attempt at reelection to the state high court last year, being defeated by Robert Hanson.

"The 'judicial establishment' has always secretly resented the fact that voters are given an opportunity to select judges," said Frøehlich's newsletter.

As a response to that public participation, they have drawn up the "Missouri plan" which would limit judicial selection to "small groups of elite lawyers," said Frøehlich, dubbing the scheme a "fuzzy innovation."

Frøehlich pointed out that the bill, if enacted, would apply to all judges — even Maloney, if he is defeated in the future.

Judges turned out of office by the public should not subsequently be given the opportunity to continue their judicial work after being rejected by the voters, Frøehlich said.

"It is unfortunate that from this bill, Judge Maloney extracted his wild theory about it being aimed at Justice Currie. 'Hopefully he does not apply this kind of logic to the cases he decides in his court.'"

"If, by chance, he does, there may be good reason for his apprehension about the passage of this legislation," said Frøehlich.

Catholic Day Schools Idea Is Supported

DeDecker said there was a drop of 33,000 in private school enrollment in the state. At a $732 per-pupil cost, this means an additional $2.4 million in state taxes, he said. There are 231,000 more children in private schools and if these closed down, it would cost the state another $169 million to educate them, plus the cost of buildings, he added.

Taking no issue with the need for state assistance to Catholic education, Father Janssen informed the group that he feels the problem facing Catholic schools is twofold.

"Are we certain we are giving as much attention to religious matters as we should?" he asked, adding, "I'm glad we are on an equal basis in all the other areas of education; I never questioned that but I want to know if we are fulfilling our obligations in the one area for which we exist."

He also posed the question whether the fact that spending 90 per cent of the budget on the education of the minority can be excused.

"I'm not saying that I have the answer in my school of religion, but I'm also not certain whether Catholic day schools provide the full answer for the instruction of religion," he added.

He did indicate, however, that the bill backed by CEF which would provide tuition reimbursement of $50 to elementary parents and $100 to secondary parents, could help the problem and added that he backed it fully.

Couple Admits Theft of Saw

A man and a woman from Lindstrom, Minn., pleaded guilty in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Thursday to theft charges brought by security officials at K Mart.

Judge Nick F. Schaefer ordered a pre-sentence investigation and scheduled sentencing for March 28 for Chris J. Rodenkirchen, 52, and Joann Cross, 46. They are being held without bond.

Rodenkirchen, who gave the name C. Jay Cross when he was booked into jail, stole a jig saw early Thursday afternoon from the W. College Avenue store. The woman, minutes later, returned to the store and asked for a cash refund on the saw which she said was purchased there earlier.

Putting the Final Touches on their project to be considered for the Science Fair at Holy Name of Jesus School, Kimberly, over the weekend are Ellen Beters, left, and Linda Hansen. The girls explain the various functions of organs, gills and fins on fish. They are fifth and sixth graders and their project will be one of over 100 to be open to the public for viewing Sunday.

Solons Want Election of U. S. Judges

MADISON (AP)—A group of 19 GOP legislators, led by Assembly Speaker Harold V. Frøehlich of Appleton, has introduced a resolution asking Congress to amend the constitution to allow for the election of federal judges.

The resolution was introduced Wednesday in the assembly asking Congress to call a constitutional convention to revamp the judicial system, including the method whereby federal judges are appointed for life.

The lawmakers drafted the resolution after Federal Judge James Doyle of Madison ordered reinstatement of three students who had been suspended from the University of Wisconsin for alleged disruption recently.

Doyle also handed down a decision several weeks ago which would prohibit local school boards from enacting dress and grooming codes. That decision is being appealed by the Williams Bay School Board.

parents even after their boys are at Wales, declaring this added to the disappointment of the youngsters.

"We often find our boys ignore the facts," Hershman commented, "because they judge the future by the way the past has been to them."

He said one reason physical and other forms of punishment are ineffective in the case of many young boys was because they are able to "block it out in their mind."

Used to Punishment

Hershman said some boys who come to Wales have had a lot of punishment in life, and are accustomed to handling it.

"Some of these kids have gone through torture mills," Hershman said as he listed actual incidents which are unbelievable, but true to life.

"I happen to believe brutality breeds brutality," Hershman said.

He said there are many ways to help delinquent boys with their problems — personal and family — and get them back on the right path.

And he said that work is too important to use as a punishment when parents believe a youngster has been bad.

Work is Honorable

"Work is honorable, good and important," Hershman declared.

He said Wales attempts to provide boys with the things every boy should have when growing up so he can be a productive citizen and good father.

Educational and vocational courses are available to the boys at Wales, Hershman said, leading to diplomas.

"But a diploma can be a pretty empty piece of paper without anyone around to care," he added.

Hershman said the number of boys sent to Wales who have been involved in drug abuse is minimal. However, he personally felt it has become a serious problem, requiring the cooperation of "good parents and good law enforcement agencies."

Presbyterian Youth Plan Weekend Rally

What is good and bad about society, should it be changed, and if so, how? These are questions Presbyterian youths from throughout the Winnebago Presbytery will discuss today through Sunday at a youth rally at Memorial Church.

Official theme is "Antidisciplinary establishmentarianism," with sub-themes, "How to be a Square and Like It," and "Young Protestants."

The program opened today with a short informal worship service, organized by Thomas St. Thereses Catholic Church, Boldt, and a play, "Eyes to See," in which both adults and youths are participating. It is directed by Mrs. Thomas Orblison.

A speech, discussions, a film, and fellowship have been planned for Saturday. The Rev. Larry Hill, United Presbyterian campus pastor at the University of Chicago, will be the keynote speaker. After his lecture, the rallying youths will break into small groups and discuss such topics as the peace movement, the draft, the race question, drugs and society.

Panel Discussion

The afternoon program involves a panel discussion led by four students from McCormick Seminary, Chicago, a film, and a large group discussion.

At 3 p.m. the group will break for recreation. A dinner has been set in the evening with John Gorski and Dave Huelsbeck, who perform folk mass at St. Thereses Catholic Church, providing entertainment. A fellowship follows the dinner with dancing and games. Performing will be James Haugner and Larry Frye on guitar and James Vosper and Lois Poppe on piano.

Sunday morning there will be a joint church service with the campus pastor at the University Rev. Clifford Pierson, Memorial of Chicago, and the Rev. Hill, pastor, and the Rev. Hill, speaker. After his lecture, the rallying youths will break into small theme.

Neenah, Kimberly '5s' Triumph In State Tournament Openers

Papermaker Unit Meets Beloit Today

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
MADISON — The moment which Kimberly High School's irrepressible Papermakers have anticipated for 53 weeks will finally come at about 8:45 p.m. today.

Kimberly, which bowed to Beloit Memorial, 73-60, in the semi-finals of the 1968 state basketball tournament, will have the opportunity to avenge its only loss of the last 34 games against the same Knights in the semis of this year's WIAA classic.

The battle of the unbeaten powerhouses — Beloit (24-0) is ranked No. 1 in the state and Kimberly (24-0) is rated No. 2 — looms as the "game of the year" in Wisconsin prep basketball.

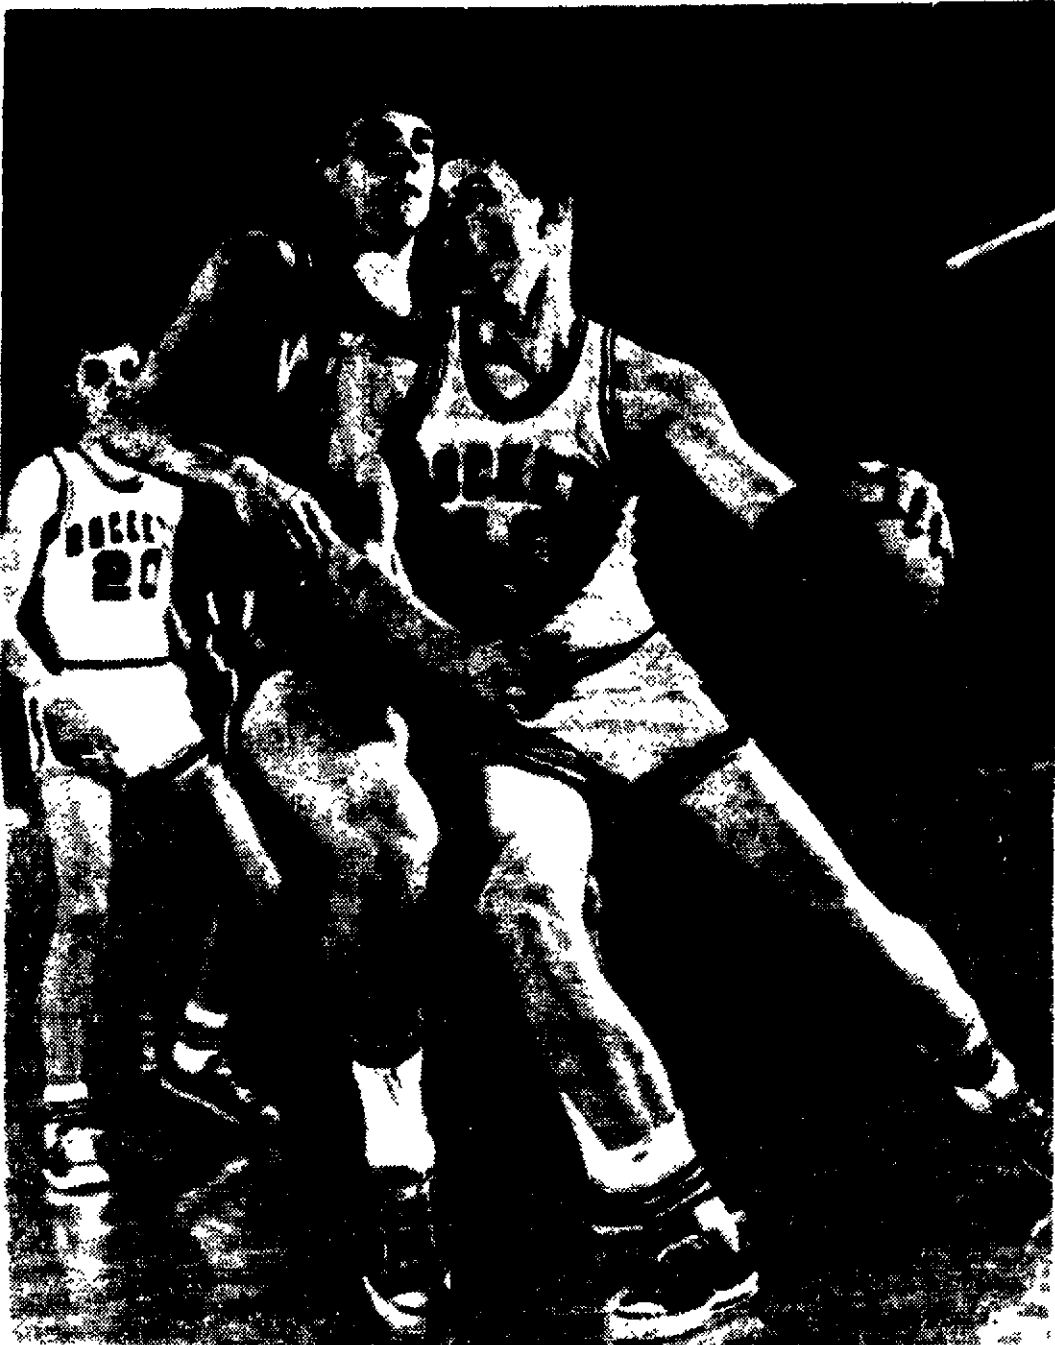

Despite converting floor shots at an all-time record-tying accuracy rate of 62.5 per cent Thursday night, the Papermakers, for a sizable portion of their encounter with surprising Durand, weren't even certain of qualifying for their revenge mission against Beloit. Kimberly was forced to shake off first-half deficits ranging up to nine points before quelling the fiery Panthers' challenge, 71-59 with a steaming finish.

Streak Halted

In winning the duel of fast breaks and full-court presses, the Jack Wippich-coached Papermakers axed Durand's victory streak at 23 games and lengthened their 2-season success string to 25.

There was nothing see-saw about the game, though it was close until the final three minutes and fiercely-fought all the way. Kimberly never led for the first 17 minutes, 58 minutes of playing time and never trailed for the final 14:02. The Al Ormson coached Panthers achieved two distinctions — their 9-point lead is the biggest any team has taken against Kimberly this season and the 12-point spread at game's end is Kimberly's smallest winning margin of the campaign.

A crowd of 14,216 in the University of Wisconsin Fieldhouse watched Durand, the smallest school in the select 8 team field, come out strong and outdo the Papermakers in their own long suits — shooting, defending and rebounding. The Panthers whistled in five of their first seven shots — all the swishers came from at least 20 feet away — in running up a 15-7 lead in the first 4:45. Durand boosted its lead to nine points

Wausau's Bruce Weinkauff is charged with a blocking foul because he stepped into the path of Neenah's John Arpin (40) during Thursday afternoon's opening game in the state basketball tournament at Madison. Tom Koepke is No. 20. The Rockets won, 72-59. (AP Wirephoto)

Rockets Deal Wausau 72-59 Loss

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — In 1930, Neenah High School defeated Wausau in its first state high school tournament game and went on to win three more to annex its first and only state crown.

Thirty-nine years later, the Rockets upended Wausau in their state meet premiere and.

Combining good shooting, especially by Pat Hawley, an almost flawless floor game and another fine third period, the Twin Citizens turned back the Lumberjacks of former NHS Coach Doug Martin, 72-59, in the opening game of the 54th annual WIAA classic Thursday afternoon.

Thus the Rockets entered the semi-finals for the first time since 1942 when they stopped Altoona in their initial game. They were defeated in 1947, 1952 and 1966 inaugurals. For Martin, the loss was the third in a row in state tournament competition since his 1966 Rockets went down in a pair of overtime decisions.

The Twin Citizens, in their first season under Coach Ron Einerson, showed that they had learned their lessons well under their former mentor.

Hit 47.6 Per Cent

They found the hoop at a scintillating 47.6 per cent (30 of 63) pace, rolled up a 43-36 edge in rebounds and committed only nine turnovers, none in the third stanza. Wausau also shot well, hitting .434 on 23 of 53, had four more errors and its press didn't puzzle the victors. None of their errors were attributed to it.

This had been expected to be a game of two pressing defenses, but Emerson stayed in a man-for-man all the way and the press which had harassed so many opposing guards, wasn't used or needed.

Another key to the triumph was the balanced scoring, led by Hawley's 20 points. He sank five of seven from the floor in the first half and finished with a nifty nine of 13. The junior southpaw now has coined 97 points in the tournament sequence thus far, including 81 in the last four games.

Top Rebounder

Tom Kopitzke, who had one of his poorer shooting games, was runner-up with 13 points but led the team with nine rebounds. Tom Koepke chipped in with 12 points, including four baskets in five first half attempts, while John Arpin posted 10 and Bob Block, subbing for Tom Ponto, who didn't feel well, hit nine.

Although Ponto's playing time was limited he accounted for his team's first two points and also threw in a long jumper at the third period horn to create a 9-point spread.

Gary Gray led Wausau scorers with 17 points, including 10 in the last quarter. Jerry Bird, the team's top point producer for the season, garnered 16 and sophomore center Bob Steif made 12, plus taking rebounding honors with 11.

A field goal dearth of almost five minutes could have been

by BOB MYERS
PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — The joint meeting of the National and American Football Leagues labored into its fifth day today with no sign of agreement in sight over the compounded problem of realigning for the 1970 season.

Emerging from a series of meetings, both joint and by the individual leagues, which lasted well into the night, Commissioner Pete Rozelle said nothing definite had been resolved Thursday.

In fact, said Rozelle, he was not optimistic that the problems would be settled today. "It is not impossible but... take anything away from them. The commissioner said as day long negotiations were resumed.

Spring Meeting
There then posed the prospect that the thing will be taken up at a spring meeting in New York in May. Communications by committees which would have to be named would be set up in the interim, Rozelle said.

Boiled down, the issues as far as public interest go, are in the 1970 merger of the ex-warring leagues, will the old NFL remain a separate identity of 16 teams and the relatively new AFL keep its 10-team image; or will there be total realignment of the 26 teams.

The NFL, Rozelle confirmed, still stands on its demand for the 16-10 alignment—with no deviations from its ranks, and any expansion teams, as projected in the future, to go to the younger AFL.

AFL owners, it became known are unified more than ever in calling for complete amalgamation, and offered a plan to the NFL that would create four new

"We'll have to play a lot better than we did tonight," Wooden said of a Bruin team that hit 56 per cent of its field goal shots, but committed 22 floor errors and technically won on free throws.

Referring to Purdue, Wooden added, "If they played all season like they played tonight, we wouldn't have beaten them last fall."

A Little Happier
Purdue Coach George King was a little happier with his team's performance. "I don't believe we were looking ahead to anyone tonight," King said.

MADISON — "I don't want to anticipate."

In Trouble
Two items kept Kimberly in trouble in the first half — fouls and turnovers. The Papermakers had 14 personals whistled against them in the first two periods and 13 turnovers in the same span. In contrast, the second half saw the Mid-Eastern Conference champs cut their fouls in half and reduce their turnovers to eight.

Durand head man Allen Ormson saw the differences in first and second half play too. "We were killing them in the first half from the outside," he remarked. "I think we surprised them. But then they moved up on never relinquished its lead until us, and they double-teamed Durand jumped out to a 5-0 advantage at the outset and any margin at intermission. Kimberly scrambled into a 40-39 edge and was never behind after that, although the Panthers trailed dis-tance through the first part of the fourth quarter.

"I thought Durand had the better team on the floor the first half," Wippich observed "In the second half we came to life. We started to think, to anticipate."

guard Don Hagany as "the one who killed us." Hagany, who sat out the entire second quarter with three fouls, hit 13 points out of his 17 in the second half.

"He's a quick boy," Ormson said "and he drove around our kids. When he wasn't driving, he was feeding somebody else."

A "somebody else" Ormson might have mentioned was the Papermakers' Jeff Wildenberg. The willowy 6-4 senior kept his team in the game almost single-handedly in the first half with 14 of his 21 points.

State Meet Reaches Semis

Beloit Downs Eau Claire; Nicolet Surprises Lincoln

By BOB GREENE
MADISON (AP) — Powerful

Beloit, the state's No. 1 ranked team, and Kimberly, rated No. 2, clash tonight in the semifinals of the 54th annual Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association state basketball tournament.

Milwaukee Lincoln, going af-ter its sixth state high school championship in as many tries, stumbled in Thursday's opening round as it bowed to Glendale Nicolet, 78-73. Neenah downed Wausau 72-59.

Beloit crushed Eau Claire Memorial 73-65, and Kimberly came from behind to down determined Durand 71-59. That set up tonight's clash between the tourney's only unbeaten teams.

It's the first time since 1961 when Rice Lake toppled Waukesha in the semifinals that two unbeaten teams have met in the state tournament.

Faces Wausau

Lincoln faced Wausau in a consolation game today. Neenah and Nicolet squared off for a championship bracket game.

Tonight, Durand and Eau Claire Memorial battle in a consolation game prior to the Kimberly-Beloit meeting.

Temple, Boston College in NIT Finals

By MIKE RECHT
NEW YORK (AP) — The Temple Owls, who tired of playing third fiddle in Philadelphia basketball season, are playing perfectly in New York, and now only Boston College stands in their way of top billing in the National Invitation Tournament. "I don't think we did a thing wrong all night—the perfect game," said Coach Harry Litwak of the overlooked Owls after they pulled away from Tennessee 63-58 in the semifinals Thursday night for their third straight upset. Their perfect play came after Boston College, the first team picked for the NIT and the one that has received top billing, beat Army at its own control game 73-61. The results left Temple and BC to play for all the marbles in the national television Saturday 1 p.m. CST, in Madison Square Garden. Army and Tennessee, the 1-2 defensive teams in the country, meet at 7 p.m. for third place. 10 Straight Points "You have to give the boys credit," Litwak said after the Owls, now 21-8, scored 10 straight points behind a press to win a 49-44 deficit into a 54-49 lead. "They've been getting second billing to LaSalle and Hanover all year in Philadelphia."

John Baum, Temple's 6-foot-5 mping Jack, hit the final three in that decisive 10-point n. Before that, the Owls had disated an eight-point lead to ly a 29-26 spread at halftime. The lead changed nine times fore Joe Cromer's two bas- ts for Temple tied the count a 49 as the Owls began press-

Bill Strunk scored to put the Owls ahead to stay and Baum added his three points. Mast Scores 24 Eddie Mast of Temple finished with 24 points, 12 in the final half, and Cromer had 11 of his 15 after the intermission against Tennessee's 1-3-1 zone. Bob Croft and reserve Rudy Kinard, who hit all but two of the Vols 30 points in the second half, finished with 21 and 19, respectively.

Joe Spilski Cracks 667 in Classic Loop

Joe Spilski slammed a 245 game and 667 series to lead the way in the 41 Bowl Classic League Thursday night. Stan Prue was runnerup with a 237 line and 644 total while Bill Swanson cracked a 631 series, including a 227 game and Keith Gehring had a 623 count. Bill Swanson topped the KCA General Office League at the 41 Bowl last night recording a 225 singleton and 640 series. John Anderla was runnerup with a 631 series. Pete Schultz set the pace in the Grocers League at the 41 Bowl last night with a booming 255 game and 635 series. Dick Mueller came through with a 231 singleton. Owens Rolls 632 Leading the Banta League at Sabre Lanes last night was Tom Owens with a 247 line and 632 series. Tom Konezke blasted a 245 game and 625 total while Jim Laus cracked a 244 singleton. Lawrence Brockman took individual honors in the American Legion League at the 41 Bowl Thursday with a 245 game and 635 series. Bill Heatherington had a 226 singleton.

Boston College, running the nation's current longest winning streak to 19 in a 24-3 season, chose to forsake its fast break against the bruising Army defense and disciplined offense and waited patiently until mid-way through the final half to pull away. "We wanted to beat them at their own game, not shove ours down their throats," said BC Coach Bob Cousy, who will retire after the final. Playmaker Billy Evans, who had 13 points and seven assists, said, "We had to play a slow, patient game. You have trouble getting involved. We're so used to running."

Ahead to Stay Although trailing 29-26 at the half, the Eagles finally went ahead to stay 42-40 when Tom Veronneau scored and was fouled as Army's Mike Gyoval fouled out. Veronneau missed the free throw, but 6-7 teammate Terry Driscoll rebounded for a basket. Driscoll later hit a free throw for a 47-41 lead as Army's second starter, 6-6 center Dick Simmons, fouled out with 9:36 left. Driscoll led BC with 28 points. Doug Clevenger had 25 for Army.

fatal to the victors but fortunately it was only a temporary seige. Playing as though they were on Manitowoc's court (where they had been brilliant in three games), the Rockets started strong and built up an 18-10 lead in the first five minutes of play. A drought set in and Martin's charges put together a string of 12 straight markers to earn a 22-18 advantage at the close of the quarter. Neenah's last points of the period came on Arpin's fielder with 2:34 left, and then in the second stanza. Wausau went on to build up a 26-20 edge until with 2:32 gone, Koepke broke in for a layup. In the next stages of play, the score was tied twice until a free throw by big Jim Hoelzel and a long jump shot by Hawley as the horn gave the Rockets a 35-32 halftime edge. They've led by a trio at halftime in three of their last four games. Koepke opened the third period scoring with a jump shot and after Steif countered for the 'Jacks, the winners banked in a string of six and weren't to be headed, increasing their advantage to 54-45 at the close of the stanza. Wausau trimmed the difference to five points at the start of the last frame, and after Neenah went ahead by nine, reduced it to 64-59 with 3:55. As it turned out the Northerners weren't to score any more as the Rockets finished with the last eight points, all but two on free throws. Wausau had made its first field goal attempts of the last period but hit only two of 12 the rest of the way.

Kaukauna Mayor To Help Girls' '5' Raise Funds

KAUKAUNA — The Kaukauna Highlanders women's basketball team which won the Tri State regional competition to advance to the national finals at Gallup, New Mexico, is in need of funds to make the trip and are planning various fund-raising projects. Mayor Gilbert Anderson has named a committee to assist in raising funds. Area residents interested in helping the team may mail contributions to Mayor Anderson at the municipal building or to Willis Ranquette at the Hyland House. The national tourney will get underway Tuesday.

Two Hurdles Blocking 'Dream' Title Game

MADISON — Only two Braveland league teams (like hurdles separate Neenah and Nicolet) and have never taken Kimberly from all-Fox Cities them too seriously. Nicolet has "dream game" for the state a set of excellent guards and its basketball tournament title. pair of 6-4 front-liners are agile but the two promise to be on and will present a rebounding the "sticky" side. problem for the Rockets.

Neenah will have to be at its best when it tackles Glendale. Kimberly will give away considerable size and bulk to 6-7 Bruce Brown, of Beloit. Eau Claire Memorial found him im- all the way if it hopes to beat Beloit at 8:45 tonight. Nicolet accounted for the tourney's first upset when it stopped Milwaukee Lincoln, which in some quarters ranked as pre-meet favorite.

Beloit, meanwhile handled Eau Claire Memorial — which had lost only one game in the regular season — with surprising ease.

Only three of the state's nearly 500 high school basketball teams now boast perfect records, and two of them — Kimberly and Beloit — will have it out tonight. Racine St. Catherine, which finished its season with a 26-0 record in winning the state independent schools' title, holds the other perfect mark.

Three was the magic number of Neenah Thursday. With the win over Wausau, the Rockets ended a state tourney losing streak at three, beat the Lumberjacks for the third straight time on state-level competition and it marked the third straight tourney loss for Wausau mentor Doug Martin.

Most observers agreed that overconfidence played a part in the defeat which ended Lincoln's remarkable state tourney win streak at 15 games. Nicolet coach Tom Puls, former Fond du Lac High School cager and area golf star, intimated that Milwaukee City Conference teams (like Lincoln) downgrade

Ruth Zittlow, Katie Steffens Women Record Two More National Sets

Ruth Zittlow and Katie Steffens bowled their way into the spotlight Thursday as each recorded a national honor count in separate leagues at Sabre Lanes.

Ruth blasted a 646 count to lead the Aid Association for Lutherans League and Katie cracked a 602 in the Bent Sabre League.

The counts pushed the season total in the Fox Cities area to 56 for the women keggers.

Miss Zittlow, who resides in Kaukauna and works as a computer programmer at AAL, bowls in two leagues per week and carries a 155 average. Her best previous league series was a 558 and her best bowling night in the past was in the Post-Crescent's Bowl-O-Rama in 1968 where she took fourth place in Class B.

Seven in Row

Last night Ruth started with a 204 game, then hit 201 and boomed a 241 in her final effort. In the last game, she socked seven strikes in a row. Miss Zittlow had a total of 17 strikes in the three games. Ruth has been bowling for four seasons.

Mrs. Steffens recorded her second national honor count in as many weeks in the Bent Sabre loop and the third of her career as she slammed games of 214, 213 and 175 in the Bent Sabre loop.

Katie bowls once-a week and carried a 165 average. She had 16 strikes in the three games last night and bowls for the league-leading Wheel Inn team.

Shirley Evers had a 563 series in the Ladies League at the Colonial Lanes, Freedom, with games of 218 and 191. Rosi Greiner had a 553 total which included lines of 210 and 196 while Pam Leisch slammed 545 and Elaine Bowers hit 193.

Hit 550 Series

Shirley Oleck smacked a 550 series and Vi Nowell had a 214 game to share honors in the Hahn's Navy League last night. Shirley's set included a 195 singleton.

Other Navy League scores included Winnie Anderson 194, Donna Kassube 202, Jane Klapper 191, Vernell Bladock 192, Adeline Ullman 512, Vernie Welch 529, and Sylvia Kirk 194.

In the Hahn's Women's League, Lorna Pekarske had a 209 game and 546 series to lead the way. Pat Lutz rolled 204 and 515. Erma Sigl blasted 542 with a 194 line. Elaine Hintz had 194. Judy Bixby hit 203. Val Wendt had 511. Carol Arnold rolled 192 and Shirley Beck smacked 192.

Jan Allard topped the Koffee Koppers League at Sabre Lanes with a 214 game and 538 series. Rose Reinke had a 203 line and 513 series while Kay Ackerman rolled 210 and Lorraine Knaack hit 196.

Each Rolled 533

Leading the Hortonville Ladies League last night were Lois Buchman and Helen Kettner each with 533 series and Lois had 212 game. Geri Goley rolled 196-517, Kathy Besaw slammed 210 and Kathy Hauk had a 212 singleton.

In the Flower League at the 41 Bowl, Marlene Freibell had a 201 game and 508 series.

Vi Dickrell led the Alley Cat League at the 41 Bowl Thursday with a 500 series including a 196 game. Theresa McGinnis fired a 203 line, high in the league and Doris Grimes hit 199, Darlene McPeak 193 and Ruth Schmidt 190.

Fran LaBonte topped the Coffee League at the 41 Bowl Wednesday with a 190 line and 519 series.

Purdue Meets UCLA Cagers

The second game about the possibility of meeting UCLA, he said he would let his Boilermakers run with the Bruins just as they did in their first meeting.

"We like for a team to pressure us," he said, "so we can develop our running game."

And King added that Purdue has picked up more poise and togetherness in play throughout the season.

But King faces the same large problem he did earlier—UCLA's 7-foot-11½ Lew Alcindor proved his All-American ranking against Drake with 25 points and 21 rebounds.

"If we had Chuck Davis," King said, "we probably would play them straight away. But since we don't..." He wouldn't say just what Purdue might do.

Bavis is Purdue's 7-foot junior center who is out of tournament play with an injury.

Wooden's chief concern in meeting the Boilermakers is the guard duo of All-American Rick Mount and Bill Keller, who bombed the Tar Heel defense with their outside shooting.

Mount hit 14 of 28 field goal attempts and finished with 36 points. Keller connected on nine of 19 floor shots and wound up with 20.

Yankees Win Sixth in Row Cubs Rout Oakland, 9 to 2

The Chicago Cubs Thursday used home runs by Randy Hundley, Ernie Banks and Jim Dunegan to route Oakland 9-2, in an exhibition game.

Philadelphia edged St. Louis 9-7 with six runs in the fourth inning, highlighted by Richie Allen's grand slam. Rookie Ron Stone of the Phils smacked a two-run homer.

Later in the day, St. Louis Manager Red Schoendienst was hospitalized in St. Petersburg, Fla., with severe stomach pains. Schoendienst was to remain in the hospital overnight for observation.

Carl Yastrzemski had a triple, two singles and a walk in Boston's 5-4 triumph over Detroit.

San Francisco used home runs by Willie McCovey and Ron Hunt and four San Diego errors that let in five unearned runs to defeat the Padres 8-5.

The New York Yankees won their sixth straight for a 10-3 exhibition record by downing Minnesota 4-2 as Bobby Cox drove in two runs and rookie Bill Burbach hurled five scoreless innings.

The Houston Astros unloaded 11 hits and beat Montreal 10-7.

Nixon Heals a Wound

WASHINGTON (AP) — A grand piano has turned out to be the unlikely peace symbol that has ended one of the nation's nastiest political feuds—the split between President Nixon and Harry S. Truman.

Over the years, charges of treason, cronyism and political ineptness by Nixon and threats of physical reprisals by Truman have marked relations between the two—with playing the piano the only apparent common point of interest.

Nixon moved to heal the breach when he scheduled a stop today on his trip to California for a visit at the 84-year-old former president's Independence, Mo., home. The chief executive took along the White House piano often used by Truman as a gift.

As a coming Republican congressman in the years after World War II who built a political name as a Red hunter, Nixon was never close to the Democratic president.

Any ties between the two came to an end in 1952 when Nixon, running as the GOP vice presidential candidate, charged the retiring president with coddling Communists in the government.

Truman and other Democratic leaders were "traitors to the high principles in which many of the nation's Democrats believe," Nixon charged.

"Awful Thing"

Truman reacted angrily to what he considered an attack on his patriotism. He was quoted as calling Nixon an SOB and once said he never wanted to see Nixon because "it would just start a fight. 'That's the awful thing a man can be called—a traitor. When I get started on that, I don't want to swear, I want to punch someone.'"

Their paths have seldom crossed since. They last met at a Washington dinner in 1964.

The rest of Nixon's time after arriving in California late today included a helicopter tour of the Santa Barbara beaches despoiled by an oil slick from a runaway offshore well.

Saturday Nixon and his wife Pat will go to the San Juan Capistrano Mission famed for its annual springtime visitation by swallows.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler left open the possibility Nixon might do some house hunting while on the West Coast.

"The President is looking for a home in this general area of California," Ziegler said. The President wants to establish a summer White House in the vicinity of San Clemente, where he will spend the weekend.

NASA Chief Tells Plans For Future

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — If the first manned lunar landing comes off as planned in July, a space official says, it will be followed up by a series of others for "a sum total of 10 voyages to the surface of the moon."

Dr. Thomas O. Paine, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, told the Air Force Association convention Thursday:

"If we do make the first touchdown this summer, we'll follow that with three similar voyages, each time increasing the scientific equipment."

Each of the first four moon landings, he said, would leave equipment to measure lunar surface disturbances and to reflect laser beams back to Earth.

The six later landings, he said, could be set up in areas of the most significant interest and could include overland exploration.

"We're talking here really about man's conquest of the seventh continent," he said, noting that the moon has about the area of North and South America.

Paine said the second decade of space exploration which began this year would include a number of probes of Earth's sister planets.

Two probes, one launched last month and the other due to leave next week, will orbit Mars and send back to Earth television pictures of that planet. They also will transmit temperatures, examine the Martian atmospheres and measure light radiation.

"We hope to get a fairly definitive idea as to whether or not conditions on Mars are such that life might exist," Paine said.

Mars orbiters also will be launched in 1971 and two unmanned landings will be attempted in 1973.

During the 1977 to 1979 period, Paine said, it will be possible to launch an unmanned probe which will make "a grand tour" of four planets, using the gravitational pull of each to speed toward the next.

The planets then will be in a lineup that will not occur again in 170 years.

The lineup, said Paine, "will allow us first to go past the gravity field of Jupiter, then swing out past Saturn, then to Uranus and to Neptune."

The voyage would take nine years, he said, and would have to be nuclear powered "to complete the journey and send back the information."

U.S. Bases Hit Heavily

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese smashed at American bases with renewed fury today, hitting them with rockets, mortars and infantry assaults that caused serious casualties and losses of aircraft, vehicles and fuel.

In one of the heaviest series of blows since the opening of the spring offensive 27 nights ago, enemy rockets and mortars hit 65 allied bases and towns, and infantry assaults ripped into three of the bases.

It was the largest number of attacks since last Friday, when 70 bases and towns were hit.

All of the enemy infantry attacks were on American bases along the northwest approaches to Saigon, between 31 and 51 miles from the capital. Twelve Americans were killed and 47 wounded, while known enemy losses were 38 dead, U.S. spokesmen said.

Ten of the Americans were killed and 28 were wounded in one attack on an artillery base.

Spokesmen said only five enemy bodies were found after an estimated 400 North Vietnamese attacked the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division's Fire Support Base White behind a 150-round mortar barrage. However, the Americans said many blood trails and drag marks were found, indicating the enemy

Two infantry assaults were made on the south and east sides of the base within 90 minutes, but they were small, officers said. Thirty enemy troops were repulsed in the first thrust, while 15 to 20 North Vietnamese failed to find an opening in the second assault.

Only 12 of the 28 Americans wounded had to be evacuated. The rest were treated and returned to duty.

The base is one of four artillery and patrol camps along the southern edge of the Viet Cong's war zone which impede the enemy approach to Saigon from the northwest.

White Base is just north of the Michelin rubber plantation where more than 10,000 American troops and scores of tanks are trying to root out an estimated 7,500 North Vietnamese threatening Saigon. U.S. intelligence officers said the purpose of the attack on the base apparently was to tie down the artillery batteries while North Vietnamese troops tried to maneuver away from American ground forces closing on them.

Majority Escape

AP photographer Horst Faas reported today from the area that the bulk of the North Vietnamese believed to have been in the Michelin plantation area apparently had escaped to the north and east.

Only one major contact was reported today in the big U.S. counteroffensive, known as Operation Atlas Wedge. Troops of Col. George S. Patton's 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment and men of the 1st Air Cavalry Division fought a day-long battle 45 miles northwest of Saigon Thursday, and killed at least 72 North Vietnamese, U.S. headquarters said.

President, Bunker to Confer On U.S. Troop Withdrawals

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is expected to seek from Ellsworth Bunker in consultations starting this weekend the ambassador's views on how soon South Vietnam may be politically and militarily strong enough to permit the withdrawal of some U.S. troops.

The question is one of several major issues believed certain to come up after Nixon and his chief foreign policy advisers meet Bunker and Gen. Andrew J. Goodpastor at San Clemente, Calif., Sunday morning.

Goodpastor, the No. 2 U.S. military man in South Vietnam, is on his way to take over as NATO commander in Europe. Nixon's advisers in the talks that will continue on the flight back to Washington Sunday afternoon and into next week will be Secretary of State William P.

Rogers and presidential assistant Henry A. Kissinger.

Nixon already has the views on U.S. troop reduction of his secretary of defense, Melvin R. Laird, who made a war-zone inspection last week. Laird said publicly that he saw no prospect for early withdrawals.

The consultations will give

Laird Hints at War Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird pledged today that if the Paris peace talks fail to end the conflict in Vietnam, "We will have an alternative as far as the war is concerned other than the present conduct."

He did not say what that alternative would be.

Laird made that statement after Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., shifted the course of a Senate hearing away from the hotly contested antiballistic missile (ABM) system with a critique of Nixon administration handling of the Vietnam war.

Fulbright said the question of armaments and their control is linked with that of the Southeast Asian conflict.

"Isn't it possible, Mr. Secretary, to realize that we are not now and never have been winning this war?" he asked Laird. "If this administration continues and escalates this war in Vietnam, it will soon be Mr.

Nixon's war," the senator said. "I would just like to say that this administration is committed to end the war in Vietnam," Laird said. "We are presently engaged in very important peace talks in Paris."

Then he declared:

"I want you to know that we are hopeful that we will be successful in the talks . . . but if we are not successful, and we pray for success, I can assure you that we will have an alternative as far as the war is concerned other than the present conduct of that war."

Laird denied that the administration dropped the old Sentinel missile defense project because of public protests, insisting that the change came "because we have a better system."

Laird said discussion of a shift from city defenses to the Safeguard system, President Nixon's plan to defend U.S. of offensive nuclear bases with antiballistic missiles (ABMs), was under way even before the public protests against deployment near Boston, Chicago and Seattle.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., told Laird it appeared to him the protests had led to re-examination of the missile defense program and the shift to "a completely different mission."

Only Coincidental

But Laird, defending the administration plan before members of a critical Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee, said the public protests were only coincidental.

"Is it or isn't it true that just six weeks ago the government was proceeding to install the old Sentinel system?" Fulbright asked.

"That is true," Laird said. "I would like to say they were stopped because we have a better system."

Furthermore, Laird said, the Sentinel deployment launched by former President Lyndon B. Johnson "was potentially provocative" because it was designed to protect cities.

"As such it appeared to us to be a step toward, rather than away from, an escalation of the arms race," he said.

Another critic of the new ABM system, Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., told Laird his system was "a defense in search of a mission." And he said the mission had not been discovered.

Gore said:

"It is my serious conviction that the program which you recommend would further endanger our security, it would make an armament limitation agreement more difficult, if not impossible to obtain, and thus ultimately could degrade our deterrent."

Laird, fresh from two days of testimony in favor of the Safeguard ABM system in the friendly confines of the Senate Armed Services Committee, thus encountered immediate resistance in the Foreign Relations subcommittee dominated by

AMB opponents

In fact, as the subcommittee hearing opened, the only senators present were Gore, J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., Frank Church, D-Idaho and Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., all ABM opponents.

Gore issued a lengthy critique of Laird's testimony Thursday and said "it has been well said that this ABM system is a defense in search of a mission. We have heard every possible kind of argument for it and many of these are contradictory."

"Our real security rests in stopping the nuclear armament race, and not in promoting it," the Tennessee Democrat added, saying the subcommittee is interested in knowing why a promised disarmament talk with the Soviets has not yet started.

One of the few rough spots Laird had before the Armed

Senate to Rule on 'Ham What Am'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Cook, a Baker and a Byrd are on the outs about hams, and they're asking the Senate to settle the dispute.

These aren't the political kind of hams, however—they're cured country hams from Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia.

The squabble started when Sen. Marlow W. Cook, R-Ky., wrote to Sens. Howard Baker Jr., R-Tenn., and Harry Byrd, D-Va., claiming that Kentucky country hams are better than their Tennessee and Virginia competitors.

Cook, predicting "the winner must assuredly be Kentucky country ham," suggested that each senator take some of his state's best hams to the Senate chef—along with personal cooking hints—to be served to the entire Senate as a team of judges.

Baker said he hated to "reveal the inadequacy of the Kentucky and Virginia hams," but accepted the challenge.

"Everyone knows," he added, "that the rich, red Tennessee ham is the best in the country and that red-eye gravy originated in Tennessee when connoisseurs tired of the dull, brown broth produced by Virginia and Kentucky ham."

Byrd was equal to the challenge, too.

"I have thrown down my gauntlet," he said in a letter to Cook. "You will find it in the Senate chef's kitchen. I will shortly replace the glove with a Virginia ham—the best what am."

Baker had referred to the stately competition as ham fry, to which Cook retorted: "Whoever said this is going to be a ham fry? Is frying a Tennessee ham the only way you can get rid of its onus? This is ham bake, Baker."

There was no word as to when the Senate was going to settle the issue, but a ham dinner may be in the offing soon.

Home-Buying Costs Go Up, Up and Away

NEW YORK (AP) — If you plan to buy a house this spring, forget about last year's prices and don't laugh when the salesman tells you "this place is a steal at $40,000."

Higher interest charges on mortgages, higher taxes and insurance and rising costs of lumber and other materials have sent house prices skyrocketing. More increases are in prospect.

"Costs have gone up 10 per cent in the last year," said Milton Brock of M.J. Brock & Sons, Los Angeles builder.

Bernard Janis, president of Janis Corp., of Miami, Fla., estimated the cost of a $30,000 home has risen 20 per cent in the past year and will rise 10 per cent more to about $39,500 in the next six months.

"The cost of lumber rose 50 per cent in the past six months," he said. "Why? Who's the one pushing it up? Most of our lumber comes from the big Douglas fir mills on the West Coast, and they're selling to the government and Japan at inflated prices. We've got to pay their prices to get the materials we need."

Advance Mortgage Corp. of Detroit said in its semiannual

survey that today's house buyer will pay, compared with a year ago, an average 10 per cent price increase, a 1½ per cent rise in interest rate and 5 per cent increase in taxes and insurance.

"And," the company said, "he'll have a hard time finding the same house. Builders keep

Rookie One Stroke Behind Jay Hebert

Jerry Heard, Six Others Bunched in Jacksonville Open

By WILL GRIMSLEY
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Jerry Heard, 21, six feet tall and 180 pounds, quit Fresno State College last fall in his junior year and decided to take out after Nicklaus, Casper & Co. on the $6 million pro tour.

"I've wanted to play on the golf tour since I was 11 years old—I couldn't wait," the strapping young athlete said today. "I came from an athletically minded family. My dad played pro baseball and even had a contract to go with the Cardinals."

"But he got married instead. "No, I don't intend to go back to college. This is my life now. I think I can make the grade."

Heard is one of the brash, new breed of hungry tigers who have abandoned other pursuits—including higher education—and plunged into the rich golf tour.

They look at Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Bill Casper, and Gary Player and say—apparently—what better way is there to become a millionaire?

Heard popped up among the leaders of a tightly bunched pack after the first round of the $100,000 Greater Jacksonville Open tournament Thursday.

Tightly Bunched
He fired a 68, four under par, which placed him in a tie with six others, just one stroke back of pace-setting Jay Hebert, the 41-year-old veteran from Lafayette, La., leading at 67. Jerry is one stroke ahead of Nicklaus, two in front of Palmer, three better than Casper and four in front of Player—not bad for a rookie.

"These kids have no fear whatever," Lionel Hebert, veteran of 19 years on the tour. "They just let that ball up and blast away. They are really tough."

Teams Battle to 5-5 Tie

Hull, Orr Set NHL Marks

Bobby Hull and Bobby Orr were record-breaking winners Thursday night but the Chicago Black Hawks and Boston Bruins came out losers despite their 5-5 National Hockey League tie.

Hull scored twice late in the game, giving him 55 goals and erasing the record of 54 he set three years ago. Orr's 21st goal with only one second to play forced the tie and established a mark for most goals by a defenseman. Detroit's flash Hollett set the old standard of 20 in the 50-game season of 1944-45.

San Diego '5' Clinches a Playoff Berth

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The San Diego Rockets are in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

They clinched fourth place in the Western Division by whipping the Atlanta Hawks 115-97 Thursday night for their fifth straight victory.

San Diego now has a 38-43 won-lost record. Even if the Rockets should lose their last three regular season games, they still will finish ahead of fifth-place Chicago.

Miami scored a 116-108 victory over Dallas in the American Basketball Association. Only one game was scheduled Thursday in both the NBA and ABA.

In other NHL contests, Montreal tripped Pittsburgh 5-3, Los Angeles downed Detroit 4-2 and Philadelphia whacked Minnesota 5-2.

"We didn't win the game," said a downcast Orr, although the 14,000-plus fans in Boston Garden went wild after his last-second heroics—and on his 21st birthday, to boot.

The Bruins blew a 4-0 second-period lead as Dennis Hull, Jim Pappin and Doug Mohns brought Chicago within range Wings' production line of Howe, before Bobby Hull put the Hawks ahead temporarily.

"The Jacks" of course, were the Wausau Lumberjacks and as things turned out they couldn't "hack it" — out-hustle a determined Neenah team that is.

"Our boys showed a lot of poise," Neenah Coach Ron Einerson beamed following the Rocket's 72-59 comeback tri-umph. "We played very well although we made some foolish mistakes at times."

Leading the Neenah attack was Pat Hawley, who pumped 20 points behind some dazzling outside shooting.

"He's really come along the last part of the season," Einerson said. Hawley was nine for 13 from the floor.

12 Straight Points

Wausau stunned the Rockets with 12 straight points in the first period to convert an 18-12 deficit into a 22-18 lead. The cause was bench strength. (22-13) in the first minute of the second quarter.

Before the half was over, Durand had forced Kimberly into 13 turn-overs (while committing only five itself) and had two Papermaker stars — Don Hagany and Bill Lamers — in foul trouble, with three personal apiece. Hagany sat out the entire second period, while Lamers took it easy for the last three minutes of the half.

Still, the Papermakers hung in there and trailed by only three (39-36) at intermission time.

With New Resolve

Kimberly came out in the second half with a new resolve and a few adjustments and shortly took control. Jeff Wildenberg's 5-footer, with the second half only 1:58 old, slipped the Papermakers past Durand, 40-39, and they were never to be overhauled again.

The Papermaker marksmen, who had sunk 12 of 20 first-half shots, scorched the nets with 13 of 20 in the final two periods for a full-game performance of 25-for-40. The only previous team able to connect with that kind of accuracy in the 54-year history of the meet was state-champion-to-be Monroe four years ago in a 1-point first-round win over Appleton's Terrors.

Leading the Papermaker offensive, with 21 points, was Jeff Wildenberg. The 6-4 senior pumped through nine of 12 floor shots. Five of Wildenberg's baskets came in a brilliant exhibit, one of tipping and medium-range shooting in the second period as he kept his team close to the hustling Panthers.

Wildenberg was also his team's top scorer — with three goals — in the decisive third period.

The talented Hagany, returning to the site of some of his biggest games last year, fired in 17 points despite sitting out one period. The 5-11 senior sank four of five floor shots and nine of 11 free throws. Hagany also showed his usual playmaking finesse and tied Wildenberg — at seven retrieves — for team rebounding honors.

Los Angeles maintained its three-point hold on third place in the West Division by beating Detroit. Bob Wall collected a pair of goals and an assist for the Kings.

Gordie Howe scored his 42nd goal of the season and Frank Mahovich his 46th as the Red brought Chicago within range Wings' production line of Howe, before Bobby Hull put the Hawks ahead temporarily.

The Boston fans also gave finished with nine points and played a driving floor game. Gese Loiselle, who spelled Hagany in the second period, popped in two key baskets that helped Kimberly narrow the gap.

30 Below Average

Durand, which was held 30 points below its lofty season average, finished with only a 36.4 per cent goal-shooting average (20 of 55) despite its fast start. The Panthers' Ken Harmon, who sank 11 of 14 free throws, tied Wildenberg for game point honors, with 21. Tom Bauer and Mike Krisik contributed 16 and 13 points, respectively, to the Durand total.

The rebounding battle wound up a standoff, as each team was credited with 42 recoveries.

Krisik set the stage for the unexpected first-half developments with a 3-point play in the initial 54 seconds of action. Bauer also connected over the Kimberly 1-2-2 zone to make it 5-0. Lamers netted the first Kimberly basket, but Harmon added three successive free throws, and Durand owned a 8-2 lead.

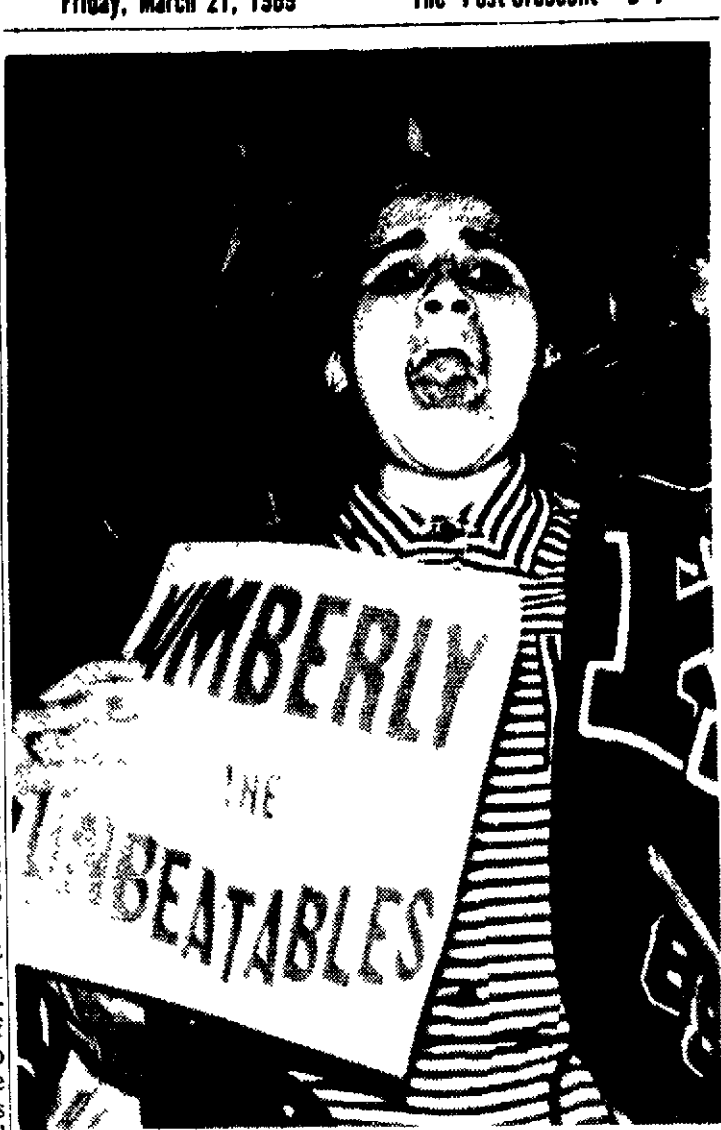

The Papermakers found it hard to shake loose from Durand's sticky man-to-man defense, and got off a minimum of shots. But, they closed the gap to four points (16-12) before Krisik came up with Durand's third 3-point play of the period and a 19-12 edge. Another charity toss made it 20-12 at quarter's end.

In the second period, Durand retained its momentum and regained relatively comfortable leads three different times when the Papermakers closed within four points. However, three rapid-fire baskets cut the Kimberly deficit from seven points (37-30) to one. Wildenberg accounted for two and Ristau the other, on a tip. Just before the expiration of the 16th minute of play, Harmon hit a 2-pointer to give Durand a 39-36 halftime bluge.

Lamers found the cords from 20 feet away at the outset of the second half, and Wildenberg's goal, shortly thereafter, enabled the favored Papermakers to turn the tide. For much of the third quarter, however, the margin remained precarious, because in a sizzling 4½-minute segment, each Kimberly basket was matched by a Durand 2-pointer — and the margin remained one point (48-47).

Takes 6-Point Edge

In the final 1:20 of the third quarter, Kimberly outscored the Panthers, 6 to 1, to take its first double figures, with a 13-point lead. He and Robin Ristau each game, 54-48. Four of the points came on free throws — two by Wayne Swokowski, who also each by Hagany and Lamers — hit four of six field tries, and the other two points came on a Wildenberg bulls-eye after an eye-catching exhibition of Papermaker passwork.

The game's race horse style continued for much of the final period, but six points remained the closest Durand managed to come.

Wildenberg and Lamers both picked up their fourth fouls early in the period — but Durand's Harmon fouled out with 5:26 remaining.

When Swokowski's long shot, made it 63-53 with 2:51 left, the only remaining question was the size of the final Kimberly margin.

String of Gains Comes to Halt

Stock Market Heads Downward In Active Trading

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market headed lower today in moderately active trading. The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 2.80 points at 917.33. The Dow had been ahead .99 of a point at 11 a.m. Gains continued to outnumber losses but by a very slim margin. Brokers said there was a "spurt of profit taking" which "is to be expected after the recent string of advances." They also said there had been no news "that would cause any significant change in the market," adding that the strength the market drew from reports that the market cease-fire talks in the Vietnam war were under way "apparently is beginning to fade." The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.1 at 334.6, with industrial off .8, rails off 1.6, and utilities unchanged. Railroads generally were higher, gold issues mixed, conglomerates generally lower, motors generally off by fractions and steels mixed. Six of the 20 most-active issues on the New York Stock Exchange showed gains, 13 were lower and 1 was unchanged. Great Western Financial, most-active of 170,300 shares, was up 3/4 at 27. Fifteen of the 20 most-active issues on the American Stock Exchange showed gains, 3 were lower and 2 were unchanged.

Wisconsin Cheese

MADISON (AP)—The Agricultural Marketing Service today reported Wisconsin cheddar cheese prices were three-fourths cent higher this week. The market tone continued steady to firm and demand was generally good for most styles despite higher prices. Supplies of barrel styles and 40-pound cutting blocks were adequate to short. Single daisies and longhorns were about adequate. Midgerts were plentiful. American cheese production in the nation in the week ending March 31 amounted to 22.5 million pounds, up 1 per cent from the previous week. Wisconsin Swiss cheese prices were 1-1/4 cents higher with buying interest good on top grades and fair on grade C. Supplies of top grades continued short. Grade C supplies ranged 3.65. Idaho bakeds, 10 oz. and larger 7.50.

YOUR BEST BET - A Want Ad

The next best thing to a new car: a used car with a 100% guarantee.

Every motor vehicle purchased is guaranteed 100% or 30 days or 1000 miles. Whichever comes first. So if during that time anything goes wrong with any of these parts, we'll repair or replace it free.

But just because we're on a limited budget, don't think we're not respecting and guaranteeing you a quality car.

Producers of Honey Study Market Order

Honey producers in Wisconsin are exploring the merits of a marketing order through which they could channel funds from a checkoff for promotion and research purposes.

Petitions are being circulated requesting Agriculture Secretary-Designate Don Wilkinson to initiate hearings throughout the state on the proposal.

John Long, former state president of the Wisconsin Honey Producers Association and a former state apiary inspector, urged members of the northeastern chapter Monday to consider the petition which would ensure hearings to further discuss the question.

Two-tenths of one cent per pound of honey produced would be earmarked for the market order fund. A board of five producer-advisors would work with the state secretary of agriculture in administering the order. The order would be in force for three years and subject to reconsideration then. Sixty-five per cent of the producers with a majority of the production must approve the order for it to be effective.

Long felt the order should be considered now, particularly in view of the split in the national organization. He felt a state order would be less costly than the proposed national marketing order.

Cranberry Order

Long noted that the cranberry industry had been using a market order to pay the expenses of its queen promotion program, frost warning service plus promotion and research.

If adapted to the honey industry, Long said it could provide a reserve fund for poor production years and honey queen promotion funds. Currently the state organization leans heavily on its state fair booth for budget needs. The checkoff funds could be charged off as advertising expense, he said.

Producers with less than the required allotment of colonies to qualify for the marketing order could make voluntary contributions since they too would benefit from the promotion and research effort.

William Louschow, state apiary inspector, indicated he took no stand on the marketing proposal but being part of the State Department of Agriculture would enforce whatever provisions came under his jurisdiction.

He backed the state pollination service co-op program which will be starting its second season this year. He felt the existence of the co-op tended to discourage out of state pollinators from moving into the

7th Congressional District Race

Chilsen, Obey Outline Their Farm Programs

Assemblyman David Obey, D-Wausau, has a six-point farm platform which roughly outlined cover these areas — dairy import restrictions, 90 per cent of parity level for milk price supports, Congressional action to raise all farm product supports to full parity, young farmer investment act, legislation to halt the invasion of non-farm conglomerate corporations and full collective bargaining power for farmers.

His views are further detailed on each of his platform planks below?

Dairy Import Restrictions — I believe that those in our government who are responsible for our foreign trade policies have failed to give a adequate consideration to America's dairy farmers. Farmers have, at U.S. Department of Agriculture's urging, reduced their production from 127 billion pounds in 1964 to 117 billion last year.

Yet, in this 4-year period, imports of dairy products increased nearly 5 billion pounds. This increase in dairy imports plus the cost price squeeze has eliminated any real improvement for 7th District dairy farmers.

I am deeply concerned about the double standards that are used regarding domestic and foreign dairy producers. American farmers must invest thousands for equipment and facilities to meet health standards, yet the foreign dairy producer that ships to the U.S. need not meet these sanitary standards. I believe the least that should be done is to pass legislation that would require that all dairy imports meet comparable standards of productive sanitation.

As 7th District Congressman, I will fight to eliminate this totally unfair competition from foreign imports. I feel that it is fine to talk about working for greater exports, but I know that something must be done now to curb imports in order to restore the dairy industry's confidence in our trade policies.

Raise milk price supports to 90 per cent of parity — Last month I introduced in the Wisconsin Assembly, a resolution calling upon Secretary of Agriculture Clifford Hardin to immediately raise the price support for milk to 90 per cent of parity. He now has the power, granted by Congress, to make this move. I believe it's the very least the new WAUSAU (AP)—The farm program proposals offered to 7th Congressional District voters by state Sen. Walter J. Chilsen and Assemblyman David Obey have several points in common.

Chilsen, a Republican facing Democrat Obey in the district election April 1, recently completed a five-county tour of the district with a suggestion for increased federal income tax exemptions, boosting the minimum individual exemption to $1,000.

He also outlined his farm plank during the tour, calling for high milk price supports administration can do to help improve the position of the dairy farmer in the marketplace. Raising the price support by 5 per cent could mean the difference between the success or failure of many of our dairy farms in the 7th District.

Raise all farm price supports to 100 per cent of parity — Actually it's a disgrace to even talk about raising price and a review of the parity index every three months.

Obey outlined his farm proposals a week earlier. Both men call for restrictions on foreign dairy imports which compete with U.S. dairy farmers, and restrictions on corporate farm competition with family farming.

Chilsen also recommended import relief for meat and fur farmers.

Obey and Chilsen were chosen in a March 4 primary as the candidates for the congressional seat vacated when Republican Melvin R. Laird became secretary of defense.

supports for any farm produce to only 90 per cent of parity. Until Congress acts to raise all price supports to 100 per cent of parity, the American farmer is relegated to a role of second class citizenship. The farmer as we all know, is paying a great deal more for his supplies and machinery than he was 20 years ago. His cost of living

State Sen. Walter Chilsen, R-Wausau, has been outlining his farm program during recent speeches throughout the 7th District. His remarks detailed below are from one of these speeches.

He has been referred to as "The Forgotten Man on Rural Route 2" and he is the American farmer.

Did you know that the 7th District farmers produce more milk than any other congressional district in the nation? Their 3½ billion pounds of milk represents a $158 million business.

Every American farmer is averaging feeding 37 of us who do not farm. Only 25 years ago he fed 16 people. In 1945 there were 12 million people employed in agriculture. Today only 5½ million farmers are producing food for more than 200 million Americans and millions overseas.

But these farmers work an average 12 hour day and pay themselves only about $2.50 an hour. They produce 70 per cent more farm commodities on 10 per cent fewer acres than 25 years ago.

In my opinion their product—food—is the biggest bargain in the shopping center today. Since 1949, however, wages have increased 100 per cent, medical costs 78 per cent, transportation costs 51 per cent and housing costs 39 per cent. But food prices have risen only 25 per cent.

No Reward

But while the cost of everything he buys has pushed steadily upward, the average prices of farm products has been declining. There has been no reward for the farmer's efficiency.

In the past 20 years no force has contributed more to the affluent American economy than the farmer, but no force has received less reward and recognition for it. For years big government has listened only to big labor, big business, big cities and big blocks of voters. Instead of being rewarded for his efficiency the farmer has been blamed for those so-called high food prices.

Now, by the miracle of politics the agricultural states have elected an administration of their own. It wasn't the big cities of this nation or the Eastern industrial states has gone up just as it has for the rest of us. Why, then, should we expect the farmer to subsidize the rest of the economy by taking less than his fair share for the essential food and fibre he works so hard to produce?

Young Farmer Investment Act — One of the real tragedies of our current farm situation is that young men who have grown up on farms are financially unable to go into farming themselves. Getting a start in farming nowadays often requires an investment of between $100,000 and $200,000. The act would make long term, low interest loans available to these young men who could contribute so much to American agriculture. Enactment of this law would also provide an opportunity for the farmer who has spent his life on the land to turn his farming operation over to a son and still be able to afford a dignified retirement.

Legislation to curb non-farm conglomerate corporations — It has become increasingly apparent to me during recent months that Wisconsin farmers face a dangerous threat from these corporations.

They are buying land throughout our state at an alarming rate. What is beginning to happen is that the conglomerate corporation is taking advantage of its tax write-off privileges in the field of agriculture. They buy millions of acres of land, forcing the prices upward unrealistically, and then begin to compete with the family farmer. This competition is unfair because these corporations plan to lose money on their agricultural operations. These losses can be written off against profits made in entirely unrelated fields. How can a farmer who has a family to support compete in this kind of a market place?

I have introduced a bill in the Wisconsin legislature which will ban the takeover of our agricultural communities by these corporations. This legislation in no way, however, will hamper the right of the family farmer to incorporate for business purposes. The bill specifically exempts any corporation with 15 or fewer stockholders.

This problem also needs national attention. This attention is being focused by Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont. I would strongly support his efforts to eliminate the unfair income tax loopholes that allow the huge corporations to milk the

U.S. Treasury, rather than cows.

Collective bargaining power for farmers — In solving the problems of the cost-price squeeze which faces the family farmer, nothing is more important than the extension of full bargaining power to all farmers. If farm income is ever to reach parity with other segments of the American economy, the achievement will be made primarily by the farmers themselves. It is the responsibility of those in government to make sure that a fair climate exists which will permit individual farmers to join hands with their neighbors to solve their common economic problems.

The American labor movement has been responsible for providing our working men and women with the highest standard of living in the world. I believe that our farm families can achieve the same kind of economic success if they work together.

Chilsen Favors Tax Credit

that wanted the Nixon-Laird team in office.

Now at last in Washington we have farm power in the White House. I want to add one more vote for farm power in the U.S. Congress. I am ready to begin April 2—the day after the election.

I would go to Washington with this draft of legislation in my hand. It would double the investment credit for farmers. The high cost of equipment is the farmer's biggest single problem. Because, not only is he the only person in the market place who can't control the price of what he sells; he also has no control on what he buys.

Tax Credit

Today, he buys a $5,000 tractor and there is a $350 credit off the tax he pays. So if he had a tax liability of $1,000, he would still owe $650. To ease the escalating cost of production I would have him deduct $700 leaving a $300 tax liability.

Here is my farm program in brief:

The Johnson-Humphrey Administration closed its business 60 days ago with parity at 75 per cent. There is nowhere to go but up—with a 100 per cent parity desirable for milk support price. But, we must work for quarterly revisions of the parity index to relate it closely with production costs.

The import control act is needed to lose the multitude of loopholes in the present administrative patchwork of rules and regulations. The school milk program must be continued without merger with the school lunch plan.

I agree with our fur farmers that limiting imports to 40 per cent is reasonable legislation. They have my vote.

Young Farmer

The Nixon-Laird platform calls for special credit consideration for the young man entering modern farming. I want to work for you in helping make this law.

Wisconsin has already begun a boot strap operation promoting Wisconsin dairy products overseas. I would work for the federal government to be a willing partner in this enterprise.

Hobby corporate farming must be eliminated and the way is through our national tax laws by not recognizing farm losses to corporations

Multi-Family Units

Dual Purpose Home for Migrants Developed

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A low cost multi-family and multi-use home for migrant workers will be displayed in working order in Wautoma this spring and summer, the state's operating cabinet has been told.

Joseph C. Fagan, head of the Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations, told the heads of the state's operating agencies that a site is being selected in Wautoma and that the part-time home, part-time storage shed will be in full use by the time migrant workers arrive for the seasonal employment.

He said that he hopes to have the structure erected on city property, or on state land in the city.

Designed by a Milwaukee steel firm which has donated the structure for the demonstration, the facility can house four families with a total of 32 children.

The all-metal, attractive unit is designed for a total cost of $4,400 for the four living units.

The four living units are arranged in a line, in the experimental structure which the firm is ready to produce for buyers.

When not in use as a living structure, end walls of the units may be removed and the entire structure used as a storage shed for farm vehicles and machinery, said Fagan.

"Some of these farmers prefer to protect their machinery more than their workers," said Fagan of the migrant housing situation in Wisconsin.

The new building is designed to allow them to use a building for both purposes, he said.

The design grew out of an effort by the state agency to show employers of migrant workers that low cost living quarters meeting state building code requirements can be built, said Fagan.

"We should be able to help some communities to bring together the resources, plans and abilities" to meet such needs, said Fagan.

Outagamie FB Urged To be More Aware of Markets for Products

GREENVILLE — Russell O'Harrow, Oconto, district director for the Wisconsin Farm Bureau, told an Outagamie

County new-member dinner group that as producer specialists farmers must become more cognizant of their markets.

He said the Farm Bureau was responding to that need. He also noted that differing viewpoints is a major obstacle to agreement among farm groups.

Third of Feedlots Use Urea, Survey Indicates

Some 164,000 tons of urea were fed to cattle in feedlots during 1966, according to a survey published by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The survey was based on a sampling of feedlots in 32 major cattle feeding states, in the spring of 1966, to find out how many were using urea to provide some of the protein in feed mixtures.

About 31 per cent of the nearly 110,000 feedlots estimated to have been operating at the time of the survey were using urea. Most use was in lots having at least 300 cattle. Usage increased with lot size.

Bankers Offer Scholarships

Short Course Grants Available in Waupaca County

WAUPACA — The Waupaca County Bankers' Association will sponsor two 200 short course scholarships for 1969, according to Orval Malueg of the Dairyman State Bank, Clintonville, scholarship committee chairman.

Scholarship application blanks are available from the vocational agriculture instructors in the county. All application blanks and scholarship information must be returned to the local bank before May 15.

The Waupaca County Bankers' Association has provided the short course scholarships for farm boys in Waupaca County for many years. This course is a practical, 15-weeks session in agriculture conducted at the University of Wisconsin from mid-November to mid-March.

Germination Test Suggestion For Seed Grain

Yield Variations Noticeable Below Recommended Level

DONALD J. TRIPP

Farm Management Agent
Winnebago County

OSHKOSH — It won't be too long before spring field work gets underway. Now is the time to check your seed grain for both quality and purity.

Run a germination test if you are using home grown seed. The germination should be in the 90 per cent range and yield differences are noticeable when it falls below this level.

If you are planning to purchase new seed pay particular attention to the label on the bag. This tells you exactly what you are getting. And a certified seed tag gives you the guarantee of varietal purity.

When selecting your oat variety, keep in mind soil fertility, straw strength, disease resistance, and maturity. For high fertility soils, Tippecanoe and Jaycee varieties are recommended. For medium to high fertility field consider Holden, Portal, Garland, Clintland 64, Lodi, Garry and Orbit.

For medium fertility land, Reeder is a variety to consider. A copy of the circular "Oat Varieties for 1969" is available from our office at the courthouse, Oshkosh.

The Winnebago County Holstein Breeders Association annual tour will visit Gray View Farms in Racine County on Saturday, March 29. They will travel on a chartered bus. Reservations for the trip must be in our office by Wednesday, March 26.

More Indictments Promised in Probe Of Chicago Riots

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal grand jury investigating incidents during the Democratic National Convention here last August has indicted 17 persons, including eight demonstrators, eight policemen and a woman news-cast employee.

U.S. Atty. Thomas A. Foran said more indictments would be forthcoming as the grand jury continued its consideration of disorder during the convention week, when 677 persons were arrested, many in violent confrontations with the police.

Four of the policemen already under suspension when the indictments were made public Thursday Police Supt. James Conlisk announced 30-day suspensions for the other four.

One policeman was charged with perjury in testimony before a grand jury, the other seven with depriving individuals of their civil rights. Five of the seven were accused of assaulting newsmen.

Five of the indicted demonstrators are leaders of the New Left movement. All eight were charged, under antiriot provisions of the 1968 Civil Rights Act, with conspiracy to incite violence.

'It Just Doesn't Seem Possible...'

MEMPHIS (AP) — A shock wave of death hit and stunned the city of Memphis

Those struck hardest were the families of 15 leading citizens killed in the Thursday crash of a chartered private plane at New Orleans, leaving 37 children fatherless.

But the ripples of tragedy quickly spread through a metropolitan area of more than one million people. The 15 men, most of them owners of their own businesses, knew a lot of people, had a lot of friends.

The story was page 1—all of page 1—in both the city's newspapers.

The Press-Scimitar used its biggest headline print.

The Commercial Appeal couldn't get all it had to say in a single page. It used two.

Gov. Buford Ellington ordered a Tennessee National Guard transport aircraft based at Memphis to go to New Orleans today. Its mission: Return the bodies.

"This tragic accident has taken the lives of so many talented and dedicated citizens," Ellington said.

"The loss to the city is irreplaceable," said Mayor Henry Loeb.

The flight had started out for British Honduras, where the party planned to take part in a jaguar hunt and fishing expedition sponsored by the West Tennessee Sportsman's Association.

The grief and shock were felt intensely in the close-knit suburban community of Millington, where five families received death messages.

The five crash victims from that city of about 20,000 were personal friends and most were leaders in the civic life of the town.

"It just doesn't seem possible for something like this to happen," said Mayor Tom Hall.

Perhaps the best known victim was Rodney Baber, two-term president of the Downtown Association of Memphis, owner of a printing firm, president of a chemical company, and head of a club that provides care for the widows and orphans of police officers and firemen killed in the line of duty.

A planned night of gaiety for the Downtown Association at its annual awards banquet and salute to working women was turned into a subdued memorial to Baber and the other victims.

Five of those who lived through it returned to Memphis Thursday Dr. Kenneth C. Caldwell, a dentist described any clothing firm.

"That kid is shook up bad," said Spence. "I helped him try to pull his daddy out. We tried to pull him through a window but his feet were stuck. We tried till the flames were all over him."

"Standing there with the boy, trying to pull his father out. It was tragic. The flames came in on him, and he waved to his son just before he was engulfed."

Gang Leaders Charged With Torture Slaying

NEW YORK (AP) — Manhattan's East Village, once the seat of East Coast hippiedom, is now the turf of tough motorcycle gangs. The gangs' bitter rivalries, police say, led to the fire-torture slaying of a gang member.

Police arrested a gang chief and his lieutenant Thursday night and charged them with homicide after an intensive investigation into the death of Ray Edward White, 21, of Dayton, Ohio.

Detectors, who received little cooperation from gang members, said they believed the murder may have resulted from busting thoroughfare lined with the victim's attempt to hold membership in both the Pagans and a rival gang, the Alien Nomads.

Arrested and held without bail the East Village only about two years ago, at first as protectors of the Pagans, and Anthony Brucardi, 17, police said they were seeking two other men in connection with the death.

White's nude body was discovered Monday in a tenement tied in other cities or in rural apartment, trussed with piano wire so he would strangle himself if he struggled. He had been doused with a flammable liquid and set ablaze.

The latest arrests brought to 32 the number of persons, many of them gang members, seized during the investigation this week on charges ranging from possession of dangerous weapons to possession of narcotics.

In gang jargon, the Pagans were "bikers" meaning they are "place say, bound him and set him among the few who own motorcycle place afire."

The two gangs' rivalry apparently has been simmering for several months before it broke out into street fighting last week during the investigation this week on charges ranging from possession of dangerous weapons to possession of narcotics.

On Sunday, they were taken to White's apartment, where they were "place say, bound him and set him among the few who own motorcycle place afire."

Black Students Quit Frisco State Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Black Students Union has called quits on a strike which disrupted the San Francisco State College campus for 4½ months, with frequent violence and 700 arrests.

The end was signaled by two leaders of the walkout—Union Chairman Benny Stewart and Jerry Varnado—in an unheralded announcement Thursday at the school cafeteria.

Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, acting president, said he would detail terms of the settlement today.

The strike—led by nonwhite students—began Nov. 6 with upwards of 2,000 marchers. But support declined steadily at the 16,000-student campus during the past two months, which saw several fire bombings, window breakings and confrontations with police.

A major remaining obstacle is the demand by some Negro faculty members and administrators, the Black Students Union and the Third World Liberation Front that Dr. Nathan Hare, a Negro, be retained as head of the black studies department.

Hare was one of the demonstration leaders. When he interrupted Hayakawa's welcoming speech at the semester opening, he was told he would not be rehired after June 30.

Dr. Joseph White, dean of undergraduate studies and a Negro, reiterated, "We are recommending again that Dr. Hare be appointed a full professor."

Proposals for a school of ethnic studies and expanded enrollment from minority groups were signed Thursday afternoon by members of school negotiating committee and representatives of the Black Students and Third World, which is composed of non-Negro minority groups. Students for a Democratic Society, which also supported the strike, refused to sign.

Later, the Third World and BSU declared:

"The struggle to end institutionalized racism and the right of all people to seize power for determining their political, economic, educational and social destinies is not over but will intensify."

"We view the settlement as a foundation for revolutionary

Outagamie Bankers Cite Progressive Farmers

GREENVILLE — Farm couples from 22 Outagamie County townships were cited for their progressive programs by the Outagamie County Bankers Association on behalf of the soil and water conservation district.

Also honored were two retired Appleton bankers and an Appleton industrialist-conservation district cooperator.

Bankers feted were Gilbert Berlinger and Art Hanson, both of whom have been active in the county association's farm award program. Bruce Purdy, Appleton industrialist and rancher, was cited for encouraging conservation education in the county.

His Apple Hill Farms have been the site of annual conservation field day schools for sixth graders in the county each fall. In six years participation has grown from 500 to 2,400 youngsters and the program expanded from two to five days. Purdy also is a vice president of Air Wisconsin.

Honored Couples

Town of Black Creek—Mr. and Mrs. Duane Wussow started farming under a partnership with his father and now own more than 300 acres. They have 80 cows under the dairy herd improvement association program. The herd average is 496 pounds of butterfat. Their farm features a free stall operation with milking parlor, in and outside mechanized feeding system and a farm office in which to maintain an adequate record system.

Surface drainage and tile have opened acres to cash crops—cabbage and snap beans. Playing in his own small band, provides a relaxing diversion. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jepson own a 98-acre farm with a herd of 23 Holsteins which averages 500 pounds of butterfat according to DHIA records. They are interested in the development of wildlife so each year designate almost five acres of corn for winter habitat and feed for the wildlife.

Ellington — Mr. and Mrs. Allan Behl and his brothers, Leroy and Robin, operate an incorporated 260 acre unit on two farms. They recently signed as soil and water conservation district cooperators and installed tiling as their first project. They have a dairy herd of 78 cows averaging 513 pounds of butterfat under the DHIA program. They belong to the Fox Valley Farmers Club.

They have been DHIA members since 1938. Their 52-cow herd averages 470 pounds of butterfat. They also belong to the Fox Valley Farm Management Association. Center — Mr. and Mrs. Clem Eggert, district cooperators since 1967, have 100-acre dairy farm with 34 registered Holstein cows averaging 523 pounds of butterfat. They have installed more than 13,000 feet of tile and grassed waterways on the farm. Both have been active in the community — he in the church, and she in the church women's society.

Cicero — Mr. and Mrs. Donald Marcks operate a 100 acre farm located next to his father's farm which enables both to share use of the machinery and reduce costs. He had been a district cooperator since 1963 and last year joined in a group drain to gain an outlet. Their 27 cow herd has a DHIA average of 480 pounds of butterfat. He is a member of the Fox Valley Farmers Club.

Dale — Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Baehman have recently completed a soil and water conservation plan, established contour strips, buried stone fences and worked with neighbors to obtain a drainage outlet so more tile, surface drainage and a diversion can be installed. They milk 31 cows and feed out 90 hogs.

state and thus cause less problems for his department.

Owners of bee colonies must have a certificate of health for the bees from their state of origin to prevent the spread of disease.

He said that although funds to pay for inspection services from some counties are limited the department is still aiming at developing a band of near-disease free counties from Lake Michigan to the Mississippi River through the central part of the state. Most of the Fox Valley region will reach this status within a few years.

The subject of collecting colony tax in local townships drew comment from producers. It was noted that the state is getting about half the colony tax it has coming due as indicated by the number of colonies in the state.

Local assessors are notified of names and locations of bee keepers who have colonies in their area. Some felt the county assessor proposal would provide more equity in future collections. Others noted that local assessors would have to spend more than they gained in the 25-cent-per-colony tax collection from many small producers in their towns. Assessors are permitted by the state to retain a nickel of the quarter per colony tax they collect.

Long predicted a future tax of 60 to 70 cents per colony lived in June instead of earlier in the year when bees are in transit between season. The state requires no tax from colonies which are in and out of the state within six months.

"The 41st round of the brucellosis ring test (BRT) shows that the loss of state dairy producers has slowed down considerably during the past several months," according to Dr. A. A. Erdmann, state animal health administrator.

The survey, completed in December, shows 65,431 patrons, representing a loss of only 991 patrons, one of the lowest losses shown since the BRT was started in 1951.

The loss shown on the 40th round completed last August was 1,213 dairy producers. The previous loss had been 1,120 patrons.

Milking Herd Lowest in 40 Years

The number of cows in Wisconsin's milking herds during 1968 was the smallest in 40 years, according to preliminary estimates made by the Wisconsin Statistical Reporting Service.

The number of milk cows in the state's dairy herds in 1968 was 2 per cent below the previous year. Total production was unchanged, however, due to the fact that these cows produced 2 per cent more milk.

There was an average of 1,887,000 cows in Wisconsin dairy herds last year, representing the smallest number since the 1,850,000 reported in 1928.

Milk production showed a gain of 73 per cent since 1928. Milk production per cow in 1968 reached a record high of 9,650 pounds, or 70 per cent more than the average of 5,680 pounds 40 years earlier.

Farm Materials Handling Show At Bay Arena

Exposition Features Dairying, Corn Drying Equipment

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — How long would it take you to check out more than 300 items of chore-saving farm equipment — with a hundred distributors and dealers involved? It could be quite a job.

An easy, pleasant way is the 1969 Farm Materials Handling Exposition, scheduled Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at the Brown County Veterans Memorial Arena.

The event has been set up this year as a "Salute to the Farmers of Wisconsin." Daily hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is free and there will be ample free parking at Lambeau Field across the street.

All of the arena display space has been reserved. Large items of equipment will occupy a large section of the parking lot.

"Distributors and factory experts will be on duty to answer questions, pointing out where new methods can be applied to make money for the farmer," a show spokesman said.

The emphasis, of course, will be on dairying. There will be displays and demonstrations of new pipeline milking equipment, milk coolers, barn cleaners, silo

Farm Tour Planned at Waupaca

WAUPACA — The annual tour for the Waupaca-Waushara County Holstein Breeders will be on Monday, March 24. The group will leave from the Manawa City Hall at 10 a.m. and visit three dairy farms and the Midwest Breeders Cooperative in Shawano.

The first farm to be toured will be the Marvin Baerenwald farm, south of Clintonville, where the group will not only see a herd of 57 Holsteins with a 453 pound herd average but also an outstanding dairy barn with the latest in material handling equipment.

The group also will tour Midwest Breeders Co-op in Shawano. In the afternoon the group will visit the farm operated by Art, Dave and Tom Brunner of Cecil. This herd of 79 Holsteins produced 13,300 pounds of milk and 485 pounds of fat. The last farm to be visited will be that of Norman Burmeister. His herd of 44 cows produced 550 pounds of fat this past year.

unloaders and bunk feeders, elevators and conveyors, and feed grinders and mixers.

New designs in silos and silage distributors will be seen. Automatic stock waterers and water systems will be presented, as well as forage harvesters and blowers, forage wagons and many items of small motorized tools and equipment.

Farmers interested in corn production will see electric dryers. There will be numerous examples of electric heating equipment.

A dozen extension agents from neighboring counties will collaborate with University of Wisconsin specialists in presenting interesting educational features.

Crop drying and manure handling will be emphasized. There also will be a farm buildings section, with specialists available to confer with farmers on their specific requirements.

District Drama, Speaking Contest at Waupaca

Waupaca County will play host to a district 4-H drama and speaking festival at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Waupaca High School gym. Participating will be contestants from Portage, Green Lake, Waushara and Waupaca counties, according to Philip Jeske, county 4-H youth agent.

Each county will present a one-act play and top speakers in the various age divisions. They are 9-11 year old, 2-3 minute speech; 12-14 years old, 3-5 minute speech; and 15-19 year olds, 4-8 minute speech. All area members and parents are invited to attend.

A series of 4-H dog project meetings for members, leaders and parents has been scheduled for Waupaca County. The first group meets at 8 p.m. on the second and fourth Monday at the Manawa City Hall. Joan Dorschner and Paul Roloff will be instructors. The other group meets at 8 p.m. on the first and third Monday at the Waupaca Armory. Frank Kernen is the instructor. Project members may attend classes at the location most convenient for them.

The third in a series of project meetings on tractors and small engines was conducted Thursday at Manawa High School for Waupaca County members with Oswald Prellwitz as instructor. The tractor group was instructed by Jim Heuer, Manawa vocational agriculture instructor, and Art Hamm, 4-H leader, who taught tractor safety and maintenance.

The Kennedy 4-H and Darboy Ever Alert East Clubs will represent Calumet County in the annual district music festival at De Pere Tuesday after having won at the county contest at Brillion. Other clubs participating were Green Acres, Charlesburg Stars, Friendly Valley, Lakeshore North and Young Americans.

Eight members joined the Woodland Hustlers 4-H Club at its March meeting. They are Mike Duffey, Kathy and Susan Sprangers, Debra and Dawn Reischl, and Robin, Bambi and Glenn Brouillard.

Members of the play cast who competed in the recent county contest were Jean Court, Gail and Rickie Gagnow, Carla Rafter, June Karweick, Terry and Toni Ott, Diane Trost, Vickie Gardner and David Jurgens. Karen Gagnow was a guest at the Outagamie County Natural Beauty Council's kickoff dinner in Appleton because of her prize winning poster.

The club will send five members to the state 4-H conservation camp at Upham Woods near Wisconsin Dells this summer. The club was one of seven top state winners in the project area last year. As one of the top 10 safety clubs in the state last year the club will send one representative to the awards program in Milwaukee April 25-26.

Mrs. Harvey Thomas showed slides to the Cicero Busy Bees describing destruction caused by fire, hail and tornadoes. The club entered its band in the county music festival. Next meeting will be April 8.

Members of the North Star 4-H Club voted to have achievement pins awarded on an age basis every three years. An Easter party is planned for preschool children of Nichols on Easter Saturday.

Calumet County adult leaders will meet at the courthouse in Chilton to discuss youth and youth leadership. Instructors will be William Shaw, Outagamie County 4-H agent, and Elizabeth Davies, state youth development agent. Madison. Project, activity and main leaders should attend.

Darboy Ever Alert-East 4-H Club's vocalists won top ratings at the Calumet County Music Festival. This is the fifth consecutive year the club has represented the county at the district contest.

Mrs. Gene Stumpf and Mrs. Gordon Mader direct the chorus. Members are Jeff Jansen, Paula Jansen, Mary Kay Wallace, Julie Schultz, Chris Schultz, Sue Stumpf, Mary Stumpf, Tony Stumpf, Jean Lamers, Patty Mader, Tony Mader, Karla Van Thiel, Victory Van Thiel, Debbie, Kathy and Tom Zuleger. Pam Van Asten is accompanist.

The club's junior leaders made plans for the season at Monday's meeting. The club will participate in the variety show at New Holstein High School April 19. Evelyn Zuleger is among 33 members from the county selected to stay near Gettysburg, Pa., this summer as part of an exchange program.

Club Week, Congress

Outagamie Announces Major 4-H Winners

Recipients or nominees for five major national, state and local 4-H awards in Outagamie County have been announced this week by William Shaw, county 4-H youth agent.

Fourteen youths have been selected to attend the 1969 State 4-H Club Week Conference at the University of Wisconsin at Madison June 17-20.

Delegates are Linda Diermeier, Cicero Busy Bees; Gail Gagnow, Woodland Hustlers; Kay Fehrman, Lucky Star; Debra Kettner, Helpful Hands; Jane Klarner, Always Onward; Robert Koch, Clover Leaf; Jerome Koleske, Ellington 4-H; Donna Marx, On The Go; Kathleen Matuszak, Windmill Wonders; James Simon, Wide Awake Forward; Cheryl Spiegel, Lucky Star; Dennis and Diane VanHandel, Always Onward; and Donna Wichmann, Wide Awake Forward 4-H.

Those selected for the 1969 4-H citizenship short course conference at Washington, D.C., July 13-19, are Krystal Kaddatz, Clover Leaf; Jerome Koleske, Ellington 4-H; Donna Spierings, Valley 4-H; and Dennis VanHandel, Always Onward 4-H.

Four girls will represent the county in the "Little IFYE" exchange program. They are Kay Fehrman, Lucky Star 4-H; Christine Schaumberg, Wild Grove 4-H; Betty Tesch, Cicero Busy Bees 4-H; and Judy VanGroll, Valley 4-H. They will visit farms in Vermillion County near Newport, Ind., August 17-23.

The highest state award that a 4-H member may receive is the Wisconsin 4-H Key Award. Six youths have been selected to receive this award at the county achievement night Nov. 5. They are Mary Ann Klarner, Always Onward 4-H; Krystal Kaddatz, Clover Leaf 4-H; William Buchmann, Wild Grove 4-H; Richard Marx, On The Go 4-H; Betty Tesch, Cicero Busy Bees 4-H; and Christine Schaumberg, Wild Grove 4-H.

Three have been nominated as possible candidates for the 1969 National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, Nov. 30-Dec. 4. Nominees are William Buchmann, Wild Grove 4-H; Mary Ann Klarner, Always Onward 4-H; and Ralph Zerbe, Ellington 4-H. Selection of candidates will be determined after district interviews from 3 to 8 p.m. Thursday, April 10 at the Appleton YMCA.

Engineers Claim $7,000 Homes Will be Built

WASHINGTON (AP) — A house costing under $7,000 can and will be built, says the Agriculture Department.

The department said housing research engineers in the Forest Products Laboratory have designed the houses for low-income rural families.

The Forest Service is preparing plans for five models to provide for families with up to 12 children. The houses are to be built under the Housing Act of 1968.

"The houses will have insulation, central heat and indoor plumbing; but no frills," the department said. "Economies have been effected."

cooperators since 1950 when he was taking on-the-farm training from the Appleton Vocational School. They farm 225 acres. Erodible land is kept in permanent hay and renovated. More than two miles of tile and one and one half miles of surface drains have been installed. He is attempting to organize an area group drain of 25 landowners. He is vice-chairman of the Outagamie County committee of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

Grand Chute — Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bloy have been district cooperators since 1963. He received his training at the Appleton Vocational School. They farm 130 acres. Their 23-cow herd has a butterfat average of 439 pounds. They also raise beef cattle. He belongs to the farmers club.

Greenville — Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Steinacker, district cooperators since 1965, farm 320 acres. The new dairy barn, replacing one which burned down, features open housing for the 70 cows. He has removed stone fences, contour strips and more than 2,000 foot of tiled grassed waterways have been installed.

Hortonia — Mr. and Mrs. Norman Marcks and son, Glenn, farm 227 acres. They milk 55 cows with a DHIA average of 486 pounds of butterfat. They also have a swine enterprise of 80 hogs. They became district cooperators in 1967, plan to complete erosion control practices and are working on a group drainage project.

Kaukauna — Mr. and Mrs. Martin Van Schyndel have been district cooperators since 1955. He was an early pioneer in a complete system of surface drainage on his original 120 acres. They currently have 260 acres and have installed more than 20,000 feet of surface drains for four consecutive years plus a mile of tile. Their 90 Holsteins have produced more than 1 million pounds of milk in the last two years. They also have brood sows and 15 acres of wildlife. He belongs to the farmer club.

Wildlife Habitat

Liberty — Mr. and Mrs. Harold Anthony and son, Carl, own 130 acres and rent another 600 on which they raise beans, cabbage and field corn. The senior Anthony has been driving school buses for 28 years.

Maine — The Winterfeldt brothers have a partnership in farming about 450 acres. Part of their land abuts the Wolf River which floods the lowlands. They have installed surface drainage, a pond and riprapping along the river. Many acres of wildlife habitat are maintained. They milk 30 cows and raise beef cattle.

Maple Creek — Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Young operate a 216-acre farm, have a herd of 25 cows and raise their replacement stock. He raises cash crops and follows a conservation plan for the farm.

Oneida — Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Vander Heiden have enlarged their dairy operation and mechanized the feeding setup. They have 50 cows with a 450 pound butterfat average on their 213-acre farm. Their farm serves as an outlet for the area's group drain. They have been cooperators since 1966.

Sheep Breeder

Osborn — Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Sievert, district cooperators since 1953, operate a 200-acre farm. He cooperated with neighbors to establish two group drains. More than a mile of tile plus surface drains have been installed. He milks 41 cows and raises beef cattle. Both are superintendents of county fair departments, he in livestock and she in arts and crafts. She also is key 4-H leader in leathercraft for the county.

Seymour — Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Barth are farming 300 acres, have installed more than three miles of tile plus a waterway and diversion and have a pipeline milker for their 55 Holstein cows which average 507 pounds of butterfat. He has 40 acres in cash crop. The land is double-cropped in peas and green beans. They also raise feeder pigs.

Vandenbroek — Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Coenen, district cooperators since 1961, operate an 80-acre farm. He is president of the Northeastern Wisconsin Sheep Breeders Association, raised 100 bred ewes and 120 beef steers. With good management corn yields have averaged 125 bushel per acre and hay nearly 4 tons per acre.

Secretary to Consult Industry Representatives, Nelson Says

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin has agreed to meet soon with dairy industry representatives to discuss possible inadequacies in the latest quotas placed on dairy imports.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson said that Hardin indicated in a letter that he was planning to discuss current controls and proposed quota legislation.

Hardin told Nelson that "the adequacy of our dairy import control system is one of the many subjects which is under active review. If it does not work, we are prepared to correct the situation; indeed, we intend to do so."

"I hope that many of the questions that have been raised about the January quotas can be resolved at this meeting," Nelson said. "Why was New Zealand allotted a quota for cheese that it had no historical record of shipping to the U. S.? What safeguards are being established to assure that there will be no rebates or kickbacks with regard to the quota-free imports of cheese priced at 47 cents or more per pound? Why was the final import quota for chocolate milk crumb higher than the recommendations of both the Department of Agriculture and the Tariff Commission?"

"Dairy farmers have been disappointed and disgusted by the failure of our foreign trade policy makers to give consideration to their interest," he said.

Imports Up

"They have been advised year after year to reduce their own milk production to get a better balance between supply and demand. Over the past four years, farmers have reduced production by nearly 10 billion pounds, from 127 billion in 1964 to 117 billion last year.

"But over the same period of time, imports of dairy products, heavily subsidized by foreign governments, have increased by almost five billion pounds, which along with the continuing cost-price squeeze, has eliminated any real price improvement for American dairy farmers.

"In addition, our farmers are greatly concerned about the double standard regarding the sanitary standards that they must meet. They must invest thousands of dollars in equipment and facilities required by local, State and Federal health regulations.

"But there is no assurance that foreign dairy farms and plants who ship dairy products to the U. S. operate under comparable sanitary standards.

Midwest Livestock Unit To Explain Program at 12 Corners Meeting

The livestock marketing program of the Midwest Livestock Producers, a Farm Bureau affiliate, will be explained to Outagamie County farmers at 8 p.m. Thursday, March 27, at Pennings Hall, 12 Corners.

Gen. Mgr. Norval Dvorak will discuss present operations, plans for expansion of new markets and services, a new expanded hog feeding and financing program and the market outlook for 1969.

Piano for Truman

Nixon Heals a Wound

WASHINGTON (AP) — A grand piano has turned out to be the unlikely peace symbol that has ended one of the nation's nastiest political feuds—the split between President Nixon and Harry S. Truman.

Over the years, charges of treason, cronyism and political ineptness by Nixon and threats of physical reprisals by Truman have marked relations between the two—with playing the piano the only apparent common point of interest.

Nixon moved to heal the breach when he scheduled a stop today on his trip to California for a visit at the 84-year-old former president's Independence, Mo., home. The chief executive took along the White House piano often used by Truman as a gift.

As a coming Republican congressman in the years after World War II who built a political name as a Red hunter, Nixon was never close to the Democratic president.

Any ties between the two came to an end in 1952 when Nixon, running as the GOP vice presidential candidate, charged the retiring president with coddling Communists in the government.

Truman and other Democratic leaders were "traitors to the high principles in which many of the nation's Democrats believe," Nixon charged.

"Awfullest Thing"

Truman reacted angrily to what he considered an attack on his patriotism. He was quoted as calling Nixon an SOB and once said he never wanted to see Nixon because "it would just start a fight. That's the awfullest thing a man can be called—a traitor. When I get started on that, I don't want to swear, I want to punch someone."

Their paths have seldom crossed since. They last met at a Washington dinner in 1964.

The rest of Nixon's time after arriving in California late today included a helicopter tour of the Santa Barbara beaches despoiled by an oil slick from a runaway offshore well.

Saturday Nixon and his wife Pat will go to the San Juan Capistrano Mission famed for its annual springtime visitation by swallows.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler left open the possibility Nixon might do some house hunting while on the West Coast.

"The President is looking for a home in this general area of California," Ziegler said. The President wants to establish a summer White House in the vicinity of San Clemente, where he will spend the weekend.

Killed in Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Wisconsin servicemen were listed by the Defense Department Thursday as having been killed in Vietnam.

They were: Army Spec. 4 Lyle C. Hansbrough, son of Helen E. Hansbrough of Madison; Army Spec. 4 John L. Rueth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Rueth of rural Loyal; Marine Pfc. Verdon D. Jacobs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd D. Jacobs, rural Galesville.

President, Bunker to Confer On U.S. Troop Withdrawals

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is expected to seek from Ellsworth Bunker in consultations starting this weekend the ambassador's views on how soon South Vietnam may be politically and militarily strong enough to permit the withdrawal of some U.S. troops.

The question is one of several major issues believed certain to come up after Nixon and his chief foreign policy advisers meet Bunker and Gen. Andrew J. Goodpastor at San Clemente, Calif., Sunday morning. Goodpastor, the No. 2 U.S. military man in South Vietnam, is on his way to take over as NATO commander in Europe. Nixon's advisers in the talks that will continue on the flight back to Washington Sunday afternoon and into next week will be Secretary of State William P.

NASA Chief Tells Plans For Future

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — If the first manned lunar landing comes off as planned in July, a space official says, it will be followed up by a series of others for "a sum total of 10 voyages to the surface of the moon."

Dr. Thomas O. Paine, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, told the Air Force Association convention Thursday:

"If we do make the first touchdown this summer, we'll follow that with three similar voyages, each time increasing the scientific equipment."

Each of the first four moon landings, he said, would leave equipment to measure lunar surface disturbances and to reflect laser beams back to Earth.

The six later landings, he said, could be set up in areas of the most significant interest and could include overland exploration.

"We're talking here really about man's conquest of the seventh continent," he said, noting that the moon has about the area of North and South America.

Paine said the second decade of space exploration which began this year would include a number of probes of Earth's sister planets.

Two probes, one launched last month and the other due to leave next week, will orbit Mars and send back to Earth television pictures of that planet. They also will transmit temperatures, examine the Martian atmosphere and measure light radiation.

"We hope to get a fairly definitive idea as to whether or not conditions on Mars are such that life might exist," Paine said.

Mars orbiters also will be launched in 1971 and two unmanned landings will be attempted in 1973.

During the 1977 to 1979 period, Paine said, it will be possible to launch an unmanned probe which will make "a grand tour" of four planets, using the gravitational pull of each to speed toward the next.

The planets then will be in a lineup that will not occur again in 170 years.

The lineup, said Paine, "will allow us first to go past the gravity field of Jupiter, then swing out past Saturn, then to Uranus and to Neptune."

The voyage would take nine years, he said, and would have to be nuclear powered "to complete the journey and send back the information."

Laird Hints at War Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird pledged today that if the Paris peace talks fail to end the conflict in Vietnam, "We will have an alternative as far as the war is concerned."

He did not say what that alternative would be.

Laird made that statement after Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., shifted the course of a Senate hearing away from the hotly contested antiballistic missile (ABM) system with a critique of Nixon administration handling of the Vietnam war.

Fulbright said the question of armaments and their control is linked with that of the Southeast Asian conflict.

"Isn't it possible, Mr. Secretary, to realize that we are not now and never have been winning this war?" he asked Laird. "If this administration continues to escalate this war in Vietnam, it will soon be Mr.

Nixon's war," the senator said. "I would just like to say that this administration is committed to end the war in Vietnam."

Laird said, "We are presently engaged in very important peace talks in Paris."

Then he declared:

"I want you to know that we are hopeful that we will be suc-

away from, an escalation of the arms race," he said.

Another critic of the new ABM system, Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., told Laird his system was "a defense in search of a mission." And he said the mission had not been discovered.

Gore said

"It is my serious conviction that the program which you recommend would further endanger our security. It would make an armament limitation agreement more difficult, if not impossible to obtain, and thus ultimately could degrade our deterrent."

Laird, fresh from two days of testimony in favor of the Safeguard ABM system in the friendly confines of the Senate Armed Services Committee, thus encountered immediate resistance in the Foreign Relations subcommittee dominated by AMB opponents.

In fact, as the subcommittee hearing opened, the only senators present were Gore, J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., Frank Church, D-Idaho and Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., all ABM opponents.

Gore issued a lengthy critique of Laird's testimony Thursday and said "it has been well said that this ABM system is a defense in search of a mission. We have heard every possible kind of argument for it and many of these are contradictory."

"Our real security rests in stopping the nuclear armament race, and not in promoting it," the Tennessee Democrat added, saying the subcommittee is interested in knowing why a promised disarmament talk with the Soviets has not yet started.

One of the few rough spots Laird had before the Armed

'Too Many' Soviets Still Go to Church

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Communists were told today that too many people—including some card-carrying party members—are still going to church.

"Every Communist is a fighting atheist," or at least he should be, the party Central Committee newspaper Sovetskaya Rossiya declared in a front-page editorial.

The newspaper criticized party officials who have ignored the fact that many party members are also having their children baptized.

"All this is going on despite the fact that K. Marx says religion is the opiate of the people, a reactionary force and holds back the development of society," the editorial said.

Communists were advised to try to substitute modern new civil rituals for the old religious rites that accompany baptism, marriage and birthdays.

"There are many cases where Soviet holidays and ceremonies are monotonous, boring and old-fashioned," the editorial said.

White Base is just north of the Michelin rubber plantation where more than 10,000 American troops and scores of tanks are trying to root out an estimated 7,500 North Vietnamese threatening Saigon. U.S. intelligence officers said the purpose of the attack on the base apparently was to tie down the artillery batteries while North Vietnamese troops tried to maneuver away from American ground forces closing on them.

Majority Escape

AP photographer Horst Faas reported from the area that the bulk of the North Vietnamese believed to have been in the Michelin plantation area apparently had escaped to the north and east.

Only one major contact was reported today in the big U.S. counteroffensive, known as Operation Atlas Wedge. Troops of Col. George S. Patton's 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment and men of the 1st Air Cavalry Division fought a day-long battle 45 miles northwest of Saigon Thursday, and killed at least 72 North Vietnamese, U.S. headquarters said.

The Other Side

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird acknowledged today that it is easier to run a congressional inquiry than to face one.

The former Republican House member from Wisconsin told a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee: "It's a lot easier to ask good questions than it is to give good answers."

Laird noted he spent 16 years asking the questions. "Now I have to give the answers — and I used to have the reputation of being a good questioner," he said.

Senate to Rule on 'Ham What Am'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Cook, a Baker and a Byrd are on the outs about hams, and they're asking the Senate to settle the dispute.

These aren't the political kind of hams, however—they're cured country hams from Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia.

The squabble started when Sen. Marlow W. Cook, R-Ky., wrote to Sens. Howard Baker Jr., R-Tenn., and Harry Byrd, D-Va., claiming that Kentucky country hams are better than their Tennessee and Virginia competitors.

Cook, predicting "the winner must assuredly be Kentucky country ham," suggested that each senator take some of his state's best hams to the Senate chef—along with personal cooking hints—to be served to the entire Senate as a team of judges.

Baker said he hated to "reveal the inadequacy of the Kentucky and Virginia hams," but accepted the challenge.

"Everyone knows," he added, "that the rich, red Tennessee ham is the best in the country and that red-eye gravy originated in Tennessee when connoisseurs tired of the dull, brown broth produced by Virginia and Kentucky ham."

Byrd was equal to the challenge, too.

"I have thrown down my gauntlet," he said in a letter to Cook. "You will find it in the Senate chef's kitchen. I will shortly replace the glove with a Virginia ham—the best what am."

Baker had referred to the stately competition as ham fry, to which Cook retorted: "Whoever said this is going to be a ham fry? Is frying a Tennessee ham the only way you can get rid of its onus? This is ham bake, Baker."

There was no word as to when the Senate was going to settle the issue, but a ham dinner may be in the offing soon.

Home-Buying Costs Go Up, Up and Away

NEW YORK (AP) — If you plan to buy a house this spring, forget about last year's prices and don't laugh when the salesman tells you "this place is a steal at $40,000."

Higher interest charges on mortgages, higher taxes and insurance and rising costs of lumber and other materials have sent house prices skyrocketing. More increases are in prospect.

"Costs have gone up 10 per cent in the last year," said Milton Brock of M.J. Brock & Sons, Los Angeles builder.

Bernard Janis, president of Janis Corp., of Miami, Fla., estimated the cost of a $30,000 home has risen 20 per cent in the past year and will rise 10 per cent more to about $39,500 in the next six months.

"The cost of lumber rose 50 per cent in the past six months," he said. "Why? Who's the one pushing it up? Most of our lumber comes from the big Douglas fir mills on the West Coast, and they're selling to the government and Japan at inflated prices. We've got to pay their prices to get the materials we need."

Advance Mortgage Corp. of Detroit said in its semiannual

survey that today's house buyer will pay, compared with a year ago, an average 10 per cent price increase, a 1½ per cent rise in interest rate and 5 per cent increase in taxes and insurance.

"And," the company said, "he'll have a hard time finding the same house. Builders keep

Electors to be Polled on Marion Pond Renovation

Outagamie Road Report Fatality-Free Record

A modern day record for death-free days on Outagamie County roads was set today when the total hit 93.

The last fatal accident in Outagamie County was on Dec. 17 when three New London residents died in a two-car crash on a service road a mile west of Appleton.

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps, who has held the office for 18 years, said his records show the previous high total for fatality free accidents was in 1961, between Aug. 10 and Nov. 11, a total of 92 days.

Outagamie County recorded only 14 fatality accidents in 1961, far below the yearly average and 17 behind the new record set in 1968.

Fewer Vehicles

Kemps said it is likely that there were years when fatality-free periods totaled more than 93 days, since there were far fewer vehicles and thus fewer accidents.

Several factors figured in the present fatality-free period, Kemps explained.

He cited the adverse weather and road conditions early in the year, pointing out that motorists were forced to drive slower and although there were many accidents, most were minor. The same bad weather conditions figured in reduced number of fatal accidents throughout the state early this year, Kemps said. The state toll is running about 70 behind that of 1968.

Other factors cited by Kemps are added traffic policemen and what he termed "the safety push" by the news media.

Referendum Could be Key to State's Proposed Program; Would be Empty Over One Year

MARION — City electors will be asked in a referendum question April 1 whether they support a state pilot project to renovate the 85-acre Marion mill pond. The pond would have to be drained for over a year.

Unless the vote is close, their advisory preference is expected to be followed by the mayor and city council, both of whom have withheld taking positions on the matter.

The question is whether the voters approve of the pond being drained for the next two summers and next winter to allow work to be done on the pond bottom.

This would include bulldozing out tons of silt and laying a plastic sheet on the bottom to prevent further weed growth. The plastic would be covered with gravel, and the pond restocked.

Under the direction of the University of Wisconsin Extension and the State Department of Natural Resources, (DNR), efforts also would be made to prevent nutrients — mainly farm yard waste — from draining directly into the north branch of the Pigeon River, which feeds the pond.

The project would have far-reaching effects in the state, DNR officials have said. If successful, mill ponds in other communities could receive the same overhaul.

Like the Marion mill pond, others in the state have been filling with silt and weeds, which are fed by nutrients dumped into the headwaters.

City's Cost

The state will foot most of the bill, with the only cost to the city reportedly to be "roughly $5,000" for repairing the main gate of the dam, it was reported. The dam must be repaired even though this project may not be developed.

The estimated total cost of the project is $75,000 to $85,000.

The special committee, appointed by the mayor and given a relatively free hand to coordinate the project with the DNR met recently with representatives of the University of Wisconsin Extension and the DNR.

Special Fund To be Marked For Village Hall

STOCKBRIDGE — All certificates of deposit in a special fund will be earmarked for building a new village hall, the village board voted Wednesday night. The special session was called by president Paul Westenberg.

A total of $14,000 is in the fund, which has been an issue at several recent meetings. The money was accumulated at the rate of $2,000 a year and was started after a vote by village officials.

Though always considered a building fund, only the last $2,000 certificate is so marked. Over the years money from the fund has been borrowed for road improvements, on a no interest basis, and replaced as funds again became available. A total of $4,000 was in the fund, two years ago, the $6,000 borrowed was replaced and $2,000 added each year.

The special meeting, at which no taxpayers were present, was called to settle the issue before new board take over.

Arpin-Engeldinger Contest Judge Candidates Step-Up Campaigns

NEENAH — The two candidates for judge of the newly created 2nd Circuit Court have 11 full days planned to meet and talk with voters in Winnebago and Calumet counties.

Billboards are blossoming in both counties for candidate Edmund P. Arpin. Neenah attorney. A special information center is open to the public at 11 full days planned to meet and talk with voters in Winnebago and Calumet counties.

Supervisors Will Name, Mark Roads

CHILTON — Plans were completed Tuesday by the Calumet County board to name county roads and post signs at 446 intersections.

Estimated cost of the project is $8,072.

Lyle Sign Co., Minneapolis, will be contracted to make zinc-coated steel signs.

Supervisors were given a preliminary report on the towns responsibility in the project and the number of signs each will need.

Roland Tonn, county planner, told the board that the sign company has agreed to replace sign blades damaged by vandals for $1.45.

Installation and maintenance costs will be worked out by Tonn and the industrial development and rural numbering committee.

Pick Prom King At Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — Steve Krubsack was elected junior prom king by the students Wednesday at senior high school. He was one of five previously elected to the court. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Krubsack, Embarrass.

Court members are Roger Buss, Bill Donaldson, John Justman, and Kevin Korb.

First, Ninth Graders TB Tests to be Given In Seymour Schools

SEYMOUR — The Seymour Community Schools Health Service, in conjunction with the Outagamie County Tuberculosis Association, is sponsoring the tuberculin skin testing program for the first and ninth grade pupils on Monday and Tuesday, with the readings on Wednesday and Thursday.

This test is a method of determining whether the tubercle bacilli (the organisms that cause tuberculosis) have entered the body.

If a child has ever had a positive tuberculin test, this test should not be repeated. A person who once shows positive reaction will usually remain positive and, therefore, should receive a chest x-ray yearly as insurance that there is no active disease present.

The places and times for the tests are as follows: Black Creek Grade School, 1:30 p.m. Monday; St. John's Seymour, 12:30 p.m. Tuesday; Seymour Grade School, 1 p.m., Tuesday, and the high school, 2 p.m., Tuesday.

Edwin Wilkie, court administrator, Madison, said Thursday that court room facilities provided by the county, using the board of supervisors' room, will be adequate.

Solons Want Election of U. S. Judges

MADISON (AP)—A group of 19 GOP legislators, led by Assembly Speaker Harold V. Froehlich of Appleton, has introduced a resolution asking Congress to amend the constitution to allow for the election of federal judges.

The resolution was introduced Wednesday in the assembly asking Congress to call a constitutional convention to revamp the judicial system, including the method whereby federal judges are appointed for life.

The lawmakers drafted the resolution after Federal Judge James Doyle of Madison ordered reinstatement of three students who had been suspended from the University of Wisconsin for alleged disruption recently.

Doyle also handed down a decision several weeks ago which would prohibit local school boards from enacting dress and grooming codes. That decision is being appealed by the Williams Bay School Board.

Froehlich Labels Judicial Attack 'Secret Resentment'

MADISON — A judicial attack last week on Assembly Speaker Harold V. Froehlich, R-Appleton, was only a reflection of the secret resentment of the "judicial establishment" for public participation in the selection of judges, Froehlich has replied.

When Dane County Circuit Judge Norris Maloney accused Froehlich of carrying on a "vendetta" against defeated Justice George Currie, Maloney was not only wrong, but voicing a "wild theory" about "an imaginary feud he has conjured up," said Froehlich in a recent newsletter.

Froehlich's comments came in a weekly "capsule report" of the Speaker's office, entitled "Baloney, Maloney!"

"Law of Animosity"

It dealt with the accusation by Maloney at a State Senate committee meeting last week that a bill Froehlich has authored was a "personal law of animosity" because it would affect only Currie.

Froehlich's bill would prevent judges defeated by voters from subsequently serving as "reserve judges" and receiving pay for such temporary work.

Maloney claimed that the only judge affected by such a bill would be Currie, and said that Froehlich's opposition to Currie

Boardmanship Certificate Given New London Man

NEW LONDON — Clare Babcock, member of the New London Board of Education, has been awarded a certificate of boardmanship for having successfully completed a three-year sequence of school board training sessions.

Babcock completed requirements at a recent meeting. The certificate is awarded to school members and administrators who participate in institutes conducted by the Wisconsin Association of School Boards.

About 450 school officials attended this year's institutes which were at Madison and Wausau. Board members studied subjects covering the organization of education, school board meetings, school personnel relations, school buildings and finance and the educational program.

Management Holds Key Fox Cities 'Missing Economic Boat'

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Top Fox Cities business and community leaders hold the key to this area's economic growth, a sales and marketing expert said Wednesday night.

Lester Gingold, president of Evaluations, Inc., Memphis, Tenn., said, "It's the people that control the finances" that must bring the area out of its sluggishness.

"This area really isn't growing fast," he said, noting it's also not as rich as people think. Gingold, also an executive of a major national retailing organization, expressed his views in an interview following his presentation to over 300 business, professionals and students. The Sales and Marketing Executives Club of Northeastern Wisconsin was the organizer and initial sponsor of the audit.

He emphasized the need for the area "to pull together as a team" in economic pursuits.

Pull Together

"Neenah can't go in one direction, Appleton in another and Menasha in another," he said.

People must relax intense loyalties to a single community and develop this as an entire area, Gingold said.

"There's unity in strength," he noted.

The only people who can bring this about are the biggest and most influential business leaders, he said. They must be willing to spend their own money on the first joint effort, he added.

He also called for a single Chamber of Commerce for the Fox Cities and suggested the "top man" in each business and organization should be an active participant and willing to try new ideas.

He pointed out that this area has missed the boat in not promoting itself up to its capacity for attracting tourists, as well as industry.

He noted that industries last year spent $64 billion to locate new plants and communities spent $35 million to attract them. He urged community promotion for both, but noted that tourism particularly can be lucrative.

He suggested the Dard Hunter Museum at The Institute of Paper Chemistry held the key. "This museum could be the finest of its kind in America," he said, adding it is now "buried" and not promoted for tourism.

He urged that it be expanded and opened up to provide a complete history of paper, including the modern uses of paper.

"Twenty tourists are equal to an industry hiring 125 people," he said.

Gingold said that major industry looks at this area as a whole, not as individual communities. He noted that it is a natural area for industry to locate.

Congregation Plans Church At Waupaca

WAUPACA — The Shepherd of the Lakes Lutheran Church of Waupaca congregation okayed building a $132,500 church Sunday at a special congregation meeting.

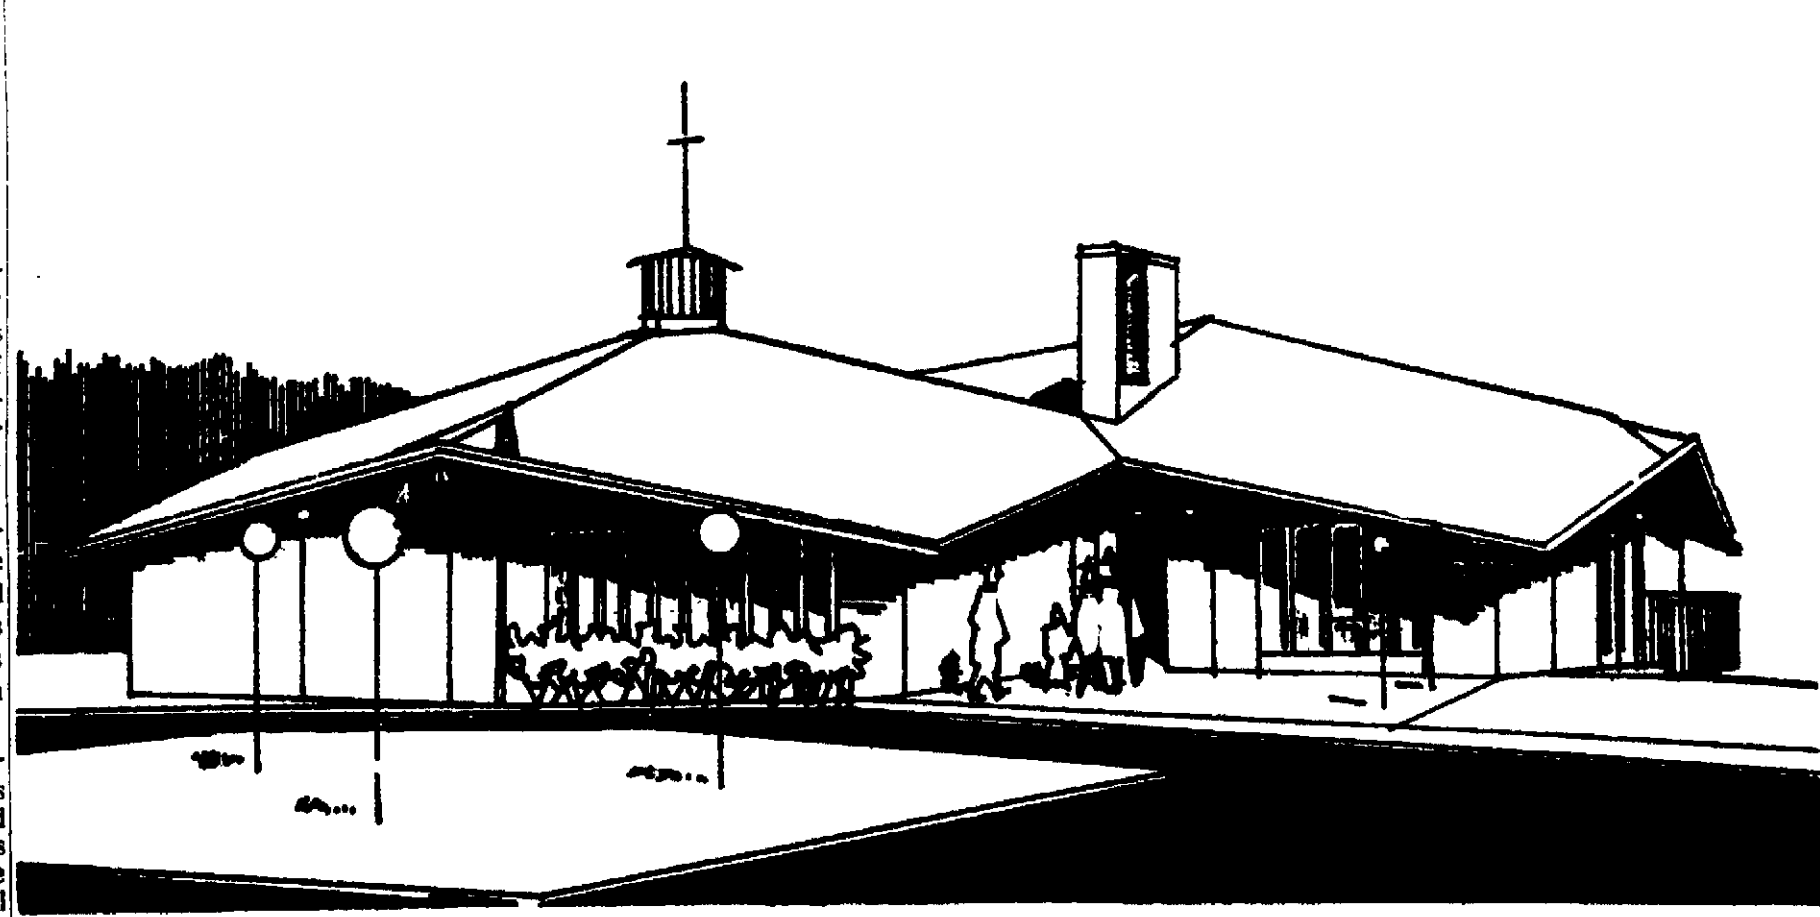

The financing of furnishings for the building also was approved by the congregation.

The building will be built near the intersection of State 22, State 54 and U.S. 10 across from the Ponderosa.

The church nave will be on ground level with a seating capacity of 250 persons in pews plus space for 50 persons in chairs.

An education and fellowship wing will have two floors. The top floor will be on the same level as the nave and is designed for fellowship and Sunday School classes. The wing also will house the church office. The lower floor will be used for Sunday School and youth activities and will be open to ground level on the east.

Robert Rowland, Wisconsin Rapids, is the architect. The Rev. LeRoy S. Davidson is the church's pastor.

This is the Architect's conception of the proposed Shepherd of the Lakes Lutheran Church of Waupaca which will be constructed near the intersection of State 54 and U.S. 10. Cost of the building, furnishing and other expenses are expected to be about $132,500.

Bill to Aid Parochial Schools Would Apply To Secular Programs

MADISON, Wis. — The latest in a series of legislative bills to use state funds for the aid of parochial and other non-public schools seeks to avoid the separation of church and state. The bill, which is not mandatory, specifies that schools have expressed an explicit objection to the idea of the secular educational activities in the non-public educational programs.

He added that he is interested in upgrading the quality of education in such schools while maintaining a distinct separation of church and state. The bill, because some private schools have expressed an explicit objection to the idea of the secular educational activities in the non-public educational programs.

But he asserted that many parents are moving their children to public schools, and that more and more private schools are closing, with the result that the state and its facilities will be faced with a greatly increased school budget burden unless means are found to keep the non-public schools operating.

The plan was introduced by assemblyman Donald K. Helgeson, R-Manitowish, who said that aid payments to the private schools would be restricted to the actual cost of teachers' salaries, textbooks and instructional materials directly related to the teaching of courses in mathematics, modern foreign languages, physical science and physical education.

He described his bill as one to authorize "purchasing the services of teaching secular courses to students attending private schools."

Wants Safeguards

Pointing to other proposals for direct state tuition grants to the parents of such pupils, Helgeson said, "it is imperative that any program of this kind include adequate public safeguards."

He said his bill incorporates control factors to assure the public that it is getting the full measure of what it is paying for to assure the public that the state is not supporting religion under the guise of supporting secular education, and fiscal control to make certain that all the money made available is spent for the purposes specified.

300 Students Will Participate in Music Festival at AHS-E

About 300 pupils in their last year of elementary school are expected to participate in the second annual Elementary Music Festival at 3 p.m. Saturday at Appleton High School-East.

Performing choruses include Badger-Twin Willows-Woodlawn, directed by Mrs. Winnifred Neal, Jefferson-Richmond, directed by Miss Elizabeth Toepel, Edison-Franklin-Johnston, by Miss Lorraine Augustyn.

Highlands, by Mrs. Esther Mealy, Huntley, by Miss Deanna Olschlagier, Columbus-Jackson-Lincoln, by Mrs. Bonnie Busch, and Foster-McKinley, by Mrs. Helen Meinecke.

Also on the program will be the elementary honors band, under the baton of David Robinson, and the all-city elementary string orchestra, directed by Ewald Tilly.

Student involvement is on a volunteer basis and is not a required activity of the music curriculum, according to Robert Penn, department director.

The hour-long program is free and open to the public.

Backers, Opponents Of Proposed School To Voice Opinions

KAUKAUNA — A public informational forum on the proposed northside elementary school will be held at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the Civic Auditorium. People both for and against the school will have an opportunity to voice opinions.

Victor Haen, board of education president, Leo Driessen, board member, and Supt. of Schools, Julian Biehler will answer questions and explain their views on the school while Ald. Russel Dix, (4th), will voice his objections to the proposed building.

An effort was made to have other school opponents sit on a panel, but none was willing to accept. Fiscal control board members who oppose the building also were invited, but they also declined to appear as panelists. Serving as moderator will be Irving Curry, an attorney.

Union Request

A Sunday afternoon meeting was scheduled at the request of local labor unions who indicated this would be the best time to insure representation from their ranks since members work during normal week night meetings.

A referendum vote on a $1.5 million school bond issue was held Jan. 28, but the election was declared invalid after the wrong question appeared on seven of 10 Kaukauna voting machines. A second referendum on the question is scheduled in conjunction with the April 1 election.

Actual construction cost of the school is $1,125,938, with the balance of the money needed to cover architect fees, special assessments for extension of streets, sewers and water, equipping and site development.

Fremont Chamber Sponsors Pike Fishing Contest

FREMONT — A pike-o-rama will be sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce beginning the day after the ice leaves the Wolf River channel.

The contest will run for 21 days. Mercantile donated prizes will be awarded daily to the angler registering the largest walleye pike. A prize will be awarded weekly to the angler registering the largest northern pike.

The angler registering the largest northern and the one registering the largest walleye pike during the contest will each receive a grand prize of a spinning rod and reel.

Fish will be registered at Bartel Service Station at the Joe Schutkowski, 632 Walbrun intersection of Wolf River Drive, and the U.S. 10 bridge. Prizes Forest Nutter, Torrance, Calif., will be awarded according to the length of the fish. In case of a tie, the fish also will be weighed. Fish eligible for prizes must be displayed in a cooler at St. Appleton, and Dr. and Mrs. Martin Eich, 103 W. College.

Rain Is Forecast Tonight from New York through the New England states, while snow is due over up-state New York and the eastern Lakes area. Showers are expected over most of California and in parts of Nevada and Arizona. It will be colder from Arkansas to the Northeast and mild elsewhere. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Advisory Referendum Vocational Unit Urges Rejection of State Plan

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Voters are being urged by the Board of Vocational Technical and Adult Education to vote against suggestions that the state assume full authority over the new system of technical schools.

The schools, set up through the state, are primarily controlled and financed at the local level. Voters are being asked in an April 1 advisory referendum whether they think the state should assume jurisdiction.

4 Teams to Play Tourney

Badger League Sets Weyauwega Event To Close Season

MARION — The Badger Amateur Basketball Association will end its season Sunday with a four-team tournament at Weyauwega.

Pairings will have Marion meeting Manawa Teachers at 1:30 p.m. and Antigo playing Weyauwega at 3 p.m. The tourney was originally planned to match the first four teams, however, second-place New London had previous commitments for another tourney so their spot will be filled by fifth place Marion.

Antigo was the regular league champion with an 11-0 record; New London second with 7-2; Weyauwega third, 7-5; Manawa Teachers fourth, 5-4; and Marion, fifth, 3-8.

A.N. Brunner, Leopolis, league president, will present trophies following the championship game.

Pete's Barber Shop has a 50-25 record in first place followed by Romy's, 46 1/2-28 1/2, and Cmejla's Bar, 42-33.

Bowmen Plan to Elect Officers

NEW LONDON — Officers will be elected at the annual meeting of New London Bowmen March 29 at Cedar Springs Resort, Manawa.

Trophies will be presented for indoor shooting and to members bagging deer during the 1968 hunting season.

Reservations for the annual dinner meeting are to be made with Alan Rueter, 982-3494.

Ruben Lutzewitz led the sight division indoor shooting with a 270 count. Irving Rasch tallied 235 and Ron Corners, 232. John Hedtke's 269 paced the barebow shooting, with Ron Becker, 253, and Milyn Westphal with 251 trailing.

Mary Rueter topped the women's sight division with a 254 and Frances Lutzewitz tallied 175. Jean Hedtke's 168 was high in the women's bare bow.

4-H Club Plans Card Party at Bear Creek

CLINTONVILLE — The Hillside 4-H Club will sponsor a public card party at the Bear Creek town hall at 8:15 p.m. Saturday. Prizes will be awarded and lunch will be served.

The legislature, which placed the referendum question on the April ballot, has not given local school authorities sufficient time to show they can handle the system, a board member, Philip Lerman, said.

"The board should say to the legislature and the people that 'you have not given us a chance to complete our job.' Until we have finished our job, I would oppose any legislation of this type," Lerman said.

State Assistance

Joseph H. Noll, board president, advised against giving the legislature the impression the board wouldn't appreciate more state assistance.

Noll said local schools probably will have to ask legislators by 1971 to authorize more state aid, or lift the two-mill tax ceiling on local property taxes.

The vocational-technical school system was created under 1965 legislation. All school districts in the state are required to join the system by July 1, 1970.

The board has divided the system into 18 vocational-education districts.

Members of the board complained about the actual wording of the referendum petition, saying it tends to give voters a false impression that state control would mean a reduction of local taxes.

Noll said that "in all probability, the tax burden would be more—certainly not less. The difference is that the increase would be in the sales and income tax rather than the property tax."

The board has estimated it would cost the state at least $85 million to take over the system's facilities.

Calumet County Women Offered 'Knowledge Day'

CHILTON — The Calumet County Homemakers Council will sponsor the "Quest For Knowledge" series on Friday, April 18, at Chilton High School. "Quest for Knowledge" is a one-day session designed to give all women of the county an opportunity for intellectual stimulation and to explore new interests enabling them to meet the challenges and responsibilities of today's society.

One of the lectures will be on deviate behavior, by Vern Imhoff, criminal psychologist and district director of the University of Wisconsin Extension, Green Bay. Imhoff will discuss the abuse of drugs and sexual deviates with an overall view toward crime and crime problems.

Fashion Colors
The why of color in today's fashion trend will be presented by Lenore Landry, textiles and clothing division of the Extension, Madison. Her lecture will include slides showing the current fashion picture of fabrics and trends for men today. Color also will be emphasized on the current trends for women.

For the writer, Gladys Kooiman, teacher of creative writing at Waupun Christian School and author of the book, "When Death Takes a Father," will describe her feelings as she wrote the book. The book is written to help in meeting everyday crises for women who have lost their husbands and have children to raise.

Keynote speaker will be Robert Thom, vice principal at Neenah High School, whose lecture is entitled, "Pay Off." Thom is a well known speaker in Wisconsin, noted for his enthusiasm and sense of humor.

Other classes will include "What Mutual Funds Can Do For You," by Clifford Erickson, Green Bay; and "Home Beautiful," by Jim Beyer of the H. C. Prange Company, Sheboygan, who will give trends in home decorating.

The day will start with registration from 8:45 until 9:15 a.m. with the assembly featuring

Solution to Urban Woes United Fox Cities Suggested by Tarr

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA — Consolidation of the Fox Cities into one community was seen Thursday night as a possible solution to future urban problems facing the area.

Dr. Curtis Tarr, outgoing president of Lawrence University and chairman of the state task force on local government which bears his name, told a joint meeting of Outagamie and

Winnebago County Democrats. "This area needs fewer, not more, incorporated units."

He also suggested that metropolitan planning units such as the Council of Governments, should play a greater role in coordinating the problem solving effort. But, he added, state planning statutes are way out of date, the last revision having taken place in 1919.

Far in Future
Tarr said he did not think the town should be able to incorporate. "We need fewer, not more incorporated units," he responded.

Kampo's reference to three men controlling incorporations was to a task force proposal that a three-man boundary review board be created to rule on annexations. Under the present system, Tarr said, "City boundaries are extended haphazardly for political expediency and the people on both sides suffer."

He also urged support for the constitutional amendment referendum, which will be on the ballot April 1, to enact the uniformity clause for county government. If the referendum passes, counties could adopt either an elective or an appointive county executive if they so desire.

"Counties now lack the executive leadership that other units of government have," Tarr said. "The county is a kind of parliament without a prime minister."

The Air Force deputy secretary-designate said an executive budget for the county could go a long way toward coordinating the various county offices.

Major Points
Tarr touched briefly on what he termed the six major recommendations in the task force report, saying the remaining 36 recommendations all revolved around the first six.

The six were property tax revisions, education aids, highway aids, shared taxes, urban growth and county government.

The highway aid formula, Tarr said, "grew like Topsy." He added the present formula tends to favor small towns and villages and penalize the larger cities. The task force recommendation is to freeze highway aids at the 1968 level and then distribute new funds on a need basis until a new aid formula can be developed.

Shared taxes also were termed inequitable under the present system where there are nine different shared taxes with no relationship between the formula. "This system has made possible the 'tax islands,'" Tarr said.

Particular criticism was leveled at the utility tax formula. He noted that under the present utility tax sharing formula, the Town of Two Creeks in Manitowoc County, where the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. nuclear plant is being built, the utility tax will amount to 30 times the town's annual budget.

Principals Panel Plans Diocesan Parley at St. John

ST. JOHN — The first district meeting of the recently formed Diocesan Elementary Principals Association (DESPA), was held Wednesday at St. John the Baptist Catholic School. Sister Marie June Skendor, Charleburg, was moderator.

Purpose of the one-hour session was to discuss audio-visual aids, share ideas and become acquainted with material available. Similar preparatory sessions are being conducted in all regions of the Green Bay Diocese. The diocesan meeting is scheduled for March 29 at Holy Cross School, Kaukauna.

The South Central Region is composed of all Catholic schools in Calumet County and those at Greenleaf, Wrightstown, Holland Town and De Pere in Brown County.

Limiting Out-of-State Students

The most difficult thing to do in reviewing the Board of Regents decision to cut back the number of non-state residents as students at the University of Wisconsin is to divorce the act from the recent events on the campus and from the shotgun approach of some bills which have been offered as a response in the legislature. For the decision must be viewed from what is best for the university and for the taxpayers over the long pull. And the regents have made a good case from this viewpoint for their action.

The idea that trouble and student challenges would evaporate somehow if there were, for example, fewer New Yorkers on the campus is something of a knee jerk response and a grasping of a simple solution to a most complex situation. The violence last fall on the Oshkosh State University campus after protests raised by Wisconsin students got out of hand in itself should be enough to dismiss this idea.

What the regents have done is to try to balance the advantages of having a diverse student population with the cost to the taxpayer. Whether the state is, in effect, subsidizing education for students from other states which are not caring for their own students is a matter of dispute. The regents were told that nonresident tuition and fees cover a little more than actual cost of lower classmen.

But there is more involved than semester to semester operational costs. Based on enrollment projections of the Coordinating Council for Higher Education something of a plateau in total enrollment of state residents can be expected in the 1980s. The question then is whether construction required in part by continuing the present ratio of nonresident students would turn out not to be needed. This was the strongest point upon which the regents based their decision.

The point is made that a full college education should include rubbing shoulders with students from throughout the nation, particularly those of other races. This is true. But the regents' setting of a ratio of 15 per cent for non-state students by the mid-1970s compared with the present ratio of about 27 per cent hardly can be characterized as a step backward in this regard.

The regents' action does not apply to students from foreign countries and to enrollments in the graduate schools. And this should be quite another matter because of the university's standing in research and the teaching assistants which the graduate programs produce.

Billboard Proposal Sounds Good

Introduction of a bill in the legislature to control billboards on the state's highways is not an earth-shaking event. Such legislation has been proposed in each of the biennial sessions within recent memory. And on each occasion the combination of public apathy and concerted opposition by private interests with a stake in the matter has resulted in killing such legislation.

But a more concerted effort is being made in this session on behalf of a bill drawn up after long and detailed study, a bill which compromises the recognized value of the outdoor advertising industry with the public's desire to restore the scenic beauties of the rural stretches of our highways.

The legislation drafted by the Scenic Highways Committee generally would apply standards imposed by the federal government on interstate highways to the state trunk highways of Wisconsin. And our state, incidentally, was a national leader in implementing billboard control on its sections of the interstate.

It would prohibit billboards within 660 feet of each side of the center line of state highways. But it provides practical exemptions. The prohibition would not apply to the commercial and industrial sections of villages or cities, recognizing that the urban heavily trafficked highways are important to the outdoor advertising industry. And in the rural areas, signs which provide essential information to the traveling public such as for food, lodging, outdoor recreational or automobile service facilities would be permitted, one for each such service on each side of the highway and located within 12 miles of the facility. On-site signs also would be permitted.

The Department of Transportation also would encourage the construction of clusters of signs advertising tourist services in roadsides and rest areas.

All signs meeting the requirements of the law would be licensed by the highway commission, and the commission would be empowered to remove non-conforming signs after a reasonable period of time. This would apply also to signs painted on barns and silos, many of which were erected years ago and advertise obsolete products and services. The highway department could paint over such eyesores.

Experts in the tourist business, after intensive survey and study, have found that beautiful scenery such as we have so abundantly in Wisconsin is a greater tourist attraction than fishing or hunting or skiing or snowmobiling. Yet a state with as great a stake in the tourist business as Wisconsin allows its scenic beauty to be blotted out along its highways by alleys of signs of every size, shape, color and description.

Time to Outlaw the Death Penalty

The United States Supreme Court once more has before it the constitutionality of the death penalty and this time we hope it will face the matter squarely.

Last year the Supreme Court invalidated a death sentence on the procedural grounds that prospective jurors could not be eliminated if they opposed the death penalty. This had the effect of practically outlawing death sentences in many states and perhaps this is what the members of the Court had in mind. It also means that a lot of cases are going to have to be retried, adding to the already overcrowded court calendars.

At this time in our history it would appear that the death sentence can be interpreted as "cruel and unusual punishment" and therefore prohibited by the United States Constitution. It has never been demonstrated that fear of the death penalty is a deterrent to crime so the increased crime rates have no bearing on the issue. There is always the possibility of error and there is no remittance of a death sentence already carried out. In actual fact, it is little used in the United States. There were only two executions in 1967 and none in 1968.

But the fact that the death penalty still exists in some states puts the state itself in a position of determining life or death, a considerably doubtful moral position. And it could even hamper rather than help the processes of justice. James Earl Ray pleaded guilty to the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King so as to get life imprisonment instead of the death sentence, he might have received if he had fought the case. If there was a conspiracy in the case — and the presiding judge as well as Ray seemed to think so — we may never know and guilty persons will not be punished for the crime or may remain free to commit others.

In general state legislatures are moving to abolish the death penalty but a decision by the United States Supreme Court that it is unconstitutional would settle the matter.

To Err Is Human, but Fulbright Has Been Consistently in the Wrong

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

On February 25, 1963, color-blind Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman J. William Fulbright told us on TV "Don't rock the boat in Latin America." He was still congratulating himself on America's failure at the Bay of Pigs.

Dead wrong — catastrophically wrong — again and again, how does such a muddleheaded man still parade as a wise man whether in the current missile defense debate or whatnot?

Senator Fulbright opposed any kind of intervention in Cuba unless we could wait in with a group of Latin-American states, as if our country could order such a lousy state of affairs. In the absence of "collective security," Fulbright preferred to take his chances on Fidel Castro. That, typically, is his record.

HE'S ON RECORD

When this strange thinker discovered that even a trickle of intervention was moving toward the Bay of Pigs he, among others, demanded that the White House call off the U. S. air cover over the embattled men on the beaches and back away from even the incredibly fragile plans. Senator Fulbright has much to answer for in this.

A fire in his TV eye, he is on record as follows: "I am sure that if American armed forces were used unilaterally the reaction in the Western Hemisphere would be so severe that we would lose more in other countries than we would gain in Cuba."

I do not know to what beach Mr. Fulbright goes to hide his head in the sand about the Reds, but how could America conceivably lose more in other Latin American countries than by the subsequent Soviet military and political lodgment 90 miles from our shores?

Actually, the heart-sickening regret throughout Latin America is not for our intervention but that our intervention did not succeed.

SIX GOVERNMENTS FALL

Within a year and a half Russia had been so encouraged that she placed her troops and missiles in Cuba. This required President Kennedy to "confront" the U.S.S.R. Within one year Castro's subversion was so damaging that President Kennedy was forced to make a Latin American trip to tell protesting leaders in the hemisphere that there was nothing he could do about it. Six elected Latin-American governments promptly fell, including Dr. Juan Bosch's government in the Dominican Republic.

And then when President Johnson courageously moved to block a Red take-over in Santo Domingo to keep the Soviet and a second Castro out of the Caribbean, who led the loudest protest? Senator J. William Fulbright. "It is inconceivable to me that what would have happened would be a military threat to the United States," he said, leading himself to the TV cameras like a Coast Guard icebreaker.

Next came a tough and dangerous Berlin crisis. We had announced that we would stand firm against the Red pressures. Color-blind Fulbright had gone off to London to make a speech. He seized the moment to announce there: "I thoroughly disagree with the policy of the United States."

The Kremlin thinks (and hopes) it has a right to listen to the Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. How could Mr. Fulbright have made it harder for us to maintain our sworn defense of Berlin?

THEN NATO CRISIS

Next came a NATO crisis. We have been doing everything we can to hold NATO together in the defense of Western Europe and of the United States. General de Gaulle pulled out of NATO. "I think de Gaulle may be right about NATO," said Senator Fulbright.

Then off to Australia he went. He talked appeasement of North Vietnam. And the Australian roof fell in on him when he admitted in a Canberra interview that he did not even recall that Australia is supplying troops to the war in Vietnam.

Next came the bombing debate and Mr. Fulbright, an eager-running hound on any publicity track, was right out there in front demanding that President Johnson stop the bombing of North Vietnam. Again, he was as wrong as a summer duster about Hanoi's response and his pontificating and predictions, as usual, turned out to be totally unfounded. Meanwhile, the spearhead force in the Senate for the admission of Red China into the United Nations is J. William Fulbright.

To err is human, but to be wrong, repeatedly and catastrophically wrong — on such a scale as this is downright dangerous. The next time you see this muddled man sagely nodding his head on TV in his habitual way as if to say, "If you only knew what I know," remember the record.

Wisconsin Report

Supreme Court Vote Might be Quite Close On Hallows and Voss

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — There is a feeling abroad that the contest for the State Supreme Court seat in the spring elections, which some month ago appeared likely to be typically routine, may very well be more competitive and resolved by a thinner margin than most of such contests in the judicial history of the state.

When both of the contestants are using billboards, as one observer inside the judicial system remarked the other day, it probably means something. The challenging candidate evidently feels he has a fair chance to bring it off. The incumbent is not entirely certain that he is the favorite, as is the usual rule in such situations.

The incumbent candidate is E. Harold Hallows, chief of the court, and thus the titular head of the entire Wisconsin judicial system. An appointee 11 years ago who was rethe court only a year ago — to lead such a pragmatic and experienced man into such a trap.

HAS BROAD CAMPAIGN

He recently told friends that he has put into use the second automobile since he started his quiet canvass of the state a year ago. The series of testimonial dinners around the state is designed not only to raise the money with which his exceptionally energetic campaign is financed, but also to rally the establishment — the bench and bar — to uphold the tradition of tenure for sitting judges.

No doubt Judge Voss was encouraged to make his own bid by the successful election of Judge Robert Hansen over Chief Justice Currie last year. As Judge Hansen gained from his long and close association with one of the numerically important fraternal lodges, Judge Voss is one of the activists in the veterans' organizations in the state. A Purple Heart veteran of the Marines in World War II, he is a past national commander of the Military Order of the Purple Heart.

There are few candidates who would not envy such identification on their campaign literature.

SOME JUDGES MIFFED

One commentator has said that some of the lesser judiciary in Wisconsin is quietly resentful toward the state court because of its new rules that discourage outside employment by lower court judges — such as bank and savings and loan directorships. That may be. But it is far more likely that Circuit Judge Norris Maloney of Madison provided a clue the other day, in a parenthetical comment during testimony before the legislature about an important element in this election.

Many persons are restive and antagonized and concerned about the decisions that have come from the United States Supreme Court lately, he observed, and although lesser judges have no choice but to accept them, there is a very good chance that by doing so they are also inheriting some of the antagonism.

And while the U. S. Supreme Court issues its dicta in the security of lifelong tenure, their lesser ranking colleagues in the state courts — at least in Wisconsin — must concern themselves about the electorate from time to time.

Wyngaard

elected easily in 1959 for a full 10 year term, he now wants to be re-elected again so that he will be able to serve five more years until the retirement age for justices.

VOSS IS CHALLENGER

The challenger is Circuit Judge Clair Voss of Waukesha, who was elected to the trial court for the first time in 1960, was re-elected in 1965 without opposition, and is 48 years old.

On the face of it, they are worthy antagonists.

Justice Hallows can point to a distinguished pre-judicial career of law practice and the teaching of law, and a record on the court that as far as the campaign dialog has indicated compares favorably with those of other men who have served there in recent decades and those who sit there currently.

Judge Hallows has not made any easy assumptions, however, that a good record as a judge is an assurance of re-election. There have been too many exceptions to that idea in recent times — including the upset defeat of his immediate predecessor as chief of

Charity Really Does Not Begin at Home

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Not long ago in the column I mentioned the Biblical phrase, "an eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth," observing that it is invariably misunderstood by people who use it as an excuse for retaliation, when it originated as a plea for justice.

There is another common phrase that is damaged even more in popular usage, and that is, "charity begins at home." Whenever this saying is trotted out, it is to justify taking care of one's self before concerning one's self with the needs of others.

Yet this is not at all what the phrase originally meant. As first published, in 1642, in Sir Thomas Brown's "Religio Medici," it meant "charity" in the Pauline sense of "loving-kindness," not almsgiving or philanthropy.

And it did not mean that we should first "take care" of our own, but that if we do not display loving-kindness to our family and our friends, then whatever alms or philanthropy we engage in is done out of pride or vanity or ostentation, not out of deep human compassion.

I have known more than a few celebrated philanthropists who gave away huge sums to worthy causes of all sorts, but whose personal relationships were devoid of loving-kindness, and who used public magnanimity as a cloak for private skulduggery.

This common subterfuge, of course, is the reason for another widely misunderstood saying — Jesus' injunction that your left hand should not know what your right hand is doing.

If anyone troubled to read the whole verse, he would learn that Jesus is addressing himself to the philanthropists of his time, who would stand up in public and make known their large donations to charity. He is telling them to give so quietly and anonymously with one hand that not even the other hand is aware of it, much less the community.

Charity, of course, does not begin at home; it must begin where it is most needed, whether this be at home or in some remote Indian village. What must begin at home are love and respect and tender treatment of those closest to us — for unless we radiate such feelings in our daily, intimate relationships, the money we give away to others is simply a bribe, allowing us to maintain our self-esteem while we continue to injure the fabric of social life.

The poor know it and resent it when they are the objects of help without the commensurate feelings of respect; when they are aided to make the giver feel better, not because they are worthy of aid. In a psychological sense, the philanthropist needs the poor more than they need him — charity brings him honors, but brings them only scraps.

Far Out Investments - 5
Advice to the Amateur
About Valuable Books

(Editor's Note: This is the fifth column in a continuing series of reports on unconventional investments.)
BY SYLVIA PORTER
In yesterday's column, I reported to you that values of rare books and manuscripts soared a fantastic 60 per cent in 1968 — 14 times the year's rise in the Dow-Jones industrial stock average.

Today, aware of the huge profits being made in this far-out field of investment, are you wondering how you might invest a portion of your own funds and share in the rare book bonanza? You would be only human if you were, so in this column I'll give you guidelines on how you, an amateur, can participate — even in face of the fact that you will be up against a small army of professional rare book dealers, specialists, highly trained university library curators. The guidelines come from H. P. Kraus in New York City, a world-famous rare book dealer. As a general rule, rare book values are based on rarity, beauty, importance and condition. But the value of any rare book can vary wildly. Therefore, if your library contains a volume which you have reason to believe is exceedingly valuable, seek the advice of a rare book specialist (e.g., in American history, English literature, etc.). The specialist could be a library or museum curator or a university professor.

Three Key Fields
More specifically, here are the three key fields in which you can invest a portion of your savings with every reasonable expectation of seeing your investment grow in the years ahead:
1) Medical and Scientific Papers on important discoveries and inventions. In this category, reports in the London Times which maintains, with Sotheby & Co., the auctioneers, a unique index of values in art and literary works, values have jumped more than 10 times since the early 1950s. All of the great breakthroughs in modern times have appeared in articles in scientific or medical journals, generally available at very low cost when published. All you, the collector, need do is read the newspapers to learn of the important developments. As an indication of what is happening: 10 years ago, a copy of the journal in which Einstein's Theory of Relativity appeared (published in Leipzig in 1916) was worth $40-50; today it's worth $900-$600.

Might Not Halt School Closing
Effects of Parochial Pupil Tuition
Aid Measure Are Unpredictable

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Even the experts can't predict what effects state aids to parents of private school children would have on the rate at which these schools are closing.
State analysts, in a report to the Legislature, gave conflicting views. On one hand they warned that state aids may not have any impact on the rate of closing but on the other hand, the state aid program may have all of the dramatic positive effects of saving the private schools in Wisconsin.
These comments have been made in a fiscal note attached to a bill which proposes such state aids as an attempt to slow or halt the decline in public school enrollments in the state. It is strongly backed by the Citizens' for Educational Freedom (CEF).
Cost $72.8 Million
It was pointed out by the researchers that during the past five years the federal aid programs to private schools and the new state school busing law, which allows private schools to use public school transportation, have had little impact on the rate of closing.
The analysts, in making their study of one of the private school aid bills confronting the Legislature, have made those assumptions and others in estimating a biennial cost for the first two years of operation of such a program at up to $72.8 million.
That estimate comes on the basis of a bill calling for tuition grants of $200 per year per private school child affected by the bill.
The CEF endorsed program calls for private schools aids of $50 a child at the elementary school level, and $100 a child for private high school students.
The bill analysis of the measure sponsored by four Assembly Democrats assumes that private school enrollments would continue their decline which has been predicted by the state Department of Public Instruction.

The state department has estimated, on the basis of declining enrollments in past years starting with 273,000 private school students in 1965-66, that the state's private schools would enroll 202,300 such students in 1969-70, and 161,850 students in 1970-71.
No Tuition
The bill would pay a tuition grant of not more than $100 per semester for private school students.
The fiscal analysis points out that most private elementary schools do not charge a tuition, but instead are supported by donations from the parish or church operating the school. Tuition charges are applied only to students who are not members of a parish, in many cases.
Most private secondary schools have established tuition rates, the analysis points out. An assumption made in preparing the cost estimate was that all schools would immediately establish a basic tuition charge, the analysts said.
They admitted that their first year cost estimates were probably overstated at the high range, but predicted that in 1969-70, the first year of the program, the costs to state taxpayers could range between $20.2 million and $40.0 million.
The second year of the biennium is a better base on which to calculate costs, they said. They termed their estimate of $32,370,000 for 1970-71 as "realistic."

The analysis was prepared by the staff of the state Higher Educational Aids Board, with information on school enrollment projections supplied by the State Department of Public Instruction.

'Lion in Winter' Opens
New UW Theater at Marinette Saturday
MARINETTE — "The Lion in the Winter," the James Goldman historical comedy of the time of James II of England, will be the first play in the new theater on the Marinette County Campus of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay. The three-night run opens Saturday.

The 400-seat, air conditioned theater was built in 1968 at a cost of $382,000 by Marinette County citizens for university and community use. The theater has a thrust stage which projects outward into the audience area.
The theater will be used for public performances each weekend from June 28 through Aug. 18 when the community-campus Theatre-on-the-Bay Company presents summer productions.
Herbert Williams, of the UW-Green Bay drama department, is directing the student performance of "The Lion in the Winter." Performance times are 8 p.m. Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Lecture at Lawrence
Boston University composer-in-residence Garner Read will give a lecture-demonstration based on his own works at 2:15 p.m. Wednesday, April 2, in Harper Hall at Lawrence University.
His appearance is sponsored by Lawrence Conservatory as part of a free special events series.
Read holds the rank of professor of composition at Boston University's School of Fine and Applied Arts, and is editor of the Bircard Boston University Contemporary Music Series.
One of this country's most prolific composers, he also is recognized as a leading writer on the creative aspect of music. His book, "Thesaurus of Orchestral Devices," is a primary reference volume for composers and students of composition.

Pot Kept Boiling Over Issue Of Making Marijuana Legal

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

Some controversies over marijuana are growing warmer. Should "pot" be legalized? Or, at least, should severe penalties for possessing it be reduced?
Proponents of legalizing it are apparently growing in number. They argue that it is less dangerous than alcohol, which kills thousands of Americans each year. No one becomes physically addicted to pot, they say, and it doesn't kill anyone unless he accidentally harms himself under its influence. Marijuana, they assert, is safer than smoking regular cigarettes.
Proponents hold that people should have a right to enjoy a mild drug that brings them a sense of well-being, that offers a way to relax, to fantasize, to have social and intellectual communion with other people. They argue that if pot were made legal, many drinkers would give up alcohol in favor of marijuana.

Opponents counter that alcohol is so badly abused that five to six million Americans are outright alcoholics, and that marijuana has the same potential to produce an equal or greater number of people who would have problems from pot.
"Because we have run-heads, there is no reason to have potheads," is one argument. Opponents doubt that many alcoholics would give up booze, and postulate that six million "marijuanics" might come along atop all the alcoholics. The cigarette smoker, they add, can go about his usual business while he smokes, but the marijuana smoker cannot.

One likely guess, it adds, is that "given the accepted tendency of marijuana to release inhibitions, the effect of the drug will depend on the individual and the circumstances. It might, but certainly will not necessarily or inevitably, lead to aggressive behavior or crimes. The response will depend more on the individual than the drug," since there is no evidence that marijuana changes a person's basic personality structure.
Much stiffer penalties governing even simple possession of various mind-influencing drugs were imposed by Congress last fall. It became a misdemeanor — subject to fines and jail terms — to possess LSD, or to possess barbiturates and amphetamines unless you could prove that they had been prescribed for you. State laws also have been becoming tougher.

The next five to 10 years may well see a hundredfold increase in the number of drugs capable of affecting the mind, top authorities predict. Some will become new boons to treat mental and emotional ailments. And some likely will be used illegally, or abused.
Meanwhile, scientific research is being stepped up to answer vital questions about the mind drugs, and to fill in serious gaps in knowledge about them.
Exactly how many high school or college students—or adults—are using or abusing drugs, and what kinds? Why do people use or not use various drugs? What really are the psychological, social, physical or genetic effects from occasional or long-term use of various drugs?
The National Institute of Mental Health is granting funds in increasing amounts to qualified researchers, seeking answers to just such kinds of questions.
One research target is to learn what are the long-term effects of marijuana when used regularly, as against occasional smoking of the kind of "sticks" of varying potency that are available to most users in this country.

ment and Administration in a 1967 report.
"There is evidence that a majority of heroin users who come to the attention of public authorities have, in fact, had some prior experience with marijuana," the Task Force says.
"But this does not mean that one leads to the other in the sense that marijuana has an intrinsic quality that creates a heroin liability. There are too many marijuana users who do not graduate to heroin, and too many heroin addicts with no known prior use of marijuana, to support such a theory. Moreover, there is no scientific basis for such a theory."
"The most reasonable hypothesis is that some people who are predisposed to marijuana are also predisposed to heroin use. It may also be the case that through the use of marijuana, a person forms the personal associations that later expose him to heroin."

On the question of any association between marijuana and crime, "the differences of opinion are absolute and the claims beyond reconciliation," the Task Force says. It holds that neither side in this debate can prove their case.
One given guess, it adds, is that "given the accepted tendency of marijuana to release inhibitions, the effect of the drug will depend on the individual and the circumstances. It might, but certainly will not necessarily or inevitably, lead to aggressive behavior or crimes. The response will depend more on the individual than the drug," since there is no evidence that marijuana changes a person's basic personality structure.

Ancestors of Indians Came From Siberia

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 — Channel 5 — You might say it took 20,000 years or more to produce the NBC news special titled The First Americans. The program is the first in a new series of science studies and is devoted to another first, the original invaders of the American continent. Science believes that the first men to touch American soil came from Asia by a land bridge over the Bering Strait, from Siberia to Alaska. Hugh Downs, as host, takes us to an archaeological dig in the frozen wastes of Siberia, where an ancient village, believed to be about 20,000 years old, has been uncovered. From here, we are taken to the Aleutians, then Alaska, where the program shows the similarities between the ancient Mongols and the present day Eskimos. Progressing further down the continent, we are shown the paths of ancient man, from northern Canada to Washington and then on to Arizona, Mexico, Venezuela, Peru and Chile.

9-10 — Channel 5 — The great question — "Was Gone With the Wind ever seen on television?" — will be settled. Hollywood The Selznick Years, is the first entertainment outing for The Bell Telephone Hour this season. Over a million feet of film were screened to pick the choice and epic scenes shown. The stars interviewed include Ingrid Bergman, Joan Fontaine, Katharine Hepburn (heard but not seen), Joseph Cotten, Janet Gaynor, Gregory Peck, Alfred Hitchcock and Dorothy McGuire. The huge job bringing representative scenes ago, he was the resident eccentric, a curiosity for tourists to stare at and natives to shake their heads over. But when Peter the Hermit died last week at the age of 90, the event was scarcely noticed. The peculiar characters had become so profuse on Hollywood Boulevard that few paid attention to the spindly legged codger with the flowing beard. For almost 50 years, Peter Howard—that was his real name—plodded up and down the Boulevard ignoring the taunts of Philistines. Unlike the younger bearded types who now frequent the area, Peter was immaculate. He wore freshly laundered white duck pants and a white T-shirt, sometimes a white robe.

6:30-7:30 — Channel 2 — The Wild West goes East, with a Russian setting, as West and Arty get involved with royal plots and counter plots in that country. 6:30-7:30 — Channel 11 — Mama Cass Elliott is lighter by several dozen pounds, but her performance has not suffered from it, as you'll see on This Is Tom Jones. Added guests include comedian George Carlin, singers Mashed (Deja la Flor) and the Dave Clark Five (Mulberry Tree).

7:30-8 — Channel 2 — The "gimmick" on Gomer Pyle (USMC) has always been to take a tense situation and make it 10 times so through Gomer's naive and Sgt. Carter's resulting explosions. What could be more applicable than the delivery of a baby with suitable resulting problems?

7:30-9 — Channel 5 — The Name of the Game is an excellent dramatic presentation mainly

Hollywood Hermit Dies At 90; Few Take Notice

Peter Howard Once a Character, Curiosity Of Film Capital He Called 'Follywood'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Years ago, he was the resident eccentric, a curiosity for tourists to stare at and natives to shake their heads over. But when Peter the Hermit died last week at the age of 90, the event was scarcely noticed. The peculiar characters had become so profuse on Hollywood Boulevard that few paid attention to the spindly legged codger with the flowing beard. For almost 50 years, Peter Howard—that was his real name—plodded up and down the Boulevard ignoring the taunts of Philistines. Unlike the younger bearded types who now frequent the area, Peter was immaculate. He wore freshly laundered white duck pants and a white T-shirt, sometimes a white robe. Often he carried a staff, and he sometimes used it to whack the backsides of women shoppers as they strolled by. To astonished women he then delivered through the efforts of his fine British cast, Honor Blackman, plays a cunning British bar-ristor toying with both a dash of British race driver and an aging industrialist. 9-10 — Channel 11 — One of the most sensitive of court cases, child custody, is depicted on Judd for the Defense. John McMartin gives an emotionally charged portrayal as the strained father. He fears his ex-wife is taking their son to Europe to separate the boy and father permanently.

Gay Nineties Dance Replaces Junior Prom At St. Norbert College

DEPERE — "Gaslight Square" an informal dance with a Gay Nineties theme, will replace the traditional junior prom at St. Norbert College.

The spring dance will be held Saturday night in Sensenbrenner Memorial Union, which will be transformed with gazebo, old beer barrels, several beer-bratwurst stands, plus student waiters and waitresses in turn-of-the-century costumes.

The change was decided because attendance at the usual formal event last year dropped sharply, indicating lack of student interest in a prom.

The spring social event will feature four dance bands instead of one. They are the nationally known McCoys, the Outcasts, the Avant Garde and a Dixieland combo; the bands will play in different Union locations.

'A Whitman Portrait'

Tiny Audience Spoils Excellent Production

BY DAVID F. WAGNER

OSHKOSH — Despite the general excellence of the traveling company in Paul Shyre's "A Whitman Portrait," which appeared at the Grand Theater Wednesday afternoon and evening, some persons left the theater disappointed—not because of the production, but rather the tiny evening audience.

Allan Frank as Walt Whitman was very good, displaying an understanding of the great poet which went beyond a mere reading of his words. Excellent assistance in this dramatized reading was given Frank by Dennis Jones, Tom Fuccello and Janet Sarno. The sets were attractive, the costumes appropriate, the lighting effective and occasional music pleasant. In short, the production left little to be desired. And, of course, the script was of the highest quality, having been drawn from Whitman's many writings.

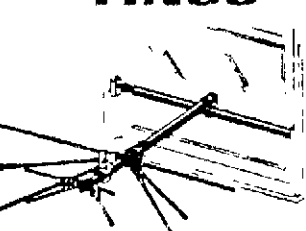

Should he Read So, production values were high and those who attended seemed to enjoy themselves, but why did the attraction have such little appeal? A clue. First, Walt Whitman was probably the most significant American writer before 1900, perhaps of all time. In fact, many of the ideas he expressed over 100 years ago are being echoed today by so-called campus rebels. Ironically, today's pushers-for-change don't even realize it because grade school and high school literature courses rarely go beyond "Oh Captain, My Captain."

One must get to college and pursue American literature before encountering any other Whitman. It is unlikely that more than a tiny percentage of today's college students have ever read Whitman's "Leaves of Grass."

It is incredible to think that the United States school systems would ignore the most important persons in the national literary history, but they do. It is even more amazing to learn that an area high school, which shall remain nameless, through one of its representatives, refused to accept the afternoon staging of this very production of "A Whitman Portrait" when it was offered free of charge—a gift of Oshkosh State University's department of English. The department sponsored the play in association with the Panorama of the Arts.
